HIKES BENEFITS BUT KEEPS TAX AT SAME LEVEL

Measure Would Make Pensions Start In 1940 And Greatly Increase Amount

ESTIMATED SAVINGS ARE FIXED AT $1,710,000,000

Changes Would Also Provide Payments For Elderly Widows And Parents

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—With only two dissenting votes, the house approved and sent to the senate today a set of amendments extending and increasing the benefits of the social security law while keeping the old age pension tax at its present level for the next three years.

The vote was 361 to 2, with Representatives Smith, Republican, Ohio, and Thill, Republican, Wisconsin, casting the negative votes. Representative Carlson, Republican, Kansas, first voted "no," then changed to "present," because he was paired with a member who favored the legislation.

The tax amendment has been hailed as a "recovery step" because it would avoid a 50 per cent increase next year in the old age insurance tax.

If the senate approves the house's action, it will mean that the working man covered by old age insurance will continue to contribute to his retirement pension 1 per cent of his pay, up to $3,000, until January 1, 1943.

In 1943, the rate will go up to 1½ per cent. Under present law, the rate is due to go up to 1½ per cent next January 1.

The employer pays the same tax as his employe.

A ways and means committee report estimated "total savings" to taxpayers during the next three years would be $1,710,000,000.

At the same time, it estimated that increased benefits would cost an additional $1,200,000,000 during the next five years. The committee said, however, that the total cost over the next 45 years would be about the same as under present law.

The committee also said that 1,100,000 additional persons—seamen, bank employes and employed persons 65 and over—would be provided old age insurance under amendments which extended coverage to these groups, and that 200,000 additional would get unemployment insurance.

Under the amendments, the government would begin paying old age insurance benefits next year, instead of waiting until 1942 as present law provides.

Furthermore, the benefits to be received by persons who reach 65—the retirement age—in the next few years would be greatly increased.

For instance, under present law a man making $100 a month would be entitled to $17.50 a month pension on January 1, 1942, if he had paid the old age tax five years (since January 1, 1937).

Under the amendments, if this man reached 65 on January 1, 1940, or thereafter, he could retire on a pension of $25.75 if he were single, or $38.63 if he were married.

The amendments also would provide pensions for elderly widows and parents and the minor children of deceased old age insurance participants, doing away with the lump sum payment to heirs as in present law.

The maximum federal contribution to states for old age assistance would be increased from $15 to $20 a month, as would the contribution for aid to the blind.

Old age assistance is intended for the indigent aged and is distinct from the old age insurance benefits. The

V. F. W. TO CLOSE ITS ENCAMPMENT IN MONROE TODAY

LIEUT.-GOV. EARL LONG IS ONE OF THE SPEAKERS

Elaborate Parade One Of Main Features Of Sessions Held Yesterday

Two glorious days replete with the reciting of reminiscences of days "over there" in 1917 and 1918 were enjoyed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries who met more than 500 strong in Monroe for the ninth annual encampment which opened Friday at Hotel Virginia.

With noisy acclaim they captured the entire downtown city of Monroe as drum and bugle corps from many cities held forth, guns boomed, flags waved and marching lines were everywhere.

Friday was a big day, ending with a ball atop Hotel Virginia and a "cootie parade" late at night.

Early Saturday morning past commanders met on the fourth floor of Hotel Virginia for the annual past commanders breakfast and at 10:30 o'clock the morning business session was called to order in the Crystal ball room by Department Commander J. V. McConnell. The women's auxiliary held its meeting at the same time as did the men but on the roof of the Virginia.

Sessions Saturday were of a business nature. Lieutenant Governor Earl K. Long was a speaker at the morning session and a report was rendered and approved from C. A. Hunt, state service commissioner. It showed that with the aid of assistants, a remarkably helpful work has been accomplished in the first year of the existence of this organization which was made possible by state legislative action. Mr. Hunt was given a rising vote of thanks for his performance.

The lieutenant governor expressed pleasure that he was invited to address the assemblage and declared that the Veterans of Foreign Wars well represent the greatest country on the globe where man can worship God, enjoy free speech and the right of public assemblage as he desires and without molestation.

Not only is America the only remaining country where this is possible but right here in Louisiana is the best example of a great state in which is perhaps the most diversified population of any state with Protestants, Catholics, Jews and other creeds, representing many races intermingled and where each is allowed free reign to enjoy the rights that a real republic offers, he said. He declared that local politics in the future, as in the past, should be kept from entering the ranks of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He assured that whether in the future he should be serving as governor or as a private citizen that he can always be called upon to aid in advancing the interests of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Administrator Moore, manager of the regional veterans' administration in New Orleans, also spoke at the morning session. He pointed out that in the 82 veterans' hospitals in the country that there are now a total of 52,683 beds and that when additional hospitals and facilities are completed, that there will be approximately 80,000 beds available in 1940 or 1941. Hitler Expected To Propose Plan For Appeasement

Sources Close To Fuehrer Profess To Be In Dark As To Nature

By Associated Press

European diplomats heard yesterday (Saturday), after another week of inconclusive diplomatic dickering, that Adolf Hitler soon would come forward with a specific proposal for world appeasement.

Reports reaching Paris from well-informed Berlin quarters said the fuehrer would unfold his proposition to the United States, Britain and France within a month.

There was no hint of the supposed nature of the plan and sources close to Hitler professed to be in the dark.

Speculation in the French capital was restrained pending determination whether the reports from Berlin might be designed to sound out the possibilities of concessions following British expressions of willingness to consider a world conference on Nazi colonial demands if Germany would renounce a policy of force.

Germany, meanwhile, continued to face a grave internal situation in Bohemia-Moravia, where stern punitive measures had been taken because of the slaying of a Nazi policeman. It was

Captain Theophile Landry of the state police made the announcement today. Yesterday a young man believed to be Gaston Rose, 19, leaped from a bridge railing.

That plunge was the fourth of its kind since the bridge has been in operation.

CZECH OFFICER SLAIN IN NACHOD

Germans Withhold Additional Punishment For Killing Of German

KLADNO, Bohemia-Moravia, June 10—(AP)—The slaying of a Czech policeman in a quarrel with German police was announced tonight shortly after the withholding of additional punitive measures against Kladno for the killing of a German police sergeant.

A German communique said the Czech policeman had been killed last night at Nachod and declared the shooting resulted from an "unfortunate chain of regrettable incidents" but gave no further details.

The impression grew, meanwhile, that German police either had apprehended the slayer of the German police sergeant or had clarified the case to their satisfaction.

An investigation of the Nachod incident was under way and those involved were being detained. Nachod is near the former frontier between Germany and Czecho-Slovakia.

The Czech version of this affair was:

The Czech policeman, Johann Mueller, and two fellow officers, were approached on a street corner by a number of German policemen, apparently intoxicated.

An exchange of words followed and the Czechs, unwilling to argue, withdrew to a small district police station and locked the doors.

The Germans followed, entered the building and began shooting. Mueller was shot in the head.

In Prague, the Reich protector for Bohemia-Moravia, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, decided to "abstain from

TWO WOMEN JAILED IN FATAL POISONING

ALEXANDRIA, La., June 10—(AP)—Two jailed women tonight awaited jury action in the death of Frank Sharbino, 31, whose vital organs the coroner said contained enough poison to "kill 10 or 12 men."

Jailed here was the widow, Mrs. Gladys Sharbino, 22. The man's niece, Mrs. Edith Phipps, 26, of Philadelphia, Pa., was being held in the Grant parish jail.

Sheriff Gillis Bowen said Mrs. Phipps admitted to him she bought a quantity of poison at a Montgomery drug store May 25, the day before Sharbino's death.

The widow expressed belief her husband might have committed suicide. She also said her husband and Mrs. Phipps quarreled over the whipping of one of the Sharbino children and that the man, a WPA laborer, threatened to "blow his brains out."

Dr. I. W. Sanford, coroner, said State Chemist C. L. Clay of New Orleans reported poison sufficient for "25 normal doses" was found in Sharbino's organs.

The coroner said his jury would meet at Montgomery Monday at 11 a.m. to report on the case and that until then no charges would be made.

Royal Couple Touched By Extraordinary Tribute Paid To Them

Haven Of Rest Welcome After Day Which Leaves Monarch Tired

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—In six hours thunderous with the welcome of more than 3,000,000 residents of a city lost long ago to his vast empire, King George and Queen Elizabeth paid a historic visit today to this metropolis of the west and bowed at the New York World's fair to a moving demonstration of affection for them.

Then, after a brief call at Columbia university, the royal Britons left at 5:15 p.m. eastern daylight time, for Hyde Park to rejoin President Roosevelt for a Sunday visit before returning to Canada for their trip back home.

Through 51 miles of city streets they rode, smiling to a roaring salute from the people and to the almost continuous roll of drums and the blare of brasses.

Before the end the tanned, slight king appeared weary though profoundly affected.

But the queen, who had brightly answered, "Isn't that a lovely thing for you to say?" when the mayor's secretary had told her on her arrival "all New Yorkers are in love with you already"—looked in the highest of spirits and vigor through it all.

In the long procession to and from the fair the king rode not on the queen's right, as is customary abroad, but on her left. He was understood to explain with a remark that was characteristic of the easy behavior of both:

"It's more American. Let us do it that way."

MEXICO SEEKING CASH FROM U. S.

Wants Money To Develop Rail Facilities For Shipment Of Oil

MEXICO CITY, June 10—(AP)—The Mexican government was reported today to be seeking cash and credit in the United States for development of efficient rail facilities across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec which would provide a direct outlet for oil sales to Japan.

Informed sources asserted Ulysses Irogoyan, former chief of the tariff and railroad section of the federal communications department, had gone to the United States to enlist the help of shipping and financial interests to back the necessary improvements.

Irogoyan was said to be representing the Mexican treasury. Official information on his trip was not forthcoming but he was expected to get in touch with both west coast and eastern interests.

The railroad across the isthmus—which runs 188 miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific side—now handles 400,000 tons of freight yearly but requires approximately $1,000,000 for immediate improvements or, one authority estimated, $10,000,000 to put it in first class condition.

Sale of oil from properties Mexico expropriated from American and other foreign concerns March 18, 1938, has been a major problem. While Mexico has completed barter deals with Italy and Germany, business men say these negotiations have not

GOVERNESS, 19, HELD FOR KIDNAPING BOY, 5

San Francisco police charged a pretty 19-year-old governess, booked as Graham Timms Gaylord, with kidnaping for ransom 5-year-old Krebe Osbern. The child was with the girl when police arrested her at a San Jose hotel, it was asserted, and a ransom note left for Mrs. Mabel Osborn, mother of the child, assertedly demanded $1,600 for his return. At the left Mrs. Osborn happily clasps her son in her arms after his safe return, at the right Miss Gaylord is shown with the child after her arrest. She was later identified as Margaret Polly Weil of Nassau, N. Y.

TEXAN HELD IN LINCOLN JAIL

Photographer Accused Of Shooting And Beating Companion Friday Night

RUSTON, La., June 10—(Special)—E. H. Broughton, about 30, an itinerant photographer of Lamesa, Tex., was being held in the Lincoln parish jail today in connection with the shooting of a fellow traveling photographer, Johnnie Walker, 30, of Carrollton, Mo., on the Ruston-Farmerville highway near here last night.

District Judge E. L. Walker fixed Broughton's bond at $5,000 for shooting with intent to murder and $500 for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Walker is confined in the Ruston-Lincoln sanitarium with a broken leg resulting from a gunshot wound in the thigh, a gunshot wound in the left hand and head injuries. His condition was not considered critical today.

Broughton and his wife met Walker in New Mexico several months ago and the three had been touring the country as photographers, according to Sheriff Bryan Thigpen. They were said to have come to Ruston from Arcadia.

Sheriff Thigpen said Broughton admitted that he and Walker had been drinking Friday night. Although Broughton could not remember "exactly what did happen," he told the sheriff that Walker had cursed him and a fist fight began in the car as the three were driving from Ruston on the Farmerville road. Broughton stated that he wanted to go to Henderson, Tex., to visit a brother who is a taxi driver there, and that Walker objected. Continuing a short distance up the road, Mrs. Broughton, who was reported as the driver, pulled in the driveway leading to the home of B. J. Taylor, city police officer of Ruston.

FOUR IN ORLEANS EXPIRE VIOLENTLY

NEW ORLEANS, June 10—(AP)—Accidents brought violent deaths to four here today.

One of the victims was Sam Tomasovich, 25, who was knocked 35 feet to the ground when he came in contact with an electric wire while employed on a steel framework project. He suffered a fractured skull.

Aline Collins, 14, brought here from Golden Meadows for treatment of burns, died in Charity hospital. Flames from a stove at her home spread to a gasoline-soaked dress she was handling.

Salvadore LaRocca, 55, died from a skull fracture caused by a fall from a scaffold. He was supervising work at the West Side clinic in Algiers. He was the father of Dr. Henry LaRocca of the clinic.

Harry E. Dickinson, Jr., 27, the fourth fatality, died from injuries received on April 23 when he was knocked from his motocycle in a traffic accident.

DOG'S GRIEF WINS TRIP BY AIRPLANE

OAKLAND, Calif., June 10—(AP)—A mongrel dog's demonstration of grief won him an airplane trip which reunited him with the family that left him behind.

Miss Mary Hughston brought the dog, "Sport," here from Tucson, Ariz., in a transport plane. Arthur Buckalew, chef who left the dog in a neighbor's care when he came here with his family in search of work, welcomed his pet, although he still is unemployed.

Miss Hughston said the dog haunted the Tucson home vacated by the Buckalews and refused to eat.

"The neighbors in Tucson must think I am slightly crazy," she said, "but that dog's misery was too touching for a mere human to understand. He would have died of a broken heart."

NEW DESTROYER DISPLAYS TRICKS

U. S. S. Hammann Does Practically Everything But Loop-The-Loop

By Gregory Hewlett

ABOARD U. S. S. HAMMANN AT SEA, June 10—(AP)—They called on this new $5,500,000 destroyer to show her tricks today—and she answered by doing everything, figuratively speaking, but a loop-the-loop in the broad Atlantic.

What she did do was "astounding"—in the words of Senator Ernest Lundeen, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite—and breath-taking to other civilians aboard. For example, she raced through the water off Fire island at between 39 and 40 knots (43 to 44 miles an hour to landlubbers), stopped dead in 58 seconds or 2 1-2 lengths, turned like a racing car on a half-mile track, and speeded 20 knots astern, that is, in reverse.

The occasion for her strutting her stuff was her "builder's trials"—one of three trial voyages staged before the United States navy accepts her officially from her builder, the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company. Aboard to watch her tricks were ranking navy officers, civilian representatives, and, for the first time in recent naval history, a group of newspaper men.

The 341-foot, 1,500-ton ship, one of a dozen of her type, was launched February 4. She was named for the late Ensign Charles Hazeltine Hammann of the United States naval re-

FLAG WEEK PROCLAIMED

WANTS TAXES FOR SCHOOLS 'SACRED'

Tugwell Asserts Revenues From Severance Levy Should Not Be Diverted

BATON ROUGE, La., June 10—(AP)—State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said today that it was his opinion severance tax revenues should be reserved as "sacred" for public schools and state oil royalties should be dedicated toward supporting state trade schools and colleges.

The treasurer said a present shortage in school funds came about through demands on severance tax revenues for purposes other than for education and the shortage was not due to any decrease in the severance tax yield.

State royalty payments now are credited to the state's general fund.

Tugwell's statement followed a meeting of the New Orleans Classroom Teachers federation at which the teachers discussed means for obtaining additional salary funds.

One speaker, Mrs. Sarah Reeder, said reduced property tax assessments and reduced severance tax revenues, in the face of increasing oil production, brought about the shortage in school funds which makes salary raises impossible for the present.

Tugwell said severance tax revenues this year approximate the yield last year but the 1938 legislature made appropriations from that portion of the severance taxes usually reserved for the schools.

This, he said, caused a school shortage of more than $1,000,000 and the state is borrowing funds to make up the deficit.

"In my opinion," Tugwell said, "the severance tax should be made a sacred fund for the exclusive use of the public schools and the royalties received from state-owned leases should be dedicated to trade schools and state colleges operated under the supervision of the department of education.

"I believe this would place the public schools and the educational institutions on a safer, sounder financial basis."

END OF MARITIME STRIKE FORESEEN

NEW ORLEANS, June 10—(AP)—The end of a National Maritime union strike against five oil companies involving 14 gulf ports was foreseen today by a union official who said a vote would be taken Monday night on the question of a return to work.

Members of the union, a C. I. O. affiliate, struck April 17 but Charles DeGress, secretary-treasurer of the gulf district of the organization, said:

"There is no longer any strike. We have been locked out by the companies who are now using one ship to transport the oil formerly carried in two vessels. It's now a question with us of getting our jobs back."

The vote, he said, would be taken among gulf district locals.

Voyageurs from all parts of the Fifth congressional district are planning to attend the big "wreck" of Forty and Eight that will be held at Tallulah Monday at 7:30 p. m. Monroe will send a large group headed by Chef de Gare Sam Rubin.

The Tallulah group will assist in inducting eight groups of candidates from cities and towns of the district, the "wreck" being held at the Scott Nichols Voak post No. 100 of the American Legion in Tallulah.

Commander Johnny Elgerson, of the Tallulah post, will entertain the visiting voyageurs with an elaborate barbecue. The Monroe "wrecking crew," headed by Dr. R. L. Wood, will stage a series of new initiation features which promise a maximum amount of amusement, it is assured.

It was assured Saturday that the entire district will be unusually well represented. Among those who are expected to attend will be State Grand Chef Edwin Myers of Thibodeaux, La., and State Grand Conducteur Jesse De Armond of Monroe.

BRIDGE PATROLLED TO HALT SUICIDES

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—(AP)—State police today began a 24-hour patrol of the 150-foot high Huey P. Long bridge over the Mississippi river to prevent suicides from the span.

Captain Theophile Landry of the state police made the announcement today. Yesterday a young man believed to be Gaston Rose, 19, leaped from a bridge railing.

That plunge was the fourth of its kind since the bridge has been in operation.

Sources Close To Fuehrer Profess To Be In Dark As To Nature

(By Associated Press)

European diplomats heard yesterday (Saturday), after another week of inconclusive diplomatic dickering, that Adolf Hitler soon would come forward with a specific proposal for world appeasement.

Reports reaching Paris from well-informed Berlin quarters said the fuehrer would unfold his proposition to the United States, Britain and France within a month.

There was no hint of the supposed nature of the plan and sources close to Hitler professed to be in the dark.

Speculation in the French capital was restrained pending determination whether the reports from Berlin might be designed to sound out the possibilities of concessions following British expressions of willingness to consider a world conference on Nazi colonial demands if Germany would renounce a police of force.

Germany, meanwhile, continued to face a grave internal situation in Bohemia-Moravia, where stern punitive measures had been taken because of the slaying of a Nazi policeman. It was

CZECH OFFICER SLAIN IN NACHOD

Germans Withhold Additional Punishment For Killing Of German

KLADNO, Bohemia-Moravia, June 10.—(AP)—The slaying of a Czech policeman in a quarrel with German police was announced tonight shortly after the withholding of additional punitive measures against Kladno for the killing of a German police sergeant.

A German communique said the Czech policeman had been killed last night at Nachod and declared the shooting resulted from an "unfortunate chain of regrettable incidents" but gave no further details.

The impression grew, meanwhile, that German police either had apprehended the slayer of the German police sergeant or had clarified the case to their satisfaction.

An investigation of the Nachod incident was under way and those involved were being detained. Nachod is near the former frontier between Germany and Czecho-Slovakia.

The Czech version of this affair was:

The Czech policeman, Johann Mueller, and two fellow officers, were approached on a street corner by a number of German policemen, apparently intoxicated.

An exchange of words followed and the Czechs, unwilling to argue, withdrew to a small district police station and locked the doors.

The Germans followed, entered the building and began shooting. Mueller was shot in the head.

In Prague, the Reich protector for Bohemia-Moravia, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, decided to "abstain from

TWO WOMEN JAILED IN FATAL POISONING

ALEXANDRIA, La., June 10.—(AP)—Two jailed women tonight awaited jury action in the death of Frank Sharbino, 31, whose vital organs the coroner said contained enough poison to "kill 10 or 12 men."

Jailed here was the widow, Mrs. Gladys Sharbino, 22. The man's niece, Mrs. Edith Phipps, 26, of Philadelphia, Pa., was being held in the Grant parish jail.

Sheriff Gillis Bowen said Mrs. Phipps admitted to him she bought a quantity of poison at a Montgomery drug store May 25, the day before Sharbino's death.

The widow expressed belief her husband might have committed suicide. She also said her husband and Mrs. Phipps quarreled over the whipping of one of the Sharbino children and that the man, a WPA laborer, threatened to "blow his brains out."

Dr. I. W. Sanford, coroner, said State Chemist C. L. Clay of New Orleans reported poison sufficient for "25 normal doses" was found in Sharbino's organs.

The coroner said his jury would meet at Montgomery Monday at 11 a.m. to report on the case and that until then no charges would be made.

3,000,000 See King In New York

LATER GO TO RESIDENCE OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Haven Of Rest Welcome After Day Which Leaves Monarch Tired

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—In six hours thunderous with the welcome of more than 3,000,000 residents of a city lost long ago to his vast empire, King George and Queen Elizabeth paid a historic visit today to this metropolis of the west and bowed at the New York World's fair to a moving demonstration of affection for them.

Then, after a brief call at Columbia university, the royal Britons left at 5:15 p.m. eastern daylight time, for Hyde Park to rejoin President Roosevelt for a Sunday visit before returning to Canada for their trip back home.

Through 51 miles of city streets they rode, smiling to a roaring salute from the people and to the almost continuous roll of drums and the blare of brasses.

Before the end the tanned, slight king appeared weary though profoundly affected.

But the queen—who had brightly answered, "isn't that a lovely thing for you to say?" when the mayor's secretary had told her on her arrival "all New Yorkers are in love with you already"—looked in the highest of spirits and vigor through it all.

In the long procession to and from the fair the king rode not on the queen's right, as is customary abroad, but on her left. He was understood to explain, with a remark that was characteristic of the easy behavior of both:

"It's more American. Let us do it that way."

MEXICO SEEKING CASH FROM U. S.

Wants Money To Develop Rail Facilities For Shipment Of Oil

MEXICO CITY, June 10.—(AP)—The Mexican government was reported today to be seeking cash and credit in the United States for development of efficient rail facilities across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec which would provide a direct outlet for oil sales to Japan.

Informed sources asserted Ulysses Irogoyan, former chief of the tariff and railroad section of the federal communications department, had gone to the United States to enlist the help of shipping and financial interests to back the necessary improvements.

Irogoyan was said to be representing the Mexican treasury. Official information on his trip was not forthcoming but he was expected to get in touch with both west coast and eastern interests.

The railroad across the isthmus—which runs 188 miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific side—now handles 400,000 tons of freight yearly but requires approximately $1,000,000 for immediate improvements or, one authority estimated, $10,000,000 to put it in first class condition.

Sale of oil from properties Mexico expropriated from American and other foreign concerns March 18, 1938, has been a major problem. While Mexico has completed barter deals with Italy and Germany, business men say these negotiations have not

San Francisco police charged a pretty 19-year-old governess, booked as Graham Timms Gaylord, with kidnaping for ransom 5-year-old Krehe Osborn. The child was with the girl when police arrested her at a San Jose hotel, it was asserted, and a ransom note left for Mrs. Mabel Osborn, mother of the child, assertedly demanded $1,600 for his return. At the left Mrs. Osborn happily clasps her son in her arms after his safe return, at the right Miss Gaylord is shown with the child after her arrest. TEXAN HELD IN LINCOLN JAIL

Photographer Accused Of Shooting And Beating Companion Friday Night

RUSTON, La., June 10.—(Special)—E. H. Broughton, about 30, an itinerant photographer of Lamesa, Tex., was being held in the Lincoln parish jail today in connection with the shooting of a fellow traveling photographer, Johnnie Walker, 30, of Carrollton, Mo., on the Ruston-Farmerville highway near here last night.

District Judge E. L. Walker fixed Broughton's bond at $5,000 for shooting with intent to murder and $500 for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Walker is confined in the Ruston-Lincoln sanitarium with a broken leg resulting from a gunshot wound in the thigh, a gunshot wound in the left hand and head injuries. His condition was not considered critical today.

Broughton and his wife met Walker in New Mexico several months ago and the three had been touring the country as photographers, according to Sheriff Bryan Thigpen. They were said to have come to Ruston from Arcadia.

Sheriff Thigpen said Broughton admitted that he and Walker had been drinking Friday night. Although Broughton could not remember "exactly what did happen," he told the sheriff that Walker had cursed him and a fist fight began in the car as the three were driving from Ruston on the Farmerville road. Broughton stated that he wanted to go to Henderson, Tex., to visit a brother, who is a taxi driver there, and that Walker objected. Continuing a short distance up the road, Mrs. Broughton, who was reported as the driver, pulled in the driveway leading to the home of B. J. Taylor, city police officer of Ruston.

FOUR IN ORLEANS EXPIRE VIOLENTLY

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—(AP)—Accidents brought violent deaths to four here today.

One of the victims was Sam Tomasovich, 25, who was knocked 35 feet to the ground when he came in contact with an electric wire while employed on a steel framework project. He suffered a fractured skull.

Aline Collins, 14, brought here from Golden Meadows for treatment of burns, died in Charity hospital. Flames from a stove at her home spread to a gasoline-soaked dress she was handling.

Salvadore LaRocca, 55, died from a skull fracture caused by a fall from a scaffold. He was supervising work at the West Side clinic in Algiers. He was the father of Dr. Henry LaRocca of the clinic.

Harry E. Dickinson, Jr., 27, the fourth fatality, died from injuries received on April 23 when he was knocked from his motocycle in a traffic accident.

DOG'S GRIEF WINS TRIP BY AIRPLANE

OAKLAND, Calif., June 10.—(AP)—A mongrel dog's demonstration of grief won him an airplane trip which reunited him with the family that left him behind.

Miss Mary Hughston brought the dog, "Sport," here from Tucson, Ariz., in a transport plane. Arthur Buckalew, chef who left the dog in a neighbor's care when he came here with his family in search of work, welcomed his pet, although he still is unemployed.

Miss Hughston said the dog haunted the Tucson home vacated by the Buckalews and refused to eat.

"The neighbors in Tucson must think I am slightly crazy," she said, "but that dog's misery was too touching for a mere human to understand. He would have died of a broken heart."

NEW DESTROYER DISPLAYS TRICKS

U. S. S. Hammann Does Practically Everything But Loop-The-Loop

By Gregory Hewlett

ABOARD U. S. S. HAMMANN AT SEA, June 10.—(AP)—They called on this new $5,500,000 destroyer to show her tricks today—and she answered by doing everything, figuratively speaking, but a loop-the-loop in the broad Atlantic.

What she did do was "astounding"—in the words of Senator Ernest Lundeen, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite—and breath-taking to other civilians aboard. For example, she raced through the water off Fire island at between 39 and 40 knots (43 to 44 miles an hour to landlubbers), stopped dead in 58 seconds or 2 1-2 lengths, turned like a racing car on a half-mile track, and speeded 20 knots astern, that is, in reverse.

The occasion for her strutting her stuff was her "builder's trials"—one of three trial voyages staged before the United States navy accepts her officially from her builder, the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company. Aboard to watch her tricks were ranking navy officers, civilian representatives, and, for the first time in recent naval history, a group of newspaper men.

The 341-foot, 1,500-ton ship, one of a dozen of her type, was launched February 4. She was named for the late Ensign Charles Hazeltine Hammann of the United States naval re-

FLAG WEEK PROCLAIMED

BATON ROUGE, La., June 10.—(AP)—Governor Richard W. Leche today proclaimed the week of June 11-17 as Flag week during which he urged special patriotic celebrations, especially on June 14, the 162nd anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the official emblem of the United States.

WANTS TAXES FOR SCHOOLS 'SACRED'

Tugwell Asserts Revenues From Severance Levy Should Not Be Diverted

BATON ROUGE, La., June 10.—(AP)—State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said today that it was his opinion severance tax revenues should be reserved as "sacred" for public schools and state oil royalties should be dedicated toward supporting state trade schools and colleges.

The treasurer said a present shortage in school funds came about through demands on severance tax revenues for purposes other than for education and the shortage was not due to any decrease in the severance tax yield.

State royalty payments now are credited to the state's general fund.

Tugwell's statement followed a meeting of the New Orleans Classroom Teachers federation at which the teachers discussed means for obtaining additional salary funds.

One speaker, Mrs. Sarah Reeder, said reduced property tax assessments and reduced severance tax revenues, in the face of increasing oil production, brought about the shortage in school funds which makes salary raises impossible for the present.

Tugwell said severance tax revenues this year approximate the yield last year but the 1938 legislature made appropriations from that portion of the severance taxes usually reserved for the schools.

This, he said, caused a school shortage of more than $1,000,000 and the state is borrowing funds to make up the deficit.

"In my opinion," Tugwell said, "the severance tax should be made a sacred fund for the exclusive use of the public schools and the royalties received from state-owned leases should be dedicated to trade schools and state colleges operated under the supervision of the department of education.

"I believe this would place the public schools and the educational institutions on a safer, sounder financial basis."

END OF MARITIME STRIKE FORESEEN

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—(AP)—The end of a National Martime union strike against five oil companies involving 14 gulf ports was foreseen today by a union official who said a vote would be taken Monday night on the question of a return to work.

Members of the union, a C. I. O. affiliate, struck April 17 but Charles DeGress, secretary-treasurer of the gulf district of the organization, said:

"There is no longer any strike. We have been locked out by the companies who are now using one ship to transport the oil formerly carried in two vessels. It's now a question with us of getting our jobs back."

The vote, he said, would be taken among gulf district locals.

HIKES BENEFITS BUT KEEPS TAX AT SAME LEVEL

Changes Would Also Provide Payments For Elderly Widows And Parents

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—With only two dissenting votes, the house approved and sent to the senate today a set of amendments extending and increasing the benefits of the social security law while keeping the old age pension tax at its present level for the next three years.

The vote was 361 to 2, with Representatives Smith, Republican, Ohio, and Thill, Republican, Wisconsin, casting the negative votes. Representative Carlson, Republican, Kansas, first voted "no," then changed to "present," because he was paired with a member who favored the legislation.

The tax amendment has been hailed as a "recovery step" because it would avoid a 50 per cent increase next year in the old age insurance tax.

If the senate approves the house's action, it will mean that the working man covered by old age insurance will continue to contribute to his retirement pension 1 per cent of his pay, up to $3,000, until January 1, 1943.

In 1943, the rate will go up to 1½ per cent. Under present law, the rate is due to go up to 1½ per cent next January 1.

The employer pays the same tax as his employe.

A ways and means committee report estimated "total savings" to taxpayers during the next three years would be $1,710,000,000.

At the same time, it estimated that increased benefits would cost an additional $1,200,000,000 during the next five years. The committee said, however, that the total cost over the next 45 years would be about the same as under present law.

The committee also said that 1,100,000 additional persons—seamen, bank employes and employed persons 65 and over—would be provided old age insurance under amendments which extended coverage to these groups, and that 200,000 additional would get unemployment insurance.

Under the amendments, the government would begin paying old age insurance benefits next year, instead of waiting until 1942 as present law provides.

Furthermore, the benefits to be received by persons who reach 65—the retirement age—in the next few years would be greatly increased.

For instance, under present law a man making $100 a month would be entitled to $17.50 a month pension on January 1, 1942, if he had paid the old age tax five years (since January 1, 1937).

Under the amendments, if this man reached 65 on January 1, 1940, or thereafter, he could retire on a pension of $25.75 if he were single, or $38.63 if he were married.

The amendments also would provide pensions for elderly widows and parents and the minor children of deceased old age insurance participants, doing away with the lump sum payment to heirs as in present law.

The maximum federal contribution to states for old age assistance would be increased from $15 to $20 a month, as would the contribution for aid to the blind.

Old age assistance is intended for the indigent aged and is distinct from the old age insurance benefits. The

Junior Police Finish 4th Year Of Safety Direction

Medals Awarded Outstanding Members By Goza; To Reform Cycle Club

Junior police of the eight grammar schools in Monroe, under the guidance of teachers, principals and their organizer and director, Police Officer R. J. Goza, have just completed another successful year of accident prevention and safety education.

No accident of a more than negligible nature occurred at any of the schools during the year and, although the junior police organization does not presume to take complete credit for this, there is no doubt that the safety watches of the boys and girls who wore the Sam Browne belts and badges of the junior police, together with the safety lectures of Officer Goza and the suggestions and constructive criticisms of teachers and principals, was responsible to a large extent for the outstanding safety record.

On the basis of fatal accident statistics of schools over the nation, it is estimated that the junior police program has saved two lives each year at each of the seven grammar schools in Monroe. For the four years of its activities, the junior organization has saved 56 lives, according to these figures.

No Fatal Accidents

As far as fatal accidents enter into the picture—and they enter in bold relief—the local schools have a perfect record for the four years, not one school child having been killed or fatally injured in an accident in a school building, on school grounds or in streets and intersections adjoining schools.

While the junior police is an honor organization and every member of it must maintain an excellent scholastic standing and faithfully discharge his or her duties, there is made each year a selection, difficult to arrive at, of members who have given unusually meritorious service. These junior police are awarded highly prized medals.

At one school, for instance—the Georgia Tucker school—two junior police, Harvey Crogan and Tommy Wright, both gave such distinctive attention to duty that it could not be decided which of them should receive the award. The matter was settled by awarding each a medal.

Gave Life To Save Sister

The medals are attractive silver emblems bearing, in raised pattern the figure of the Statue of Justice holding a sword in one hand and scales in the other. The medals are attached to a ribbon and pin so that they can be worn on the breast on special occasions.

On the back of the medals is inscribed: "Junior Police Safety Award."

Officer Goza presented the medals to the outstanding junior police at commencement exercises held at their respective schools. The occasions were as notable an event in the lives of the youths as the receiving of a military medal is in the life of a soldier.

Sam Rubin, Monroe jewelry store operator, gave the medals to the junior police movement.

There was one other medal awarded for outstanding service of a junior police officer, and this award was made for the highest service that anyone can give. Wesley Murrell Thompson, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson, gave his life in saving that of his sister, Edna Lee, 8, when a boat in which they were playing in Bayou DeSiard, near their home in Crescent Bend addition, capsized on April 27. Calmly telling his sister to "hold on to my neck," the youth was able to take her to a tree in the bayou. She grasped the tree and was saved, but because of exhaustion or cramps he went down beneath the surface to a hero's death. Presentation of a medal for this act was made by Officer Goza to young Thompson's mother during funeral services held at the Monroe First Baptist church.

Must Register Bicycles

Now that the junior police have completed another successful school year and are enjoying, like all school children, their summer vacations, Officer Goza is making plans for the annual reorganization of the summer bicycle club which he first formed two years ago.

To be eligible for membership in the club, boys and girls of Monroe and West Monroe must have registered at Monroe police headquarters the trade name and serial number of their bicycles, the size of their bicycles and descriptions of them. This information, filed under two systems, one listing serial numbers and one listing the owners' names, for rapid findings, has enabled police to recover a large per cent of bicycles stolen in the Twin Cities and has resulted in breaking up several locally operated bicycle theft rings and several rings in which stolen bicycles were transported to various towns in northeast Louisiana.

Sometimes a police officer walking his beat or patroling in an automobile has spotted and recovered a stolen bicycle; sometimes a bicycle suspected stolen has been traced through its several parts to several stolen bicycles; sometimes peace officers in various towns of the Monroe area, suspecting that stolen bicycles were being sold in their communities, have quickly verified their suspicions by telephoning Monroe police headquarters—all because of the index system of recording bicycles of boys and girls of Monroe and West Monroe.

Plans Club Outings

Officer Goza, in planning for the annual reorganization of the bicycle club, will arrange several bicycle parades and tours and will contact local merchants for the "promotion" of "hot dogs," buns, bottle drinks and other things necessary for a park outing climaxing one or more of the bicycle tours.

Having an unusual capability for winning the confidence, respect and discipline of his young friends, Officer Goza again will lecture them on safety in bicycle riding. He makes the lectures so interesting and connotes such a distinction in membership in the bicycle club that his young charges consider it an enjoyable privilege to hear the words of the blue-clad, motorcycle riding officer, and to ride behind him as he leads their bicycle processions.

Officer Goza is giving the bicycle riders time in which to adjust themselves to their vacation periods, and will announce through the newspapers within a week or two the date for the annual reorganization of the bicycle club.

MASS MEETING IS HELD FRIDAY

Liquor Selling On Sunday Discussed; New Committee To Report Later

After a report embodying suggestions concerning the sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday in Ouachita parish had been returned at a mass meeting held in the West Monroe First Methodist church Friday night, a second committee was named to draw up broader and more comprehensive resolutions. This committee, headed by R. L. Mitchell, will report two weeks from last Friday night at the same place and their resolution if approved will be presented to the Ouachita parish police jury and the city administrations of the Twin Cities asking that ordinances be passed in accordance with suggestions made.

The mass meeting, which was well attended, was presided over by F. L. Stricklin, teacher in the Ouachita Parish High school.

George Lester, assistant district attorney, made report of the recommendations of an original committee named three weeks ago and composed of, besides Mr. Lester, Lloyd Warren, president of the Ouachita parish police jury, H. M. Williams, Jr., mayor of West Monroe, Milton Coverdale, sheriff of Ouachita parish, John McCormick, city attorney of West Monroe, and S. L. Digby, city attorney of Monroe. The committee's report was to the effect that all dance halls, night clubs, road houses and saloons be closed Sunday at 2 a.m. and remain closed until 6 a.m. Monday. Also that all places where beer or other intoxicating liquor are sold, aside from places in the previous list, should remove all display of these liquors and that their sale be prohibited between the hours previously named on Sunday.

It was argued that the report was not sufficiently extensive and that other regulations should be incorporated in a second report to be rendered by a new committee. One of the matters that will be considered and will doubtless be included in the next report, submitted two weeks later, will deal with the employment of minor boys and girls in the sale and serving of intoxicating liquors.

Junior Police Finish 4th Year Of Safety Direction

Medals Awarded Outstanding Members By Goza; To Re-form Cycle Club

Junior police of the eight grammar schools in Monroe, under the guidance of teachers, principals and their organizer and director, Police Officer R. J. Goza, have just completed another successful year of accident prevention and safety education.

No accident of a more than negligible nature occurred at any of the schools during the year and, although the junior police organization does not presume to take complete credit for this, there is no doubt that the safety watches of the boys and girls who wore the Sam Browne belts and badges of the junior police, together with the safety lectures of Officer Goza and the suggestions and constructive criticisms of teachers and principals, was responsible to a large extent for the outstanding safety record.

On the basis of fatal accident statistics of schools over the nation, it is estimated that the junior police program has saved two lives each year at each of the seven grammar schools in Monroe. For the four years of its activities, the junior organization has saved 56 lives, according to these figures.

No Fatal Accidents

As far as fatal accidents enter into the picture—and they enter in bold relief—the local schools have a perfect record for the four years, not one school child having been killed or fatally injured in an accident in a school building, on school grounds or in streets and intersections adjoining schools.

While the junior police is an honor organization and every member of it must maintain an excellent scholastic standing and faithfully discharge his or her duties, there is made each year a selection, difficult to arrive at, of members who have given unusually meritorious service. These junior police are awarded highly prized medals.

At one school, for instance—the Georgia Tucker school—two junior police, Harvey Crogan and Tommy Wright, both gave such distinctive attention to duty that it could not be decided which of them should receive the award. The matter was settled by awarding each a medal.

Junior police receiving the medals at the other schools were as follows: Sherrouse school, Billy Manes; Lida Benton school, Jack Allen; St. Matthew's school, Frank O'Brien; Barkdull Faulk school, Richard Touchstone; Central Grammar school, Wayne Barentyne; Ouachita Parish Grammar school, William Roland.

Gave Life To Save Sister

The medals are attractive silver emblems bearing, in raised pattern the figure of the Statue of Justice holding a sword in one hand and scales in the other. The medals are attached to a ribbon and pin so that they can be worn on the breast on special occasions.

On the back of the medals is inscribed: "Junior Police Safety Award."

Officer Goza presented the medals to the outstanding junior police at commencement exercises held at their respective schools. The occasions were as notable an event in the lives of the youths as the receiving of a military medal is in the life of a soldier.

Sam Rubin, Monroe jewelry store operator, gave the medals to the junior police movement.

There was one other medal awarded for outstanding service of a junior police officer, and this award was made for the highest service that anyone can give. Wesley Murrell Thompson, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson, gave his life in saving that of his sister, Edna Lee, 8, when a boat in which they were playing in Bayou DeSiard, near their home in Crescent Bend addition, capsized on April 27. Calmly telling his sister to "hold on to my neck," the youth was able to take her to a tree in the bayou. She grasped the tree and was saved, but because of exhaustion or cramps he went down beneath the surface to a hero's death. Presentation of a medal for this act was made by Officer Goza to young Thompson's mother during funeral services held at the Monroe First Baptist church.

Must Register Bicycles

Now that the junior police have completed another successful school year and are enjoying, like all school children, their summer vacations, Officer Goza is making plans for the annual reorganization of the summer bicycle club which he first formed two years ago.

To be eligible for membership in the club, boys and girls of Monroe and West Monroe must have registered at Monroe police headquarters the trade name and serial number of their bicycles, the size of their bicycles and descriptions of them. This information, filed under two systems, one listing serial numbers and one listing the owners' names, for rapid findings, has enabled police to recover a large per cent of bicycles stolen in the Twin Cities and has resulted in breaking up several locally operated bicycle theft rings and several rings in which stolen bicycles were transported to various towns in northeast Louisiana.

Sometimes a police officer walking his beat or patroling in an automobile has spotted and recovered a stolen bicycle; sometimes a bicycle suspected stolen has been traced through its several parts to several stolen bicycles; sometimes peace officers in various towns of the Monroe area, suspecting that stolen bicycles were being sold in their communities, have quickly verified their suspicions by telephoning Monroe police headquarters—all because of the index system of recording bicycles of boys and girls of Monroe and West Monroe.

Plans Club Outings

Officer Goza, in planning for the annual reorganization of the bicycle club, will arrange several bicycle parades and tours and will contact local merchants for the "promotion" of "hot dogs," buns, bottle drinks and other things necessary for a park outing climaxing one or more of the bicycle tours.

Having an unusual capability for winning the confidence, respect and discipline of his young friends, Officer Goza again will lecture them on safety in bicycle riding. He makes the lectures so interesting and connotes such a distinction in membership in the bicycle club that his young charges consider it an enjoyable privilege to hear the words of the blue-clad, motorcycle riding officer, and to ride behind him as he leads their bicycle processions.

Officer Goza is giving the bicycle riders time in which to adjust themselves to their vacation periods, and will announce through the newspapers within a week or two the date for the annual reorganization of the bicycle club.

NAMES COMMITTEE FOR TRADE TRIPS

Lee Hodges, president of the junior board of the Chamber of Commerce has named a committee to have charge of good will trips to be made by local merchants. The committee comprises: Hal Hodges, chairman; Clyde Hatchell, L. E. Mathis, J. L. Ewing, Ned Hightower and J. T. Conger.

It is planned to make several trips which will be similar to those made a year ago. One will be late in the present month and a second one will be made in the late fall.

MASS MEETING IS HELD FRIDAY

Liquor Selling On Sunday Discussed; New Committee To Report Later

After a report embodying suggestions concerning the sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday in Ouachita parish had been returned at a mass meeting held in the West Monroe First Methodist church Friday night, a second committee was named to draw up broader and more comprehensive resolutions. This committee, headed by R. L. Mitchell, will report two weeks from last Friday night at the same place and their resolution if approved will be presented to the Ouachita parish police jury and the city administrations of the Twin Cities asking that ordinances be passed in accordance with suggestions made.

The mass meeting, which was well attended, was presided over by F. L. Stricklin, teacher in the Ouachita Parish High school.

George Lester, assistant district attorney, made report of the recommendations of an original committee named three weeks ago and composed of, besides Mr. Lester, Lloyd Warren, president of the Ouachita parish police jury; H. M. Williams, Jr., mayor of West Monroe; Milton Coverdale, sheriff of Ouachita parish; John McCormick, city attorney of West Monroe, and S. L. Digby, city attorney of Monroe. The committee's report was to the effect that all dance halls, night clubs, road houses and saloons be closed Sunday at 2 a.m. and remain closed until 6 a.m. Monday. Also that all places where beer or other intoxicating liquor are sold, aside from places in the previous list, should remove all display of these liquors and that their sale be prohibited between the hours previously named on Sunday.

It was argued that the report was not sufficiently extensive and that other regulations should be incorporated in a second report to be rendered by a new committee. One of the matters that will be considered and will doubtless be included in the next report, submitted two weeks later, will deal with the employment of minor boys and girls in the sale and serving of intoxicating liquors.

FARMERS MEET FOR FIELD DAY

Calhoun Experiment Station Officials Explain Test Results

Ouachita parish farmers interested in truck crops and fruits attended the annual horticultural field day at the North Louisiana Experiment station at Calhoun Saturday.

The program for the field day, which began at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, included inspection of experimental plots of watermelons, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, and other crops being tested at the station. N. D. Morgan, horticulturist, explained the results of cultural and fertilizer experiments to the group.

Mr. Morgan, assisted by J. G. Richard, assistant horticulturist of the agricultural extension division, and Sidney Stewart, superintendent of the Calhoun station, also explained experiments with peaches, summer apples, pecans and other fruits. Of particular interest to those attending the meeting was a study of the breeding for a wilt-resistant variety of watermelon and work with the Katahdin, a new white Irish potato, which are being carried on at the station. Agricultural officials also explained results of experiments in developing a new high quality, wilt-resistant and slightly blight-resistant tomato.

FOSTER PARENTS ARE DOUBLY HAPPY

Dr. Henry Stark of Wilmington, Del., is unexpectedly the foster-fatner of a boy and a girl because the twin babies managed to look so cute his wife couldn't choose between them. Mrs. Stark traveled to Mesa, Ariz., to adopt one child, but brought back both. The Starks are pictured above, carrying their new family from the Camden, N. J., airport in market baskets.

FARMERS MEET FOR FIELD DAY

Calhoun Experiment Station Officials Explain Test Results

Ouachita parish farmers interested in truck crops and fruits attended the annual horticultural field day at the North Louisiana Experiment station at Calhoun Saturday.

The program for the field day, which began at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, included inspection of experimental plots of watermelons, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, and other crops being tested at the station. N. D. Morgan, horticulturist, explained the results of cultural and fertilizer experiments to the group.

Mr. Morgan, assisted by J. G. Richard, assistant horticulturist of the agricultural extension division, and Sidney Stewart, superintendent of the Calhoun station, also explained experiments with peaches, summer apples, pecans and other fruits. Of particular interest to those attending the meeting was a study of the breeding for a wilt-resistant variety of watermelon and work with the Katahdin, a new white Irish potato, which are being carried on at the station. Agricultural officials also explained results of experiments in developing a new high quality, wilt-resistant and slightly blight-resistant tomato.

A Place For The Kids To Play

Probably there is not one city in the country which has enough playgrounds and play space for children.

Perhaps there is enough space in Radburn, the specially designed "motor-age" city in New Jersey, or in Greenbelt, Md., where a town has been designed with just such ends in view. But generally speaking, no large city has enough play space for children, and not many smaller cities. And Monroe is no exception.

Admitting the fact, the usual American reaction is to shrug a shoulder, remark, "Why doesn't the city provide more parks? Broke, I suppose," and let it go at that.

Not much of the old rugged individualism spirit there! Something can be done about it, done without the aid of the city park department, done without a WPA project, done without anything but the determination of a group of parents that they will themselves make a safe place for their children to play.

Any three or four adjoining households where there are children can throw their back yards together, tear down the fences and create a common playground. The families can chip in for swings and seesaws, and the mothers can take turns watching over the plot for a couple of hours each day. Other families nearby, but whose back yards do not adjoin the plot chosen, can bear a proportionately larger share of the equipment cost and the supervision, to offset the sacrifice of gardens and lawns by those whose yards are used.

Wise landlords usually don't object. One said, "What if they do use up the grass in the back yards? It just means that they'll stay off the grass in the front."

The kids will grow up. Time enough then to set the yards back into grass and gardens. Infinite variations on this plan can be tried according to local situations.

Parents who are really intent on keeping the kids off the streets will not feel that the cost in energy, initiative and trouble was too high.

BUILDING BOOM AT LAST?

For several years, economists have been waiting for the building boom that was to lead us up and out of the depression. Each spring came, and it did not materialize. And everybody said, well, each year the need for houses becomes greater, the "boom" more inevitable.

Predicting on this subject, after so many disappointments, would be foolhardy. But nevertheless, residential building during May will record the highest total since October, 1929, according to J. Seth Schnitman, economist. Certain it is that building for the first half of 1939 will record a total perhaps 50 per cent higher than that of the first half of last year.

This may not be the long-expected "boom," but it is certainly an encouraging sign, and welcome in its own right. Best news of all will come when one of these months surpasses 1929, for it is only in the exceeding of 1929 records that there lies hope of cutting deeply into unemployment. The man who builds a house today is a true patriot.

REGULATED WEDDINGS

If there is one right that is precious to man, it is the right to make a fool of himself in his own way.

States which get too much concerned with protecting their citizens against being foolish ought to remember that.

It is very hard for Americans, accustomed to guard jealously their prerogative of self-stultification, to understand what goes on in Istanbul, Turkey, today. You have to be dictatorial-minded to appreciate these events at full value.

It seems that in Turkey, weddings were becoming more and more elaborate. People were even mortgaging their possessions and going to money-lenders to get money to put on daughter's bridal display in a style to which they would like to give people the impression she had been accustomed. Police stepped in, ordered a cut-down on marriage festivities, betrothal ceremonies, and wedding gifts.

What kind of a world is it getting to be when a man can't even let his women folks make a fool of him?

BELONG IN LEAVENWORTH

A great deal has been said and written in condemnation of Tom Pendergast, deposed boss of Kansas City, and his associates in the financial scandals that have had their denouement in a prison cell for this once powerful political leader. Most of the denunciation is easily justifiable. But Pendergast and the members of his little coterie of corruptionists were not alone in their criminality.

The money on which Pendergast failed to pay an income tax was given to him by fourteen insurance companies to settle the rate war with the state of Missouri. This money was paid for purposes of bribery. Mr. Pendergast's responsibility was that of "fixing" certain people.

Most of these companies are nationally known organizations, enjoying favorable repute. Yet, they did not hesitate to resort to corrupt practices in order to serve their own interests. The responsible officials of these companies, it seems, deserve cells in Leavenworth with Pendergast.

Inmates of an Ontario prison fainted when they saw a crime and horror picture. It was a shock to find out what the public has been led to think of them.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Congress has just finished its fifth month of activity. It still has on its hands a huge mass of unfinished business, including several items of the hot-potato variety.

In addition to the routine appropriation bills, it has two major accomplishments to its credit. It has put through the big national defense program and it has passed the famous governmental reorganization bill.

Under the heading of "unfinished business," however, there are the following:

Revision of the taxation system.
Modification of the Wagner labor relations act.
Revision of the social security act.
Amendment of the wage and hour law.
Revision of the neutrality act.
Action on the administration's projected national health program.
Monopoly legislation.
Overhauling of the relief problem.
Passage of railroad rehabilitation legislation.

Enough To Keep 'Em Busy

There are many other matters awaiting determination, but these are the big items. There are enough of them to indicate either that congress won't adjourn as soon as it hopes it will, or that a considerable part of this session's business will go over until next winter.

Even so, a fair start has been made on some of those items. The long stalemate between the White House and leaders of the tax-revision group in congress has been broken, and repeal or modification of some of the "business-deterrent" provisions is now probable.

The undistributed profits tax seems due to go the way of all flesh, and modifications in the capital gains tax look quite likely. "Moderate" tax revision, in other words, is now definitely in the cards.

Extensive hearings have been held on the Wagner act, but it is doubtful that modification of that law will come to a final vote before adjournment. Some of the pressure, although by no means all of it, has been taken off.

Roosevelt quietly revised the personnel of the board, and Chairman Madden agreed that employers should be allowed to petition for an election under certain circumstances. Perhaps the chief factor which makes action now unlikely, though, is the general realization that a final showdown would greatly delay adjournment.

Revision of the social security law probably will be accomplished without much more delay. The house leadership is backing modifications approved by the social security board, and the revisions should be made presently—unless the Townsend-tinged general welfare act gets in the way.

Neutrality Nearer, But—

Now that Secretary Hull has finally formulated the administration's desires on neutrality legislation, action on that thorny issue is brought nearer. Senator Pittman predicts that the senate foreign relations committee will recommend a bill embodying Hull's program.

Threats of a filibuster have been heard, however, and you might as well not look for any new neutrality legislation until you actually see it signed, sealed and delivered.

The senate has got part way with railroad legislation, but hope for a broad, all-inclusive program to rehabilitate the railroads is very dim. Congress talked extensively about working out a new relief program, but so far the only definite development has been the president's action in putting WPA into the new public works agency. Monopoly legislation is definitely out of the question, and the national health program looks like something that will be saved for next winter. Wage-hour law revision may go through.

Among other matters that await determination are the Ludlow war-referendum bill; legislation to enable TVA to buy out the properties of the Tennessee Electric Power company; Senator Mead's bill to make government loans available to small business men; the movement to continue the life of the La Follette civil liberties committee; the labor move to amend the Sherman anti-trust law to exempt labor unions, and various bills touching on the control of aliens.

Remember that the colleges of Germany were state-supported, and that when the government there denied freedom they had no choice but to acquiesce.—Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchinson, president of W. and J. college.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 10—When I take out-of-town visitors to a studio and stay for lunch, I always point out the producers' table, then sit back and wait for the inevitable comment: "Producers? Those men producers? But they're so young!"

And so they are—younger by a score of years, most of them, than the "big" executives of any other great industry. Edmund Grainger, for instance—only 36 now, yet he's been a top-flight producer for years with such pictures as "Diamond Jim" and "The Road Back" to his credit. Mervyn Le Roy, now 38, has been making super-colossals for ten years. Pandro S. Berman, the man who has produced all the Rogers-Astaire smashes, is only 34. Walt Disney, who at first thought seems to have been king-pin of the animated cartoon field for a lifetime, is still under forty. Joe Mankiewicz is 36. Carl Laemmle, Jr., is 30. At least a score of others, most of them taking rank with these cited above, are between 30 and 40.

Compare those ages with the ages of the top-notchers in the oil industry, or the steel business, or prosaic manufacturing, and you'll begin to understand why so many teen-age youngsters are plotting Hollywood careers. Not only are the rewards for success larger here than in most fields, but they are not so long deferred. And a beardless chin, which in any other business, is a decided handicap is here nothing more nor less than a chin without any hair on it. Hollywood is interested only in the commercial value of a man's ideas. And it is surprising how many good ideas a twenty-year-old mind can sometimes concoct.

Idol Chatter: Mae West always reminds me of an old-time frigate—full rigging, devastating broadsides, and even more lateral roll. Peas-in-a-pod: Deanna Durbin and the more stately Kay Aldridge, Twentieth Century-Fox debutate. Wish some film factory would give Bela Lugosi another of those vampire roles—they always knock me for a ghoul. Add expert nostril-flarers: Lionel Atwill. It's amusing to watch the effervescence of a story-telling wit fizzle out when it encounters the unchanging gravity of Charles Boyer. To really appreciate Kenny Baker's reach, you should see him tell about the 46-pound halibut he caught t'other day. After all these years, Cecil B. DeMille still rates tops in the yes-timation of his crews. In toting up the mathematical chances of various candidates for stardom, don't overlook Rita Hayworth—she "figures" perfectly.

The "youngsters" who credit today's screen with a virtual monopoly on beauty would have a difficult time selling veteran stage-actress Zeffie Tillbury their idea. Today, she drew on her fifty years of observations and gave me her list of the ten most beautiful women of show business. Here it is: Maxine Elliott, Lillian Russell, Blanche Bates, Julia Marlowe, Nazimova, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Sarah Bernhardt, Billie Burke and Hedy Lamarr. Please note that only two of our present-day stars rate.

As the height of something or other, consider a letter just received by Dick Powell. The writer asked for an unsecured loan of $1,000. "I need the money," he said, "to finance my 18-year-old son in pictures. I know you'll be interested when I tell you he's enough like you to be your twin."

Odd-Formation: Most regular moviegoers in America, according to officials of the Braille institute are the blind—Marie Dressler was their favorite star; Clark Gable now rates No. 1 in their estimation. For a professional tough guy, Humphrey Bogart has the most gentle of hobbies—raising double petunias. Those insects you see buzzing through movie scenes are not little accidents—they're rented to the studios, for plenty, by specialists. Gene Raymond is generally rated the best gymnast among movie stars.

If you yen to see cinematic notables, visit the Catalina isthmus any day between now and late September, for our yachting crowd are there in force. They spend most of their time afloat, fishing every morning from the motor cruisers of Frank Morgan, Vic McLaglen and others who speed to the romance of sail. And, in the evenings, they congregate aboard one or another of the bigger schooners for an informal dance. Gene Markey's 110-foot yacht is especially popular in those evenings when Hedy Lamarr can lay aside her professional glamour and water taxi to the island to be hostess. No other clique in Filmland has a better time.

Best chuckle of the week: Maxine Marx (Chico's daughter), who has high hopes of a screen career, was offered a role in the new Marx nerve-shredder, "A Day at The Circus." She refused it. "I'm afraid it would hurt my future," said she, "to appear in anything so crazy!"

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1939, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

On July 3, 1874, the Philadelphia Public Ledger printed, obscurely, the following notice:

"Lost on the 1st instant, a small boy, about four years of age, light complexion and curly hair. A suitable reward will be paid for his return to E. L. Joyce, Central station, corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets."

Today in Phoenix, Ariz., there is a 69-year-old carpenter known as Gustave Blair, who says he is that missing person, the kidnaped Charley Ross, whose story has run through two generations and still remains a baffling mystery after all these years, still a classic in crime even in modern times and with far more recent [illegible] of dramatic and tragic sequel.

An Arizona judge accepts Mr. Blair's claim and rules that he is the missing Charley Ross. However, it was rather a perfunctory judgment in default, as the relatives of Charley Ross, sued for recognition of Mr. Blair's family status, did not appear. No money was demanded. Mr. Blair sought legal identification merely to allow him to be remarried in Germantown, Pa., the home of Charley Ross, on July 1, under his own name. The ruling of the judge received only casual attention in the newspapers. Not that interest in this news perennial will ever fade. It is merely that there have been so many Charley Rosses that one more or less doesn't seem to matter.

The late Captain Ayres of the New York Bureau of Missing Persons used to remark on a dull day, "Well, it's about time for somebody to drop in and say he is Charley Ross." When the first of these self-identifiers appeared in the person of William Van Hodge, of Galveston, there was a great stir in the papers. Mr. Van Hodge had some rather impressive evidence, but somehow it trailed on out of the back pages and was forgotten.

Then came Charles Burton Ross, of Cleveland, W. R. Coleman and Charles Burton Ross, of New York; Julius Dellinger, of Denver, L. D. Bond, of Dayton, Daniel Peters, of Livingston, N. Y.; Walter Brownston, dying on Welfare island still declaring, with his dying breath, that he was Charley Ross these and countless others on down through the years.

A curious detail of singular record is the fact that all of these claimants were apparently honest, hard-working persons, as is this Arizona carpenter, apparently absolutely convinced of the truth of their claims. None was unbalanced. In no case was hope of money involved. Several offered what appeared superficially to be convincing proof.

This was America's first notorious kidnaping. They used chalk plates in the newspapers then, for it was before the days of the "zincs" and photo-engraving. Compared to present time, their resources and facilities were meager in publicizing and sensationalizing the kidnaping of the tiny lad with the yellow curls, but they made the most of what they had. And they certainly had the ingredients of a big story—all the more of a sensation then because of its novelty, in the days before kidnaping had become an established industry.

Christian K. Ross was a well-to-do Philadelphia dry-good jobber. Baby Charley and his brother Walter, aged six, were playing on the lawn in front of the family's imposing Currier and Ives residence in Germantown. Two unkempt-looking fellows drove up in a shabby buggy, lured the boy into the rig, drove off and gave Walter a quarter to buy candy. When the lad came out from the candy store, the buggy with the two men and his brother had disappeared.

On July 4, the father received a letter which said that Charley was being held for a ransom of $20,000. And there was this warning:

"Any approach to his hiding place will be the signal for his instant annihilation. Will write later."

Reading the stories of the [illegible] rage and horror at the time, one would think that we must have been much more sensitive [illegible] then than we seem to be now in the face of [illegible]. The whole nation turned out on a [illegible] hunt. A rendezvous was made with the kidnapers at a New York hotel, the ransom money ready, but they did not keep their appointment.

It was years before the excitement and the activities of volunteer detectives began to die down. Newspapers fought a pest of clairvoyants, people who had seen Charley Ross in a vision, spiritualists bringing in [illegible] ghostly tribes of Indians who brought word that the lad had been adopted into a far-western Indian tribe. Mothers wept all over the country as a national detective agency scattered thousands of photographs throughout the land.

"The Amalgamated Friends of Charley Ross" became a nationally organized society. Nobody could say the newspapers were pumping this up. It was merely a manifestation of spontaneous public feeling. Kidnaping was then and is now a tremendous moving story, one which stirs the fires of anger and tugs at the heart-strings of pity.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Although most headaches are believed to be due to stomach and intestinal disturbances and a great many to sinus trouble, there is a large number that are due to eye-strain. So common are headaches due to eye-strain that headache is often considered the only or outstanding symptom, whereas eye-strain may cause symptoms in organs far removed from the eyes. Even the headache itself is not the same in different individuals and may vary somewhat even in the one individual.

Headache from eye-strain may come on slowly or rapidly. It may be over one eye or both eyes, although the ache is usually more severe over one eye than the other because one eye is usually weaker or more defective than the other.

"Headaches may begin at any age, but more frequently after the first year or two at school." These headaches occur with a certain degree of regularity, perhaps once every two weeks for a while and gradually become more frequent.

As these headaches are often accompanied by nausea and vomiting it is only natural that it is blamed on some food that was eaten, eating too much food, or eating when tired.

"Some soon learn to become suspicious of their eyes because of headache following theater-going, card-playing, car-riding, shopping, sewing or reading too long."

In Handbook of Therapy, by Drs. Oliver T. Osborne and Morris Fishbein, it is pointed out that dizziness, stomach upsetment, even nausea and vomiting may occur without any headache whatever and still be due to eye-strain. Cold hands and feet, chilly sensations, faint feelings, palpitation, irregular heart beat and pain in region of the heart may be due to eye-strain and be corrected by correcting the eye defect.

Unfortunately, as eye-strain is not suspected of being the cause of headaches because of other symptoms—nausea, vomiting, cold hands and feet—many of these patients become nervous and irritable which is apt to cause more frequent attacks. These symptoms are often called "bilious attacks" and good nourishing foods may be blamed for it and left out of the patient's diet, causing further weakness and nervousness.

In cases of headache, nausea and vomiting occurring from time to time an examination of the eyes would be good sense.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"What are you doing now that you are out of school?"

"Oh, nothing. What is there for me to do?"

"There is so much for you to do that one lifetime or ten is not going to be long enough. You are young, intelligent, educated at least as far as schooling goes, and you do nothing. You'd better get busy or you'll get into serious trouble one way or another."

"There's nothing for me to do."

"Your mother would be glad if you took charge of the house or part of it."

"I'm not interested in housework."

"Well, there's the farm. You love outdoors, you want to live in the country. Why don't you take the job of foreman there? Your father would like that immensely."

"I'm not interested in farming in that part of it. I like to ride the horses and play with the dogs, but after that there's nothing in it for me."

"How about social service work? You could volunteer for that and do something really helpful."

"I've never liked that sort of thing. No interest in it. I never could do a routine job. I must have room for action, something different all the time."

"You are seventeen. You have no interest in anything that means steady work. Where do you expect to get? If you expect to be married surely you expect to be able to carry some share of the load of responsibility marriage brings. No man wants a helpless woman, a useless creature hanging about his neck. You have to prepare for something useful if you expect to live with any degree of success, anywhere, any time. You've got to get to work. What would you really like to do?"

"Go adventuring in the jungle. That would be a fine life. I'd like that."

"Can you walk long distances? Row a boat? Hunt? Understand first aid for a poisonous bite? Can you pitch a camp? Make a camp fire? Cook camp meal? Sleep outdoors even in bad weather? Not afraid of wild animals or of strange people?"

"Oh, well, of course, I'd have to learn, somehow, when the situation arose."

"Why don't you learn to cook and to sew and to give first aid, and all the other odd jobs that go with a woman's life?"

"I'm just not interested."

This is one of the extreme cases brought about by our unusual social and economic conditions, but this lack of interest is used too often to protect the slacker from criticism or from his own guilty conscience. Interest does not often precede knowledge. We are interested most in what we know most about, and we are interested in the work that we can do best. In order to have an interest one must be willing to undergo the experiences that are its essence. One must be willing to work, to do the drudgery of the job before one can expect to enjoy its thrills.

No adolescent need be idle, for there is enough work lying loose to keep the whole generation active. Volunteer service is welcomed and it is one way of acquiring experience so essential to interest, knowledge and skill.

The correction of bad habits will help your youngster, while he is still small, to feel a keener interest in life. Send for Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits," enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—It may be that at one time there was "something rotten in the state of Denmark," but at present there is a solid effort to convince the American public that there is something good in the state of Denmark, and in Sweden, too. It is a double budget system which permits governments to spend money for work-making public improvements without throwing the regular budget out of balance.

Its present exponents on this side of the Atlantic are leading figures of the New Deal together with a group of economists. One of them, Dr. Alvin Hansen of Harvard, outlined the plan before the temporary national economic committee, which President Roosevelt asked recently to find a way to put idle money to work.

The system won't let the government have its cake and eat it too. But it does let the government take credit for benefits gained.

As a matter of fact this government already is operating on a double budget system in a limited degree. The present idea is to expand the system steadily, not abruptly.

How It Works

This is how the Swedes and Danes do it. They build a low-cost housing project. Maybe it costs $10,000,000. The rents are to pay the operating expenses and perhaps amortize $3,000,000 of the capital outlay. That $3,000,000 debt then goes in the special capital budget and as the payments come in it is retired. But the regular budget absorbs the interest charges on the $10,000,000 and pays the $7,000,000 debt.

What has happened then? Instead of the regular budget being required to absorb the whole $10,000,000 of outlay as well as interest and running expenses, it absorbs only $[illegible] of the debt and the interest on the $10,000,000.

Under such a budget the government might borrow capital to lend to [illegible]. The government would put such moneys in a separate budget to be liquidated as the [illegible] were repaid. The regular budget each year would absorb only the losses. Or the government might borrow money to lend to small industry at low rate interest, absorbing the difference in the budget.

Several members of the senate threw up their hands in dismay as Dr. Hansen outlined the plan. But Hansen countered with the assertion that already the United States was successfully operating such a plan.

He cited the Federal Housing authority among others. It builds low cost houses with bonds for which the government is good. The projects built will pay off part of the bonds, the government will make to meet the rest. TVA [illegible] and Panama canal [illegible].

Separates Debts

[illegible] the government [illegible] at the end of the [illegible].

If there [illegible] at the end of the [illegible] seemed [illegible] be [illegible] debts and [illegible] Hansen. The government [illegible] paying the interest [illegible] forever.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

UNTIL the white man came, the American Indian got no closer to the thundering buffalo herds than the stifling dust of their stampedes. Then the white man taught the Indian to ride and shoot, and with that lesson the life of the plains redmen changed rapidly.

For the Indian found that the buffalo provided practically everything he needed: clothing, shelter, food. The buffalo had a rich meat, the tongue was a particular delicacy. From the fat and meat, the redman made pemmican, a rich paste mixed with berries. Next, the Indian learned to make tepees from the buffalo hides and at the same time robes and bedding, shirts, moccasins, leggings, rope. The buffalo hoofs also produced glue and the sinews thread and bow strings.

So it happened that in a few decades the great buffalo population, estimated as high as 60,000,000 head at one time, dwindled as the redman increased his slaughter. But the real slaughter was to come with the immigrants themselves. Thousands were killed, for instance, to provide meat for the transcontinental railroad builders. Today only a few thousand buffalo are left, safeguarded by government preserves.

A Place For The Kids To Play

Probably there is not one city in the country which has enough playgrounds and play space for children.

Perhaps there is enough space in Radburn, the specially designed "motor-age" city in New Jersey, or in Greenbelt, Md., where a town has been designed with just such ends in view. But generally speaking, no large city has enough play space for children, and not many smaller cities. And Monroe is no exception.

Admitting the fact, the usual American reaction is to shrug a shoulder, remark, "Why doesn't the city provide more parks? Broke, I suppose," and let it go at that.

Not much of the old rugged individualism spirit there! Something can be done about it, done without the aid of the city park department, done without a WPA project, done without anything but the determination of a group of parents that they will themselves make a safe place for their children to play.

Any three or four adjoining households where there are children can throw their back yards together, tear down the fences and create a common playground. The families can chip in for swings and seesaws, and the mothers can take turns watching over the plot for a couple of hours each day. Other families nearby, but whose back yards do not adjoin the plot chosen, can bear a proportionately larger share of the equipment cost and the supervision, to offset the sacrifice of gardens and lawns by those whose yards are used.

Wise landlords usually don't object. One said, "What if they do use up the grass in the back yards? It just means that they'll stay off the grass in the front."

The kids will grow up. Time enough then to set the yards back into grass and gardens. Infinite variations on this plan can be tried according to local situations.

Parents who are really intent on keeping the kids off the streets will not feel that the cost in energy, initiative and trouble was too high.

BUILDING BOOM AT LAST?

For several years, economists have been waiting for the building boom that was to lead us up and out of the depression. Each spring came, and it did not materialize. And everybody said, well, each year the need for houses becomes greater, the "boom" more inevitable.

Predicting on this subject, after so many disappointments, would be foolhardy. But nevertheless, residential building during May will record the highest total since October, 1929, according to J. Seth Schnitman, economist. Certain it is that building for the first half of 1939 will record a total perhaps 50 per cent higher than that of the first half of last year.

This may not be the long-expected "boom," but it is certainly an encouraging sign, and welcome in its own right. Best news of all will come when one of these months surpasses 1929, for it is only in the exceeding of 1929 records that there lies hope of cutting deeply into unemployment. The man who builds a house today is a true patriot.

REGULATED WEDDINGS

If there is one right that is precious to man, it is the right to make a fool of himself in his own way.

States which get too much concerned with protecting their citizens against being foolish ought to remember that.

It is very hard for Americans, accustomed to guard jealously their prerogative of self-stultification, to understand what goes on in Istanbul, Turkey, today. You have to be dictatorial-minded to appreciate these events at full value.

It seems that in Turkey, weddings were becoming more and more elaborate. People were even mortgaging their possessions and going to money-lenders to get money to put on daughter's bridal display in a style to which they would like to give people the impression she had been accustomed. Police stepped in, ordered a cut-down on marriage festivities, betrothal ceremonies, and wedding gifts.

What kind of a world is it getting to be when a man can't even let his women folks make a fool of him?

BELONG IN LEAVENWORTH

A great deal has been said and written in condemnation of Tom Pendergast, deposed boss of Kansas City, and his associates in the financial scandals that have had their denouement in a prison cell for this once powerful political leader. Most of the denunciation is easily justifiable. But Pendergast and the members of his little coterie of corruptionists were not alone in their criminality.

The money on which Pendergast failed to pay an income tax was given to him by fourteen insurance companies to settle the rate war with the state of Missouri. This money was paid for purposes of bribery. Mr. Pendergast's responsibility was that of "fixing" certain people.

Most of these companies are nationally known organizations, enjoying favorable repute. Yet, they did not hesitate to resort to corrupt practices in order to serve their own interests. The responsible officials of these companies, it seems, deserve cells in Leavenworth with Pendergast.

Inmates of an Ontario prison fainted when they saw a crime and horror picture. It was a shock to find out what the public has been led to think of them.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Congress has just finished its fifth month of activity. It still has on its hands a huge mass of unfinished business, including several items of the hot-potato variety.

In addition to the routine appropriation bills, it has two major accomplishments to its credit. It has put through the big national defense program and it has passed the famous governmental reorganization bill.

Under the heading of "unfinished business," however, there are the following:

Revision of the taxation system.
Modification of the Wagner labor relations act.
Revision of the social security act.
Amendment of the wage and hour law.
Revision of the neutrality act.
Action on the administration's projected national health program.
Monopoly legislation.
Overhauling of the relief problem.
Passage of railroad rehabilitation legislation.

Enough To Keep 'Em Busy

There are many other matters awaiting determination, but these are the big items. There are enough of them to indicate either that congress won't adjourn as soon as it hopes it will, or that a considerable part of this session's business will go over until next winter.

Even so, a fair start has been made on some of those items. The long stalemate between the White House and leaders of the tax-revision group in congress has been broken, and repeal or modification of some of the "business-deterrent" provisions is now probable.

The undistributed profits tax seems due to go the way of all flesh, and modifications in the capital gains tax look quite likely. "Moderate" tax revision, in other words, is now definitely in the cards.

Extensive hearings have been held on the Wagner act, but it is doubtful that modification of that law will come to a final vote before adjournment. Some of the pressure, although by no means all of it, has been taken off.

Roosevelt quietly revised the personnel of the board, and Chairman Madden agreed that employers should be allowed to petition for an election under certain circumstances. Perhaps the chief factor which makes action now unlikely, though, is the general realization that a final showdown would greatly delay adjournment.

Revision of the social security law probably will be accomplished without much more delay. The house leadership is backing modifications approved by the social security board, and the revisions should be made presently—unless the Townsend-tinged general welfare act gets in the way.

Neutrality Nearer, But—

Now that Secretary Hull has finally formulated the administration's desires on neutrality legislation, action on that thorny issue is brought nearer. Senator Pittman predicts that the senate foreign relations committee will recommend a bill embodying Hull's program.

Threats of a filibuster have been heard, however, and you might as well not look for any new neutrality legislation until you actually see it signed, sealed and delivered.

The senate has got part way with railroad legislation, but hope for a broad, all-inclusive program to rehabilitate the railroads is very dim. Congress talked extensively about working out a new relief program, but so far the only definite development has been the president's action in putting WPA into the new public works agency. Monopoly legislation is definitely out of the question, and the national health program looks like something that will be saved for next winter. Wage-hour law revision may go through.

Among other matters that await determination are the Ludlow war-referendum bill; legislation to enable TVA to buy out the properties of the Tennessee Electric Power company; Senator Mead's bill to make government loans available to small business men; the movement to continue the life of the La Follette civil liberties committee; the labor move to amend the Sherman anti-trust law to exempt labor unions, and various bills touching on the control of aliens.

Remember that the colleges of Germany were state-supported, and that when the government there denied freedom they had no choice but to acquiesce.—Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchinson, president of W. and J. college.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 10.—When I take out-of-town visitors to a studio and stay for lunch, I always point out the producers' table, then sit back and wait for the inevitable comment: "Producers? Those men producers? But they're so young!"

And so they are—younger by a score of years, most of them, than the "big" executives of any other great industry. Edmund Grainger, for instance—only 36 now, yet he's been a top-flight producer for years with such pictures as "Diamond Jim" and "The Road Back" to his credit. Mervyn Le Roy, now 38, has been making super-colossals for ten years. Pandro S. Berman, the man who has produced all the Rogers-Astaire smashes, is only 34. Walt Disney, who at first thought seems to have been king-pin of the animated cartoon field for a lifetime, is still under forty. Joe Mankiewicz is 36, Carl Laemmle, Jr., is 30. At least a score of others, most of them taking rank with these cited above, are between 30 and 40.

Compare those ages with the ages of the top-notchers in the oil industry, or the steel business, or prosaic manufacturing, and you'll begin to understand why so many teen-age youngsters are plotting Hollywood careers. Not only are the rewards for success larger here than in most fields, but they are not so long deferred. And a beardless chin, which in any other business, is a decided handicap is here nothing more nor less than a chin without any hair on it. Hollywood is interested only in the commercial value of a man's ideas. And it is surprising how many good ideas a twenty-year-old mind can sometimes concoct.

Idol Chatter: Mae West always reminds me of an old-time frigate—full rigging, devastating broadsides, and even more lateral roll. Peas-in-a-pod: Deanna Durbin and the more stately Kay Aldridge, Twentieth Century-Fox debutate. Wish some film factory would give Bela Lugosi another of those vampire roles—they always knock me for a ghoul. Add expert nostril-flarers: Lionel Atwill. It's amusing to watch the effervescence of a story-telling wit fizzle out when it encounters the unchanging gravity of Charles Boyer. To really appreciate Kenny Baker's reach, you should see him tell about the 46-pound halibut he caught t'other day. After all these years, Cecil B. DeMille still rates tops in the yes-timation of his crews. In toting up the mathematical chances of various candidates for stardom, don't overlook Rita Hayworth—she "figures" perfectly.

The "youngsters" who credit today's screen with a virtual monopoly on beauty would have a difficult time selling veteran stage-actress Zeffie Tillbury their idea. Today, she drew on her fifty years of observations and gave me her list of the ten most beautiful women of show business. Here it is: Maxine Elliott, Lillian Russell, Blanche Bates, Julia Marlowe, Nazimova, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Sarah Bernhardt, Billie Burke and Hedy Lamarr. Please note that only two of our present-day stars rate.

As the height of something or other, consider a letter just received by Dick Powell. The writer asked for an unsecured loan of $1,000. "I need the money," he said, "to finance my 18-year-old son in pictures. I know you'll be interested when I tell you he's enough like you to be your twin."

Odd-Formation: Most regular movie-goers in America, according to officials of the Braille institute are the blind—Marie Dressler was their favorite star; Clark Gable now rates No. 1 in their estimation. For a professional tough guy, Humphrey Bogart has the most gentle of hobbies—raising double petunias. Those insects you see buzzing through movie scenes are not little accidents—they're rented to the studios, for plenty, by specialists. Gene Raymond is generally rated the best gymnast among movie stars.

If you yen to see cinematic notables, visit the Catalina isthmus any day between now and late September, for our yachting crowd are there in force. They spend most of their time afloat, fishing every morning from the motor cruisers of Frank Morgan, Vic McLaglen and others who speed to the romance of sail. And, in the evenings, they congregate aboard one or another of the bigger schooners for an informal dance. Gene Markey's 110-foot yacht is especially popular in those evenings when Hedy Lamarr can lay aside her professional glamour and water taxi to the island to be hostess. No other clique in Filmland has a better time.

Best chuckle of the week: Maxine Marx (Chico's daughter), who has high hopes of a screen career, was offered a role in the new Marx nerve-shredder, "A Day at The Circus." She refused it. "I'm afraid it would hurt my future," said she, "to appear in anything so crazy!"

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—It may be that at one time there was "something rotten in the state of Denmark," but at present there is a solid effort to convince the American public that there is something good in the state of Denmark, and in Sweden, too. It is a double budget system which permits governments to spend money for work-making public improvements without throwing the regular budget out of balance.

Its present exponents on this side of the Atlantic are leading figures of the New Deal together with a group of economists. One of them, Dr. Alvin Hansen of Harvard, outlined the plan before the temporary national economic committee, which President Roosevelt asked recently to find a way to put idle money to work.

The system won't let the government have its cake and eat it too. But it does let the government take credit for benefits gained.

As a matter of fact this government already is operating on a double budget system in a limited degree. The present idea is to expand the system steadily, not abruptly.

How It Works

This is how the Swedes and Danes do it. They build a low-cost housing project. Maybe it costs $10,000,000. The rents are to pay the operating expenses and perhaps amortize $8,000,000 of the capital outlay. That $8,000,000 debt then goes in the special capital budget and as the payments come in it is retired. But the regular budget absorbs the interest charges on the $10,000,000 and pays the $2,000,000 debt.

What has happened then? Instead of the regular budget being required to absorb the whole $10,000,000 of outlay as well as interest and running expense, it absorbs only $2,000,000 of the debt and the interest on the $10,000,000.

Under such a budget the government might borrow capital to lend to railroads, utilities and small business. The government would put such money in a separate budget, to be liquidated as the loans were repaid. The regular budget each year would absorb only the losses. Or the government might borrow money to lend to small industry at cut-rate interest, absorbing the difference in the budget.

Several members of the senate threw up their hands in dismay as Dr. Hansen outlined the plan. But Hansen countered with the assertion that already the United States was successfully operating such a plan.

He cited the Federal Housing authority among others. It builds low cost homes with bonds for which the government stands good. The projects built will pay off part of the bonds, the government will mave to meet the rest. TVA, Boulder dam and Panama canal could qualify.

Separates Debts

But why go through all this rigmarole if it means merely keeping two sets of books instead of one? It is healthier bookkeeping, says Hansen. It separates the good self-liquidating debts from the "deadweight" debts. War debts are deadweight debts. When the war is over there is nothing to show for what is borrowed and spent.

During a depression if it is necessary to start more self-liquidating projects than the government can afford in any one annual budget it spreads the cost out over a period of several years. Sweden spans it over five years. Hansen insists that enough should be collected in boom times to make up for depression shortages in the regular budget. The regular budget should be balanced at the end of the depression-boom cycle.

If there should be anything left over at the end of the cycle, or it seemed likely higher taxes should be imposed to check an excessive boom, then maybe some of the "deadweight" debts could be paid off. But war debts and some of the relief debts incurred during the depression perhaps should never be paid off, said Hansen. The government could just go on paying the interest, forever and forever.

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

On July 3, 1874, the Philadelphia Public Ledger printed, obscurely, the following notice:

"Lost on the 1st instant, a small boy, about four years of age; light complexion and curly hair. A suitable reward will be paid for his return to E. L. Joyce, Central station, corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets."

Today, in Phoenix, Ariz., there is a 69-year-old carpenter known as Gustave Blair, who says he is that missing person—the kidnaped Charley Ross whose story has run through two generations and still remains a baffling mystery after all these years, still a classic in crime even in modern times and with far more recent "snatches" of dramatic and tragic sequel.

An Arizona judge accepts Mr. Blair's claim and rules that he is the missing Charley Ross. However, it was rather a perfunctory judgment in default, as the relatives of Charley Ross, sued for recognition of Mr. Blair's family status, did not appear. No money was demanded. Mr. Blair sought legal identification merely to allow him to be remarried in Germantown, Pa., the home of Charley Ross, on July 1, under his own name. The ruling of the judge received only casual attention in the newspapers. Not that interest in this news perennial will ever fade. It is merely that there have been so many Charley Rosses that one more or less doesn't seem to matter.

The late Captain Ayres of the New York Bureau of Missing Persons used to remark on a dull day, "Well, it's about time for somebody to drop in and say he is Charley Ross." When the first of these self-identifiers appeared in the person of William Van Hodge, of Galveston, there was a great stir in the papers. Mr. Van Hodge had some rather impressive evidence, but somehow it trailed on out of the back pages and was forgotten.

Then came Charles Burton Ross, of Cleveland; W. R. Coleman and Charles Burton Ross, of New York; Julius Dellinger, of Denver, L. D. Bond, of Dayton; Daniel Peters, of Livingston, N. Y.; Walter Brownston, dying on Welfare island still declaring, with his dying breath, that he was Charley Ross—these and countless others on down through the years.

A curious detail of singular record is the fact that all of these claimants were apparently honest, hard-working persons, as is this Arizona carpenter, apparently absolutely convinced of the truth of their claims. None was unbalanced. In no case was hope of money involved. Several offered what appeared superficially to be convincing proof.

This was America's first notorious kidnaping. They used chalk plates in the newspapers then, for it was before the days of the "zincs" and photo-engraving. Compared to present time, their resources and facilities were meager in publicizing and sensationalizing the kidnaping of the tiny lad with the yellow curls, but they made the most of what they had. And they certainly had the ingredients of a big story—all the more of a sensation then because of its novelty, in the days before kidnaping had become an established industry.

Christian K. Ross was a well-to-do Philadelphia dry-good jobber. Baby Charley and his brother Walter, aged six, were playing on the lawn in front of the family's imposing Currier and Ives residence in Germantown. Two unkempt-looking fellows drove up in a shabby buggy, lured the boy into the rig, drove off and gave Walter a quarter to buy candy. When the lad came out from the candy store, the buggy with the two men and his brother had disappeared.

On July 4, the father received a letter which said that Charley was being held for a ransom of $20,000. And there was this warning:

"Any approach to his hiding place will be made the signal for his instant annihilation. Will write later."

Reading the stories of the country's rage and horror at this date, one would think that we must have been much more sensitive, much less callous then than we seem to be now in the face of cumulative horrors. The whole nation turned out on a man hunt. A rendezvous was made with the kidnapers at a New York hotel, the ransom money ready, but they did not keep their appointment.

It was years before the excitement and the activities of volunteer detectives began to die down. Newspapers fought a pest of clairvoyants, people who had seen Charley Ross in a vision, spiritualists bringing in town ghostly tribes of Indians who brought word that the lad had been adopted into a far-western Indian tribe. Mothers wept all over the country as a national detective agency scattered thousands of photographs throughout the land.

"The Amalgamated Friends of Charley Ross" became a nationally organized society. Nobody could say the newspapers were pumping this up. It was merely a manifestation of spontaneous public feeling. Kidnaping was then and is now a tremendous moving story, one which stirs the fires of anger and tugs at the heart-strings of pity.

by JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Although most headaches are believed to be due to stomach and intestinal disturbances and a great many to sinus trouble, there is a large number that are due to eye-strain. So common are headaches due to eye-strain that headache is often considered the only or outstanding symptom, whereas eye-strain may cause symptoms in organs far removed from the eyes. Even the headache itself is not the same in different individuals and may vary somewhat even in the one individual.

Headache from eye-strain may come on slowly or rapidly. It may be over one eye or both eyes, although the ache is usually more severe over one eye than the other because one eye is usually weaker or more defective than the other.

"Headaches may begin at any age, but more frequently after the first year or two at school." These headaches occur with a certain degree of regularity, perhaps once every two weeks for a while and gradually become more frequent.

As these headaches are often accompanied by nausea and vomiting it is only natural that it is blamed on some food that was eaten, eating too much food, or eating when tired.

"Some soon learn to become suspicious of their eyes because of headache following theater-going, card-playing, car-riding, shopping, sewing or reading too long."

In Handbook of Therapy, by Drs. Oliver T. Osborne and Morris Fishbein, it is pointed out that dizziness, stomach upsetment, even nausea and vomting may occur without any headache whatever and still be due to eye-strain. Cold hands and feet, chilly sensations, faint feelings, palpitation, irregular heart beat and pain in region of the heart may be due to eye-strain and be corrected by correcting the eye defect.

Unfortunately, as eye-strain is not suspected of being the cause of headaches because of other symptoms—nausea, vomiting, cold hands and feet—many of these patients become nervous and irritable which is apt to cause more frequent attacks. These symptoms are often called "bilious attacks" and good nourishing foods may be blamed for it and left out of the patient's diet, causing further weakness and nervousness.

In cases of headache, nausea and vomiting occurring from time to time, an examination of the eyes would be good sense.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"What are you doing now that you are out of school?"

"O, nothing. What is there for me to do?"

"There's so much for you to do that one lifetime, or ten, could not be long enough. You are young, intelligent, educated at least as far as schooling goes, and you do nothing. You'd better get busy or you'll get into serious trouble, one way or another."

"There's nothing for me to do."

"Your mother would be glad if you took charge of the house, or part of it."

"I'm not interested in housework."

"Well, there's the farm. You love outdoors, you want to live in the country. Why don't you take the job of foreman there? Your father would like that immensely."

"I'm not interested in farming, in that part of it. I like to ride the horses and play with the dogs, but after that, there's nothing in it for me."

"How about social service work? You could volunteer for that and do something really helpful."

"I've never liked that sort of thing. No interest in it. I never could do a routine job. I must have room for action, something different all the time."

"You are seventeen. You have no interest in anything that means steady work. Where do you expect to get? If you expect to be married surely you expect to be able to carry some share of the load of responsibility marriage brings. No man wants a helpless woman, a useless creature, hanging about his neck. You have to prepare for something useful if you expect to live with any degree of success, anywhere, any time. You've got to get to work. What would you really like to do?"

"Go adventuring in the jungle. That would be a fine life. I'd like that."

"Can you walk long distances? Row a boat? Hunt? Understand first aid for a poisonous bite? Can you pitch a camp? Make a camp fire? Cook camp meals? Sleep outdoors even in bad weather? Not afraid of wild animals or of strange people?"

"Oh, well, of course, I'd have to learn, somehow, when the situation arose."

"Why don't you learn to cook and to sew and to give first aid, and all the other odd jobs that go with a woman's life?"

"I'm just not interested."

This is one of the extreme cases brought about by our unusual social and economic conditions, but this lack of interest is used too often to protect the slacker from criticism or from his own guilty conscience. Interest does not often precede knowledge. We are interested most in what we know most about, and we are interested in the work that we can do best. In order to have an interest one must be willing to undergo the experiences that are its essence. One must be willing to work, to do the drudgery of the job before one can expect to enjoy its thrills.

No adolescent need be idle, for there is enough work lying loose to keep the whole generation active. Volunteer service is welcomed and it is one way of acquiring experience so essential to interest, knowledge and skill.

DROP SHOWN IN FARM EXPORTS

Decline Reported To Be Due Largely To Fall In Cotton Shipments

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—A curtailed foreign market for their products confronts American farmers as they move well into a new crop season with prospects of production considerably in excess of domestic needs.

The agriculture department's foreign service reported today that exports of agricultural commodities during the first 10 months of the current fiscal year were 21 per cent lower in value than in the comparable period a year ago.

The exports were valued at $612,778 compared with $777,26 ,000 a year ago.

The decline was due largely, the service said, to a fall in shipments of cotton, the major item of trade. Exports of cotton dropped 44 per cent in value and 39 per cent in quantity while total exports of all other farm products decreased by 8 per cent in value.

Factors contributing to this loss in foreign sales were said to include sharper competition, political and economic uncertainty in Europe and the orient, and higher prices of some American products, particularly cotton, which has been held above world levels by the government price-pegging loan program.

Federal foreign trade experts expressed the opinion that the United States would have to put forth what they called "special efforts" to re-establish exports at the 1938 level, which in itself was below that of the twenties.

In this connection, President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace have proposed that this country pay a bounty on cotton sold abroad so that exporters can meet the price of competing growths.

Imports of farm products into the United States during the ten-month period were 19 per cent lower than a year ago, the foreign service reported. The imports were valued at $775,820,000 compared with $949,033,000 a year ago.

The value of exports by classes during the ten-month period of this season and last, respectively, included.

Cotton, $164,607,000 and $291,858,000; wheat, $47,0 7,000 and $70,679,000; other grains, $51,000,000 and $62,000,000; tobacco, $136,487,000 and $140,446,000; fats and oils $16,491,000 and $17,226,000.

Representative Joe Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, trails Rayburn, and next to Martin are the British ambassador and his wife, Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay, in figured dress.

U. S. Conservation Project Near Bernice Huge Success

From swamp and narrow stream to big lake, hunting resort and game refuge—all in three years—marks the career of the Claiborne parish project, located 10 miles north of Bernice on Corney creek, near the Junction City-Summerfield highway.

Every day people flock from every part of north Louisiana and even beyond that to see the broad expanse of waters covering 2,000 acres, and held in check by a dam 2,270 feet long, at one end of which is the concrete spillway over which the water pours swiftly. They come to picnic, fish, hunt, take pictures, take their sweethearts boat riding and as summer approaches go swimming. It is rapidly becoming a popular resort and recreational center for this part of the country.

After the three years of work the project is expected to be completed this year, and at a recent meeting of local and state officials the last remaining obstacles have been removed and the project is now nearing its finish. The differences which have existed almost from the beginning were [illegible] when the officials met at [illegible] the state board dropped its contention that the lake would become a breeding place for mosquitoes. The construction of recreational facilities began at once.

In 1935 the United States government purchased 19,270 acres of land for the project paying $126,777 for it. Of the 57 families living on this land, 39 have been relocated. Efforts are being made to relocate the others.

Immediately upon buying the land the first step accomplished was clearing 640 acres of timber and underbrush in the heart of Corney swamp. A sawmill was operated for several months, cutting a total of approximately 750,000 board feet of lumber. A dam 2,700 feet in length with a concrete spillway was constructed, impounding water covering approximately 2,000 acres.

The next steps were erecting a field office and warehouse, as well as nine cabins. Two lookout towers, with dwelling contiguously located have been constructed. Pine seedlings have been planted on 350 acres. Eight miles of road have been constructed and 30 miles of extension telephone lines completed. Extensive fire and erosion control work have been accomplished.

The entire project from 1935 through 1938 has cost $372,550 for development work. An additional $36,730 has been allotted for 1939 and about 75 people will be employed.

The principal development of the project in 1939 will be forestry. About 12 acres will be planted in pine seedlings. Fire breaks and truck lines will be constructed. Barns, latrines and wells will be constructed in connection with the tower men's dwellings to make them habitable. All buildings on those farmsteads which are not needed for future administration will be razed, on usable material salvaged as most of the buildings are too old to be of any value. Eight cattle guards will be erected and 15 miles of fence obliterated. Further, 375 check dams will be constructed for gully control purposes.

The construction of a boat pier and maintenance of the project roads and picnic facilities are the only development work to be accomplished this year. The dam will be sodded with Bermuda grass to check erosion and gullies.

This project has already shown signs of proving to be one of the best wildlife refuges in the south. Flocks of wild geese may be seen far out on its waters. The lake has developed into a haven for migratory fowl and is well stocked with all kinds of fish. Numerous quail, squirrels and other kinds of small game exist in this area. The principal source of income from the project is expected to be derived from the sale of timber and pulpwood.

URGES STUDENTS TO MAKE RESERVATIONS

Dean C. C. Colvert of Northeast Junior college said Saturday he had mailed letters to all high school seniors living on the present and proposed bus routes from towns in this region to the college, urging them to send in their reservation fees for seats on the busses for the next school year as soon as possible.

Mr. Colvert estimated there were more than a thousand high school seniors living on the bus routes who are prospects for admission to the college in the fall. He said four bus routes have been definitely assured, and that plans were going forward for several more lines. Dean Colvert estimated the establishment of the new bus lines would make the monthly cost of attendance to the college per student run as low as thirteen or fourteen dollars, to include books, fees and transportation.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING!

Oil Consumption Definitely Cut By Steel-Flexes

If your automobile motor is using more oil than it should, Elastic Steel-Flex rings will definitely remedy the trouble. These rings, distributed in northeast Louisiana by Hearn Piston Ring Sales, 506 North Second street, are designed expressly to correct oil pumping.

The Elastic Steel-Flex is more than a conventional expander. While designed to eliminate oil pumping, it is flexible enough to reduce cylinder wall wear to a minimum.

After scores of tests on the toughest cases, Continental Piston Ring company of Memphis, Tenn., manufacturers of Elastic Steel-Flex rings, developed a ring that does the job and does it right. At high speed or low speed—even in tapered cylinders—the Elastic Steel-Flex ring flexes freely, gives maximum unit pressure and controls oil without drag or wear.

Tell your mechanic to use Elastic Steel-Flex rings when he suggests that your motor needs new rings.

Besides Elastic Steel-Flex rings, Hearn Piston Ring Sales distributes Lasco brake lining and Arrow head pistons and pins. Moreover, it rebores cylinders and fits pins and gives personal service to Monroe and West Monroe garages on piston ring and brake lining installations.

The BEAR CAT Combination GRAIN and ROUGHAGE MILL Also ENSILAGE CUTTER

You can grind your stock feed into profits the Bear Cat way. It has been established as a fact by farm experts that savings from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent can be obtained through grinding feed properly. And that is what the Bear Cat Grain and Roughage mill does—grind feed properly.

The Bear Cat is a three-purpose grinder. It cuts and grinds any kind of roughage. It fills your silo. It grinds your grain into chops or meal. It makes no difference whether the grain, roughage or ensilage are wet, green or dry, the Bear Cat handles it satisfactorily. Baled hay can be chopped or ground without tearing it apart.

Governor-controlled feed rolls positively eliminate any choking or clogging. There are SKF roller bearings throughout the machine. This makes for light running operation. Any 10-20 tractor will provide sufficient power to operate a Bear Cat. You can see the Bear Cat grinder at Frick company, 133 North Grand street. Or, if you prefer, a catalog will be mailed you on request. Frick company sells Bear Cats under a guarantee to do the job. Otherwise no charge is made. The prices of these grinders are 20 to 30 per cent lower than competitive machines.

Besides Bear Cat grinders, Frick company handles the famous Ann Arbor balers, from horse press or power press to pick-up baler, a full line of M-M tractors and tractor equipment; Frick sawmills, Frick threshers, Frick peanut pickers, edgers, trimmers; and supplies. It maintains, moreover, a service department for the equipment it handles. At present, it has on hand a splendid assortment of small-sized used sawmills particularly suitable in price and quality for farm use.

Cooperative Makes Good Milk Better

Cooperative Dairies, 2407 South Grand street, which engages in the pasteurization of milk, is what its name implies—a milk processing and distributing firm composed of cooperating dairy farmers.

Contrary to the belief of some, Cooperative Dairies restricts its milk buying to the Monroe trade area, to the farmers composing the cooperative. Its annual payroll for labor and milk amounts, incidentally, to more than $100,000.

In the operation of its pasteurization plant, Cooperative Dairies doesn't make bad milk good. It makes good milk better. It processes for distribution only grade A raw milk. And its rich, uniform grade A pasteurized milk measures up to the strictest health and and sanitary requirements.

Enjoy the assurance of knowing that every precaution has been taken to safeguard the milk you drink. Specify Cooperative Dairies pasteurized milk. You'll find it at your favorite food store. Or, if you prefer, you can have it delivered at your door by the Cooperative Dairies routeman who serves your neighborhood. You can place your order by calling either telephone number 2600 or 2601.

Royal Raymaster Gives More Service

The new, advanced U. S. Royal Raymaster tire, in the construction of which have been incorporated the latest improvements made in the manufacture of rayon cord, offers truck and bus operators measureable savings through added miles of service, according to Luther Howell of 707 Tire Service, corner of Hall and Harrison streets, local U. S. tire dealer.

Tests have shown, Mr. Howell said, that the new Raymaster "offers 16 per cent more tread wear minimum and up to 126 per cent greater overall mileage" in operations where tire life is cut short by carcass failure.

"The U. S. Royal Raymaster effects these mileage economies," he said, "because of the almost miraculous ability of its new-type rayon construction to run cooler and to withstand the destructive effects of heat."

URGES STUDENTS TO MAKE RESERVATIONS

Dean C. C. Colvert of Northeast Junior college said Saturday he had mailed letters to all high school seniors living on the present and proposed bus routes from towns in this region to the college, urging them to send in their reservation fees for seats on the busses for the next school year as soon as possible.

Mr. Colvert estimated there were more than a thousand high school seniors living on the bus routes who are prospects for admission to the college in the fall. He said four bus routes have been definitely assured, and that plans were going forward for several more lines. Dean Colvert estimated the establishment of the new bus lines would make the monthly cost of attendance to the college per student run as low as thirteen or fourteen dollars, to include books, fees and transportation.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING!

Oil Consumption Definitely Cut By Steel-Flexes

If your automobile motor is using more oil than it should, Elastic Steel-Flex rings will definitely remedy the trouble. These rings, distributed in northeast Louisiana by Hearn Piston Ring Sales, 506 North Second street, are designed expressly to correct oil pumping.

The Elastic Steel-Flex is more than a conventional expander. While designed to eliminate oil pumping, it is flexible enough to reduce cylinder wall wear to a minimum.

After scores of tests on the toughest cases, Continental Piston Ring company of Memphis, Tenn., manufacturers of Elastic Steel-Flex rings, developed a ring that does the job and does it right. At high speed or low speed—even in tapered cylinders—the Elastic Steel-Flex ring flexes freely, gives maximum unit pressure and controls oil without drag or wear.

Tell your mechanic to use Elastic Steel-Flex rings when he suggests that your motor needs new rings.

Besides Elastic Steel-Flex rings, Hearn Piston Ring Sales distributes Lasco brake lining and Arrow head pistons and pins. Moreover, it rebores cylinders and fits pins and gives personal service to Monroe and West Monroe garages on piston ring and brake lining installations.

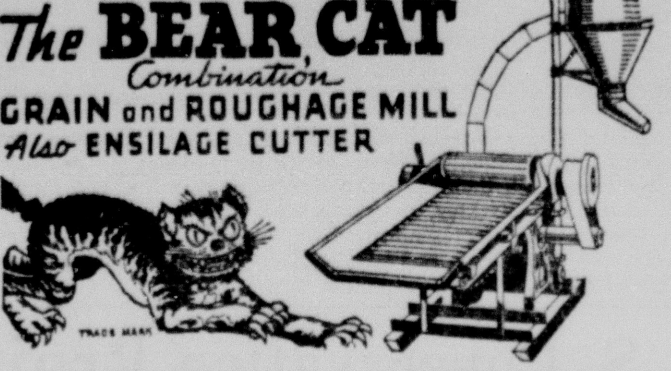
The BEAR CAT
Combination
GRAIN and ROUGHAGE MILL
Also ENSILAGE CUTTER



You can grind your stock feed into profits the Bear Cat way. It has been established as a fact by farm experts that savings from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent can be obtained through grinding feed properly. And that is what the Bear Car Grain and Roughage mill does—grind feed properly.

The Bear Cat is a three-purpose grinder. It cuts and grinds any kind of roughage. It fills your silo. It grinds your grain into chops or meal. It makes no difference whether the grain, roughage or ensilage are wet, green or dry, the Bear Cat handles it satisfactorily. Baled hay can be chopped or ground without tearing it apart.

Governor-controlled feed rolls positively eliminate any choking or clogging. There are SKF roller bearings throughout the machine. This makes for light running operation. Any 10-20 tractor will provide sufficient power to operate a Bear Cat. You can see the Bear Cat grinder at Frick company, 133 North Grand street. Or, if you prefer, a catalog will be mailed you on request. Frick company sells Bear Cats under a guarantee to do the job. Otherwise no charge is made. The prices of these grinders are 20 to 30 per cent lower than competitive machines.

Besides Bear Cat grinders, Frick company handles the famous Ann Arbor balers, from horse press or power press to pick-up baler; a full line of M-M tractors and tractor equipment; Frick sawmills; Frick threshers; Frick peanut pickers; edgers; trimmers; and supplies. It maintains, moreover, a service department for the equipment it handles. At present, it has on hand a splendid assortment of small-sized, used sawmills particularly suitable in price and quality for farm use.

Cooperative Makes Good Milk Better

Cooperative Dairies, 2407 South Grand street, which engages in the pasteurization of milk, is what its name implies—a milk processing and distributing firm composed of cooperating dairy farmers.

Contrary to the belief of some, Cooperative Dairies restricts its milk buying to the Monroe trade area, to the farmers composing the cooperative. Its annual payroll for labor and milk amounts, incidentally, to more than $100,000.

In the operation of its pasteurization plant, Cooperative Dairies doesn't make bad milk good. It makes good milk better. It processes for distribution only grade A raw milk. And its rich, uniform grade A pasteurized milk measures up to the strictest health and and sanitary requirements.

Enjoy the assurance of knowing that every precaution has been taken to safeguard the milk you drink. Specify Cooperative Dairies pasteurized milk. You'll find it at your favorite food store. Or, if you prefer, you can have it delivered at your door by the Cooperative Dairies routeman who serves your neighborhood. You can place your order by calling either telephone number 2600 or 2601.

Royal Raymaster Gives More Service

The new, advanced U. S. Royal Raymaster tire, in the construction of which have been incorporated the latest improvements made in the manufacture of rayon cord, offers truck and bus operators measureable savings through added miles of service, according to Luther Howell of 707 Tire Service, corner of Hall and Harrison streets, local U. S. tire dealer.

Tests have shown, Mr. Howell said, that the new Raymaster "offers 16 per cent more tread wear minimum and up to 136 per cent greater overall mileage" in operations where tire life is cut short by carcass failure.

"The U. S. Royal Raymaster effects these mileage economies," he said, "because of the almost miraculous ability of its new-type rayon construction to run cooler and to withstand the destructive effects of heat."

reinforcing the present exceptional measures" against citizens of this Czech industrial town for the killing of the sergeant, Wilhelm Kniest.

Von Neurath, who had ordered the previous restrictions placed on Kladno's 19,000 citizens, intervened tonight to spare them further penalties.

Von Neurath's office issued a statement saying "the conduct of the population enables the Reich protector to dispense with additional measures on the expiration of the time limit set by the authorities.

The commander of the German police, who have taken complete charge of Kladno since Kniest's body was found in a street Thursday morning, refused to say whether the killers were among dozens of persons being questioned but admitted that more than one man must have shot at the German policeman.

The commander said he was struck by bullets of different caliber.

The German police were of the opinion that the killing was the culmination of a well-organized plan.

"The assassins wanted to shoot someone in German uniform," one officer said.

"It was merely Kniest's misfortune that he walked down the street alone when the killers' plans were ready."

skipping his luncheon cocktail but the queen taking hers. . . . Both omitting their dessert to hurry things up. . . . The cavalcade having been made late because the queen, happy at the presence of such vast crowds, had asked that the procession go slower than had been planned.

Then, as they stepped upon a terrace of the fair's federal building, standing easily and with no silk-hatted personages with them, there was such a tumult of affectionate shouts from the crowd that the queen blinked her eyes rapidly to hold back the almost visible tears.

There was no smile upon the king's lips. He looked solemnly conscious of an extraordinary tribute.

Despite the demonstration at the fair, the number who saw their majesties there was much less than had been expected. The official attendance just before they left was put at a little more than 147,000. The great turnout was on the streets of New York—hundreds of thousands of obscure men and women and children who stood patiently to gape at and to cheer these young titular rulers of an empire of 500,000,000 people.

KING AND QUEEN IN HOME OF ROOSEVELTS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 10—(AP)—The ancestral home of President Roosevelt offered a welcome retreat tonight for King George and his queen—weary but happy over the tremendous, day-long ovation with which New York City's millions greeted them.

After a swift drive up the Hudson river through a light but steady rain, the royal couple turned into the president's quiet estate at 7:41 p.m. eastern daylight time, there to be greeted once again by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

With the president and his wife when the royal party swung up the tree-shaded drive were the president's 84-year-old mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and his son, James.

The president's wife stepped forward first to welcome the queen with a handshake, then turned and introduced her visitor to her mother-in-law, after which the king moved forward so that she could be presented to him.

Over the great porch hung four flags in this order: The royal standard, always evident wherever the king is; the British flag, the American stars and stripes and the president's flag.

Members of the royal party said Poughkeepsie gave them the most enthusiastic welcome after New York City was left behind. State department [illegible] persons [illegible] the highway for the [illegible].

It [illegible] Washington [illegible] and Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt [illegible] after a long [illegible] of formal affairs.

The [illegible] the well-groomed countryside [illegible] the party was through with its engagement at Columbia university. Although the drive in New York City was crowded with cheering thousands, the crowds thinned out as the party sped upstate, partly because of the rain.

Within the century-old home of the president, the royal couple found quiet and an informal restfulness.

It was expected that King George and Queen Elizabeth would find the repose of the president's [illegible]-acre estate in striking contrast to the pretentious grounds and palaces of Britain's sovereigns.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt made a thorough but quick survey of the estate shortly before their majesties left New York for Hyde Park, just to be sure everything was in order.

In the cool study of the stone and stucco house, with ivy climbing over its walls, president and king had their first chance to speak of more than pleasantries.

Mr. Roosevelt already had indicated that he and the king probably would touch on international affairs.

One bedroom each was set aside for the British monarchs. And they could retire as early as they wished because no entertainment was planned after dinner—to which 30 guests were invited.

men got out of the car. Broughton declared to the sheriff Saturday morning that Walker reached back into the car and got a rifle. He said that while he was trying to get the gun away from Walker, "it must have gone off."

Mrs. Taylor, the police officer's wife, who was sitting on her front porch with visitors at the time, was quoted as saying she saw Walker running from Broughton toward the Taylor residence, heard the shots fired and saw Walker fall, after which Broughton hit him on the head.

Mrs. Taylor endeavored to telephone Officer Taylor, who was not on duty but had gone to town. The call to the police was answered by Officers Hal Posey and R. P. Whitman, who found Walker wounded and lying in the Taylor driveway. Broughton and his wife had left the scene.

City Officer Posey and Deputy Sheriff W. E. Neal went to Arcadia, and with Sheriff Henderson Jordan and Deputy Prentiss Oakley of Bienville parish Broughton and his wife were arrested. The arresting officers attempted to stop the pair just east of Arcadia but the man and his wife sped on through the town. Just west of Arcadia, one of the officers, whose name was not available here, shot through the left rear tire of the Broughton coupe and forced it to stop, Sheriff Thigpen said Saturday.

Broughton told the sheriff here that he would try to get his father in Texas to sign his bond. Asked whether his father had much money, Broughton replied, "Plenty. He's worth about $200,000."

While being fingerprinted in the sheriff's office Saturday morning Broughton said he had been fingerprinted before and had been arrested "several times."

Broughton's attractive wife, attired in slacks, was released by the sheriff Saturday morning. Broughton handed his wife some five and one-dollar bills in the sheriff's office as she was released and he was taken back to the jail.

Broughton told Sheriff Thigpen that his present wife is his fourth. When asked for his previous marriage dates and divorce dates, Broughton smiled and said, "You can't get me for bigamy."

Her two high-pressure, high-temperature turbine units develop enough power to lift the 300,000-ton George Washington bridge more than 160 feet an hour. Or, as Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, chief of the navy's bureau of engineering, explained, she has about the same power as the old Leviathan, a ship 33 times as large, and has the horsepower in half the space in comparison with wartime destroyers.

We pulled away from Federal Shipbuilding's works at Kearny, N. J., at [illegible] a.m. eastern standard time and crossed the path of the U. S. S. Washington, carrying King George and Queen Elizabeth from Sandy Hook to New York. We saw the airplanes overhead and some of the convoy ships but only the outlines of the Washington were visible through a haze.

By [illegible] the Hammann was out in the open and the crew, supplied by the builder, stepped up the speed to [illegible]. While going at 39-40 knots [illegible] a geyser of water and [illegible] the rudder [illegible] one side then to the other. The ship leaned sharply to port, then to starboard, her quarterdeck almost touching the water, but pulled out of both tests as if she were only a high-speed [illegible].

She ran at "full power" for two hours preliminary to the climax maneuver, the crash stop. In this, used to prevent a collision or, in battle, to catch a foe offguard, the engines are thrown suddenly from "full speed ahead" to "full speed astern." It's a terrific strain on the ship and its engines and propellers, and somewhat of a shock, to put it mildly, on human beings, but again the Hammann did so well there were "Ah's" and "Oh's" from official observers.

She came to a full stop in 58 seconds, a feat someone figured unofficially, equal to an automobile going 40 miles an hour stopping in one foot. In a few seconds more she was moving 19-20 knots in reverse. She ran this way for 10 minutes. Then came the order, "Full speed ahead." It took her 15 1-2 seconds, only half a length, to halt, then her propellers took hold and she leaped ahead like a greyhound, reaching her 39-knot speed again one minute, five seconds after the order.

Commenting on the 200-mile trial cruise while en route back to the Kearny dock, Senator Lundeen called the ship's performances "astounding things" and said the 58-second halt was "a thrill worth coming for alone."

"Congress," he added, "is ready to spend good American money for research to keep in advance on all these things. I think this ship leads anything of its class and I don't think we have to take second place to any nation in research along these lines.

"It's a thing that must be done, that has to be done and I feel our men are able to do this thing better than any other country. I often think of the phrase, 'Where there is no vision, people perish.' Well, we don't have to worry about that."

upon request of the governor. Leche said he would take part by assisting the prosecutor and serving as counsel for the "downtrodden."

The New Orleans States Friday published a story claiming that a truck carrying a license number issued to Louisiana State university delivered window sashes to a house being constructed by a resident of Metairie, New Orleans suburb, who is a colonel on the governor's staff.

Leche issued a statement after the paper was out in which he said the hearing "would probably have a statewide radio hook-up" and declared that "this business of using public property for private purposes has to stop."

Leche's action recalled that during early 1935 the late Senator Huey P. Long held a radio court in the same supreme court rooms at which he offered a witness who testified that a plot had been hatched to waylay and kill Long on an automobile trip by the senator from Baton Rouge to New Orleans.

Judge J. D. Womack, who presided over Long's court, may preside in the hearing sponsored by Leche, a pupil of the dead Louisiana political dictator.

Judge Womack said today at Baton Rouge:

"'Criminal cases now are being held in Judge Holcomb's division, and, I suppose, he will preside, but if for some reason it is not convenient for him to preside at the public hearing, I suppose I will.'"

1949 or 1950 it is estimated that the peak of hospitalization will be reached for World war veterans and then it is expected that the total beds required will reach [illegible]. From that time on, a decline in required hospitalization is anticipated.

The Alexandria veterans' hospital has facilities for 621 beds, and the cost of the buildings approximates slightly less than two million dollars.

Reports from various committees were received during the morning and afternoon sessions.

At 4 p.m. the parade was held through downtown Monroe and made an excellent showing. Parade marshals were Chief of Police Frank Rotzell, Louis Relleigh, and Frank Cline. The parade was in the following order in its formation:

Department officers, massed colors, Neville High school band, Louisiana national guard, First District Commander Carl N. Finley and posts, Victory Girls' drum corps, Second District Commander W. W. Twigg and posts, Third District Commander B. P. Lemoine and posts, Louisiana Training institute band, Fourth District Commander Jesse Moore, posts and drum corps, Sixth District Commander Ray B. Dobyns and posts, Rayville Junior Drum corps, Seventh District Commander B. C. Reinson and posts, Eighth District Commander Fred Hayes, Rodney J. Hobbs Post Drum corps, Auxiliary department officers and members, Fifth District Commander Lawrence Himel and posts.

A barbecue was held at Bernstein place Saturday at 6 p.m. and at 9:45 a.m. a ball was held on Hotel Virginia roof.

Today's program will conclude the convention. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected by both the department and auxiliary at 10 a.m. Public installation of officers will take place in the afternoon and the drum corps competition will conclude the convention.

277 FSA EMPLOYES WILL LOSE JOBS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 10—(AP)—Approximately 277 employes of the Farm Security administration in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi will be laid off June 30 because of a proposed 10 per cent reduction in the 1939-40 appropriation, J. E. Wise of Washington, FSA budget official, announced here today.

Regional officials said approximately 78 would be discharged in Arkansas, 54 in Louisiana, 68 in Mississippi and 67 in the regional offices here.

Regional Director T. Roy Reid said most of those affected had joined the staff since January 1 and were serving on temporary appointments. He said in some instances work of various parishes and counties would be consolidated, permitting the lay-off of assistant supervisors and temporary clerks.

FIRESTONE WINS 20th Consecutive Victory In Indianapolis 500-Mile Race

the 1939 winner

On May 30th, Wilbur Shaw drove to his second victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Champion Tires at an average speed of 115.03 miles an hour. Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction. That is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

A merciless sun beat down upon the speedway as Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Champion Tires. The blistering brick of the main stretch and the granite-hard surface of the turns and the back stretch put tire safety to the test supreme! Record after record was shattered. Speeds reached as high as 160 miles an hour on the straightaways, as 33 of the fastest drivers in the world waged a breath-taking battle for gold and glory.

Never before in all the history of the motor car have tires been put to such a torturous test. And never before has any tire so firmly established itself as a Champion in construction and performance, as well as in name. Here is dramatic proof of the extra strength which the revolutionary new Safety-Lock cord body provides in Firestone Champion Tires—of the extra protection against blowouts assured by the new and advanced Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process—of the extra mileage resulting from the tougher, wear-resisting rubber compounds in the sensational new Gear-Grip tread.

No longer can there be any question of which tire is safest. One tire—and only one—provides these exclusive safety construction features. One tire—and only one—has been on the winning cars at Indianapolis for 20 consecutive years. Motor car manufacturers enthusiastically adopted the Firestone Champion Tire for their 1939 models. reinforcing the present exceptional measures" against citizens of this Czech industrial town for the killing of the sergeant, Wilhelm Kniest.

Von Neurath, who had ordered the previous restrictions placed on Kladno's 19,000 citizens, intervened tonight to spare them further penalties.

Von Neurath's office issued a statement saying "the conduct of the population enables the Reich protector to dispense with additional measures on the expiration of the time limit set by the authorities.

The commander of the German police, who have taken complete charge of Kladno since Kniest's body was found in a street Thursday morning, refused to say whether the killers were among dozens of persons being questioned but admitted that more than one man must have shot at the German policeman.

The commander said he was struck by bullets of different caliber.

The German police were of the opinion that the killing was the culmination of a well-organized plan.

"The assassins wanted to shoot someone in German uniform," one officer said.

"It was merely Kniest's misfortune that he walked down the street alone when the killers' plans were ready."

skipping his luncheon cocktail but the queen taking hers. . . . Both omitting their dessert to hurry things up. . . . The cavalcade having been made late because the queen, happy at the presence of such vast crowds, had asked that the procession go slower than had been planned.

Then, as they stepped upon a terrace of the fair's federal building, standing easily and with no silk-hatted personages with them, there was such a tumult of affectionate shouts from the crowd that the queen blinked her eyes rapidly to hold back the almost visible tears.

There was no smile upon the king's lips. He looked solemnly conscious of an extraordinary tribute.

Despite the demonstration at the fair, the number who saw their majesties there was much less than had been expected: The official attendance just before they left was put at a little more than 147,000. The great turnout was on the streets of New York—hundreds of thousands of obscure men and women and children who stood patiently to gape at and to cheer these young titular rulers of an empire of 500,000,000 people.

KING AND QUEEN IN HOME OF ROOSEVELTS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 10.—(AP)—The ancestral home of President Roosevelt offered a welcome retreat tonight for King George and his queen—weary but happy over the tremendous, day-long ovation with which New York City's millions greeted them.

After a swift drive up the Hudson river through a light but steady rain, the royal couple turned into the president's quiet estate at 7:41 p.m. eastern daylight time, there to be greeted once again by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

With the president and his wife when the royal party swung up the tree-shaded drive were the president's 84-year-old mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and his son, James.

The president's wife stepped forward first to welcome the queen with a handshake, then turned and introduced her visitor to her mother-in-law, after which the king moved forward so that she could be presented to him.

Over the great porch hung four flags, in this order: The royal standard, always evident wherever the king is; the British flag; the American stars and stripes and the president's flag.

Members of the royal party said Poughkeepsie gave them the most enthusiastic welcome after New York City was left behind. State department officials said about 1,000 persons per mile lined the highway for the entire 75-mile drive.

It was only yesterday in Washington their majesties and Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt parted after a long round of formal affairs.

The motor cavalcade whipped through the well-guarded countryside without delay, once the party was through with its engagement at Columbia university. Although Riverside drive in New York City was crowded with cheering thousands, the crowds thinned out as the party sped upstate, mainly because of the rain.

Within the century-old home of the president, the royal couple found quiet and an informal restfulness.

It was expected that King George and Queen Elizabeth would find the repose of the president's 1,200-acre estate in striking contrast to the pretentious grounds and palaces of Britain's sovereigns.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt made a thorough, but quick survey of the estate shortly before their majesties left New York for Hyde Park, just to be sure everything was in order.

In the cool study of the stone and stucco house, with ivy clambering over its walls, president and king had their first chance to speak of more than pleasantries.

Mr. Roosevelt already had indicated that he and the king probably would touch on international affairs.

One bedroom each was set aside for the British monarchs. And they could retire as early as they wished, because no entertainment was planned after dinner—to which 30 guests were invited.

men got out of the car. Broughton declared to the sheriff Saturday morning that Walker reached back into the car and got a rifle. He said that while he was trying to get the gun away from Walker, "it must have gone off."

Mrs. Taylor, the police officer's wife, who was sitting on her front porch with visitors at the time, was quoted as saying she saw Walker running from Broughton toward the Taylor residence, heard the shots fired and saw Walker fall, after which Broughton hit him on the head.

Mrs. Taylor endeavored to telephone Officer Taylor, who was not on duty but had gone to town. The call to the police was answered by Officers Hal Posey and R. P. Whitman, who found Walker wounded and lying in the Taylor driveway. Broughton and his wife had left the scene.

City Officer Posey and Deputy Sheriff W. E. Neal went to Arcadia, and with Sheriff Henderson Jordan and Deputy Prentiss Oakley of Bienville parish Broughton and his wife were arrested. The arresting officers attempted to stop the pair just east of Arcadia but the man and his wife sped on through the town. Just west of Arcadia, one of the officers, whose name was not available here, shot through the left rear tire of the Broughton coupe and forced it to stop, Sheriff Thigpen said Saturday.

Broughton told the sheriff here that he would try to get his father in Texas to sign his bond. Asked whether his father had much money, Broughton replied, "Plenty. He's worth about $200,000."

While being fingerprinted in the sheriff's office Saturday morning Broughton said he had been fingerprinted before and had been arrested "several times."

Broughton's attractive wife, attired in slacks, was released by the sheriff Saturday morning. Broughton handed his wife some five and one-dollar bills in the sheriff's office as she was released and he was taken back to the jail.

Broughton told Sheriff Thigpen that his present wife is his fourth. When asked for his previous marriage dates and divorce dates, Broughton smiled and said, "You can't get me for bigamy."

serve and represents the very latest in design and power equipment.

Her two high-pressure, high-temperature turbine units develop enough power to lift the 300,000-ton George Washington bridge more than 160 feet an hour. Or, as Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, chief of the navy's bureau of engineering, explained, she has about the same power as the old Leviathan, a ship 33 times as large, and has the horsepower in half the space in comparison with wartime destroyers.

We pulled away from Federal Shipbuilding's works at Kearny, N. J., at 7:30 a.m., eastern standard time, and crossed the path of the U. S. S. Warrington, carrying King George and Queen Elizabeth from Sandy Hook to New York. We saw the airplanes overhead and some of the convoy ships but only the outlines of the Warrington were visible through a haze.

By 10:30, the Hammann was out in the open and the crew, supplied by the builder, stepped up the speed to maximum. While going at 39-40 knots and kicking up a geyser of water and spray astern, the helmsman threw the rudder hard over to one side, then to the other. The ship leaned sharply to port, then to starboard, her quarterdeck almost touching the water, but pulled out of both tests as if she were only a high-speed outboard.

She ran at "full power" for two hours, preliminary to the climax maneuver—the crash stop. In this, used to prevent a collision or, in battle, to catch a foe offguard, the engines are thrown suddenly from "full speed ahead" to "full speed astern." It's a terrific strain on the ship and its engines and propellers—and somewhat of a shock, to put it mildly, on human beings—but again the Hammann did so well there were "Ah's" and "Oh's" from official observers.

She came to a full stop in 58 seconds, a feat, someone figured unofficially, equal to an automobile going 40 miles an hour stopping in one foot. In a few seconds more she was moving 19-20 knots in reverse. She ran this way for 10 minutes. Then came the order, "Full speed ahead." It took her 18 1-2 seconds, only half a length, to halt, then her propellers took hold and she leaped ahead like a greyhound, reaching her 39-knot speed again one minute, five seconds after the order.

Commenting on the 200-mile trial cruise while en route back to the Kearny dock, Senator Lundeen called the ship's performances "astounding things" and said the 58-second halt was "a thrill worth coming for alone."

"Congress," he added, "is ready to spend good American money for research to keep in advance on all these things. I think this ship leads anything of its class and I don't think we have to take second place to any nation in research along these lines.

"It's a thing that must be done, that has to be done and I feel our men are able to do this thing better than any other country. I often think of the phrase, 'Where there is no vision, people perish.' Well, we don't have to worry about that."

believed that German police had solved the case to their satisfaction.

German officials had announced additional measures would be imposed at 2 p.m. yesterday in the Kladno district, where the German policeman was slain, if a solution had not been reached. Announcement that these measures would be withheld was made just before expiration of the deadline.

Shortly after, the German officials issued a communique disclosing that a Czech policeman had been slain in a quarrel with German police.

The semi-official mouthpiece of the foreign office in Berlin accused foreign powers—Britain especially—of fomenting unrest among the Czechs who of late have shown mounting dissatisfaction at German rule.

On this side of the Atlantic, President Roosevelt played host at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, nearing the end of a United States tour which included state receptions in Washington and a trip yesterday to New York and its World's fair.

It was a personal triumph for the king and his queen whose visit served to strengthen the bonds of the two English speaking peoples.

Whether the president and the king talked international affairs in Washington, or would do so at Hyde Park, was a matter between themselves.

In any case the president already had said he supposed there would be such conversations, although informal and of no import.

The king's visit was given a political flavor when Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, said the Roosevelt-King George handclasp was "perhaps the most important of modern times."

In Mexico City reports circulated that the Mexican government was seeking cash and credit in the United States for development of efficient facilities across the isthmus of Tehuantepec which would provide a direct outlet for oil shipments to Japan.

Informed sources there said a former official of the Mexican communications department had gone to the United States seeking help of shipping and financial interests.

worked out as well as had been hoped.

Mexico has been virtually cut out of the Japanese market for oil by lack of efficient direct communications from the oil-producing east to the west and of loading facilities for petroleum on the Pacific coast.

Japan finds it cheaper to get oil in California than to buy at a lower price in Mexico and pay tolls for shipment from Gulf of Mexico ports through the Panama Canal, and across the Pacific to Japan.

Government railroad experts say improvements of the present railroad would create an important interocean commercial link and bring welcome business to the worker-operated national railways. Melquiades Angulo, minister of communications and public works, said after an inspection of the zone that a first class rail line would involve complete rebuilding of the present railroad.

Petroleum loading facilities at Salina Cruz, at the Pacific terminus of the line, are being studied with a view to new construction as a part of investigations undertaken by various government commissions.

Government engineers recently completed a dredging project at Salina Cruz and erected a breakwater to keep silt out of the harbor. The work deepened the channel to 24 feet, enough to permit the entry of large vessels. Such craft already can enter Puerto Mexico, the Atlantic terminus, but the long haul by way of the Panama Canal was said to make freight charges prohibitive for competition in the Asiatic market.

"The government is going to make improvements in the isthmus transportation service just as fast as finances permit," said one official. "Keep your eye on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, things are happening down there."

Under study by a government planning commission is a [illegible] to erect a pipe-line across the isthmus. There have been reports that Japan might help build the line which experts say would cost at least [illegible]. But Japanese here [illegible] the reports as out of the question.

SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN IS OUTLINED

WASHINGTON, June 10 — (AP) — Here is how the social security amendments approved by the house today would affect monthly old age insurance payments to a worker who averaged $100 a month:

	*Present Plan	Revised Plan Single	Revised Plan Married
3 years coverage	No payments	$25.75	$38.63
5 years coverage	$17.50	26.25	39.38
10 years coverage	22.50	27.50	41.25
20 years coverage	32.50	30.00	45.00
30 years coverage	42.50	32.50	48.75
40 years coverage	52.25	35.00	52.50

*Marital status unaffected.

Under the revised plan, the larger "married" payments would be due only if the wife also was aged 65. If she had worked and was entitled to "primary" benefits herself, the married benefit would not be paid unless the total of her and her husband's primary benefits was less than the married benefit. In other words, the husband and his wife could take their choice of each receiving the "single" benefit payment to which they were entitled or the "married," whichever was larger.

The present law provides for a lump sum payment—of three and one-half times what the worker has paid in—to his survivors in case he dies before reaching 65.

The revised plan provides monthly payments to a dependent child, widow, or parent (over 65) on the following scale, if the worker averaged $100 a month:

	Parent Or One Child	Widow	Widow And One Child
3 years coverage	$12.88	$19.31	$32.19
5 years coverage	13.13	19.69	32.81
10 years coverage	13.75	20.63	34.38
20 years coverage	15.00	22.50	37.50
30 years coverage	16.25	24.38	40.63
40 years coverage	17.50	26.25	43.75

Provision is made in the revised plan for lump-sum payments to the estate of a worker who has no survivors entitled to benefits under the above schedule. These will be six times the monthly benefit due under his coverage. After three years coverage the payment, if the average wage had been $100 a month, would be $154.50 compared with $126 under the present plan; after 40 years coverage it would be $2,100, compared with $1,680 under the present plan.

2 ESCAPE INJURY AS PLANES CRASH

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., June 10—(AP)—Two army reserve pilots flying close together escaped injury when their fast pursuit planes crashed almost simultaneously southwest of here during a severe thunderstorm late today.

The ships plunged to the ground and burned about two miles apart.

The pilots, Lieutenant Paul Christian Droz and Lieutenant George McNeese, both of the 77th pursuit squadron at Barksdale field, La., bailed out and landed almost within shouting distance of each other. They were returned to St. Louis by auto.

Neither could be reached immediately, but an eye witness quoted one of the airmen as saying his plane went into a spin after a "clap of thunder."

National guard headquarters in St. Louis reported the young officers had taken off from there half an hour before on a flight to Nashville, Tenn. They had flown from Barksdale field, near Shreveport, on a routine training flight.

The planes were described as Curtiss-Wright P-36s, low-wing monoplanes.

Residents of Millstadt, small community near where the ships crashed, said they observed the planes flying close together at a low altitude over the town a short time before the mishaps.

EXPECT HITLER TO OFFER PLAN

believed that German police had solved the case to their satisfaction.

German officials had announced additional measures would be imposed at 2 p.m. yesterday in the Kladno district, where the German policeman was slain, if a solution had not been reached. Announcement that these measures would be withheld was made just before expiration of the deadline.

Shortly after, the German officials issued a communique disclosing that a Czech policeman had been slain in a quarrel with German police.

The semi-official mouthpiece of the foreign office in Berlin accused foreign powers—Britain especially—of fomenting unrest among the Czechs who of late have shown mounting dissatisfaction at German rule.

On this side of the Atlantic, President Roosevelt played host at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, nearing the end of a United States tour which included state receptions in Washington and a trip yesterday to New York and its World's fair.

It was a personal triumph for the king and his queen whose visit served to strengthen the bonds of the two English speaking peoples.

Whether the president and the king talked international affairs in Washington, or would do so at Hyde Park, was a matter between themselves.

In any case the president already had said he supposed there would be such conversations, although informal and of no import.

The king's visit was given a political flavor when Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, said the Roosevelt-King George handclasp was "perhaps the most important of modern times."

In Mexico City reports circulated that the Mexican government was seeking cash and credit in the United States for development of efficient facilities across the isthmus of Tehuantepec which would provide a direct outlet for oil shipments to Japan.

Informed sources there said a former official of the Mexican communications department had gone to the United States seeking help of shipping and financial interests.

SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN IS OUTLINED

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—Here is how the social security amendments approved by the house today would affect monthly old age insurance payments to a worker who averaged $100 a month:

	*Present Plan	Revised Plan Single	Revised Plan Married
3 years coverage	No payments	$25.75	$38.63
5 years coverage	$17.50	26.25	39.38
10 years coverage	22.50	27.50	41.25
20 years coverage	32.50	30.00	45.00
30 years coverage	42.50	32.50	48.75
40 years coverage	52.25	35.00	52.50

*Marital status unaffected.

Under the revised plan, the larger "married" payments would be due only if the wife also was aged 65. If she had worked and was entitled to "primary" benefits herself, the married benefit would not be paid unless the total of her and her husband's primary benefits was less than the married benefit. In other words, the husband and his wife could take their choice of each receiving the "single" benefit payment to which they were entitled or the "married," whichever was larger.

The present law provides for a lump sum payment—of three and one-half times what the worker has paid in—to his survivors in case he dies before reaching 65.

The revised plan provides monthly payments to a dependent child, widow, or parent (over 65) on the following scale, if the worker averaged $100 a month:

	Parent Or One Child	Widow	Widow And One Child
3 years coverage	$12.88	$19.31	$32.19
5 years coverage	13.13	19.69	32.81
10 years coverage	13.75	20.63	34.38
20 years coverage	15.00	22.50	37.50
30 years coverage	16.25	24.38	40.63
40 years coverage	17.50	26.25	43.75

Provision is made in the revised plan for lump-sum payments to the estate of a worker who has no survivors entitled to benefits under the above schedule. These will be six times the monthly benefit due under his coverage. After three years coverage the payment, if the average wage had been $100 a month, would be $154.50 compared with $126 under the present plan; after 40 years coverage it would be $2,100, compared with $1,680 under the present plan.

MEXICO SEEKING CASH FROM U. S.

worked out as well as had been hoped.

Mexico has been virtually cut out of the Japanese market for oil by lack of efficient direct communications from the oil-producing east to the west and of loading facilities for petroleum on the Pacific coast.

Japan finds it cheaper to get oil in California than to buy at a lower price in Mexico and pay tolls for shipment from Gulf of Mexico ports through the Panama Canal, and across the Pacific to Japan.

Government railroad experts say improvements of the present railroad would create an important interocean commercial link and bring welcome business to the worker-operated national railways. Melquiades Angulo, minister of communications and public works, said after an inspection of the zone that a first class rail line would involve complete rebuilding of the present railroad.

Petroleum loading facilities at Salina Cruz, at the Pacific terminus of the line, are being studied with a view to new construction as a part of investigations undertaken by various government commissions.

Government engineers recently completed a dredging project at Salina Cruz and erected a breakwater to keep silt out of the harbor. The work deepened the channel to 24 feet, enough to permit the entry of large vessels. Such craft already can enter Puerto Mexico, the Atlantic terminus, but the long haul by way of the Panama Canal was said to make freight charges prohibitive for competition in the Asiatic market.

"The government is going to make improvements in the isthmus transportation service just as fast as finances permit," said one official. "Keep your eye on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, things are happening down there."

Under study by a government planning commission is a proposal to erect a pipe-line across the isthmus. There have been reports that Japan might help build the line, which experts say would cost at least $3,000,000. But Japanese here discount these reports as out of the question.

WHITE SOX TROUNCE HOT SPRINGS BATHERS

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

JONESEY 'ARRIVES'

According to the latest unofficial Cotton States league averages, Monroe's White Sox are leading the circuit in fielding. And there's a reason.

This reason is a big one. It's Murrell Jones, 190-pound, six-foot three rookie first sacker who has saved his infield mates many an error already this season.

Jones is truly the "rubber man" of the squad. Sometimes it looks as if he stretches halfway to second base to come up with a throw from one of his pals of the inner defense. Likewise he digs 'em out of the dirt with the fine precision of a Hal Chase and, of course, he takes good care of the high ones with that towering frame of his.

The local youngster undoubtedly is one of the finest prospects to break into this league in several years. He's improving every day, and Doug Taitt says he's the finest young prospect he's ever seen. Doug's been around for quite a spell, and he ought to know whereof he speaks.

Jones was as green as grass when he reported to spring training after Taitt had signed him on the strength of his showing in the Big Six league last summer. Taitt took him under his wing and, with the assistance of Larry Gilbert, whose Nashville Vols trained here this spring, soon imparted a bit of polish to the youngster's play around the first sack. Jones' fielding improved immeasurably and one look at him told everyone that he had latent power at the plate.

The curvers in the Cotton States are somewhat more efficient than those in the Big Six. Thus for a few weeks after the season started Jones was a bit baffled up at the plate. Gradually, however, he caught on and his hitting improved. Now he's batting a most respectable .285 and his average is steadily going up.

The kid's cool and collected out there on the diamond and although he will make some mistakes, what first year rookie won't? it isn't because he's befuddled. He looks like a great prospect and unless there's a fly in the ointment somewhere, the Sox should realize a handsome profit on him.

Yep, Jonesey has definitely arrived. Unless all signs fail, it's two years in the smaller minors and then up the ladder in double-quick time.

POURING IT ON

Friday night the eight Cotton States league teams made 92 runs. Why the heavy hitting this season?

The answer is easy. It's the lively ball.

Last year the circuit used the Spaulding ball. This season, because several of the clubs were affiliated with Southern association teams, the Goldsmith ball was adopted. The Spaulding ball is the same "dead" ball that the National league uses. The Goldsmith is even livelier than the American league's lively Reach ball.

Thus the hitters are having a picnic and the pitchers and infielders are having a nightmare.

Johnny Conway explained it earlier in the season when he was making more errors than he's expected to make.

"That ball really comes at you," the popular Sox shortstop said. "It's there before you know it and unless you're used to it, you neither have time to get set nor do you know how to play it. I was used to the old ball we used last year and this new package of dynamite got my goat for awhile. If you're not careful it will go whizzing by you before you know it."

Johnny, of course, caught on to it after a couple of weeks and now he's batting 'em down in old time style.

Despite the lively ball, those 92 runs, however, would be some kind of record. There's nothing available to show how many runs the eight teams made in four games in the past, but we'll string along with the 92 runs until somebody comes up with an accurate [illegible]

WATKINS CARDED AGAINST 'SHADOW' FOR MAIN EVENT

Former Navy Champion Will Meet Masked Terror Here Thursday Night

The fans still hate him, or think they hate him, yet they would rather see him wrestle than any other grappler currently appearing in this section of the country. This wrestler is none other than the colorful showman, the ring terror who performs with his face masked, under the name of "Shadow." He'll return to the Monroe arena Thursday night for a main event battle with Sailor Watkins of Amarillo, Tex., the former navy champion who has been building up quite a bit of a reputation of his own for villainy in the mat wars.

Last Thursday night, after seeing Watkins win his former bouts by tossing away the rules book, the fans saw him work over Bob Castle, of Memphis, Tenn., in straight falls, with his usual tactics. Whether or not Watkins can win with his cave-man policies against the "Shadow" is a question which will make a decidedly interesting evening in determining the answer.

The former navy champion is one of those ring athletes who appears as tough outside the ring as inside the ropes. He's a natural toughie without any showmanship necessary to demonstrate the fact, while the scarlet-clad "Shadow" can hardly be as tough as he endeavors to demonstrate to his opponents. That is, he needs color and showmanship to perform up to the reputation he has built up, while Watkins is generally accepted at his face value as a dangerous man [illegible]

Promoter Gus Kallio did not book the "Shadow" for last Thursday night's program, and many of the fans requested to bring him back here without delay for the bout with Watkins.

For the semi-final bout the promoter has booked [illegible] (Rocky) Davidson of Terre Haute, Ind., one of the most popular wrestlers who has appeared here since Kallio brought the sport back to Monroe several months ago. The fans remember seeing Watkins [illegible] his opponents with arm and shoulder [illegible] which are his specialty. Davidson's opponent has not been selected but Kallio plans to book for the match a grappler who prefers scientific wrestling.

The program will start at 8:30 o'clock.

1936 Champion Wins Hard-Fought Duel With Edwin McClure On 19th Hole

BATON ROUGE, La., June 10.—(AP)—Beverly Nabors, a newcomer in Louisiana golfing circles, and Bob Glover, the 1936 champion, battled through close semi-final matches today to gain the state championship finals.

They will clash for the title over 36 holes tomorrow.

Nabors, former Birmingham, Ala., player who now lives in Baton Rouge, ousted Don Zimmerman, New Orleans, former all-American football star at Tulane university, 2 and 1.

Glover, who hails from Lafayette, won a hard-fought duel with Edwin McClure, Shreveport, who holds a record for winning the state title five times, on the 19th hole.

In the quarter-finals this morning Paul Leslie, defending champion from New Orleans, was eliminated by Glover on the 18th green. Leslie missed a nine-foot putt which would have squared the match.

TRACK MEETING ENTRIES NAMED

L. S. U. Will Send Three Athletes, Tulane One To National Contests

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—(AP)—Tulane university is sending its star performer, Millard White, to the national intercollegiate track meet at Los Angeles June 16 and 17 while Louisiana State university will send three.

White, shot and discus champion of the Southeastern conference, will be accompanied by Coach Fritz Oakes.

The L. S. U. entries are Billy Brown, conference broad jump champion, Frank Church, 880-yard titleholder and Eldon Wonacott, pole vaulter who tied for second place in the conference meet with 13 feet.

Brown, "baby member" of the 1936 Olympic team in the hop, step and jump while a student at Baker, La., High school, made his debut in a triangular meet with Rice and Texas in April by running the 100 in 9.6 seconds and broad jumping 25 feet 1 3-4 inches.

In the conference meet he won the broad jump easily with a leap of 25 feet 8 1-4 inches with an injured leg.

Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U., who won the 1933 national intercollegiate team title with five men, is accompanying his team.

YELOVIC BLANKS ARKANSAS CLUB FOR 8 INNINGS

Teams Clash Again Today In Double Winding Up Four-Game Series

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 10.—(Special)—The Monroe White Sox, Cotton States league leaders, evened their series with the Hot Springs aggregation here tonight by trimming the Bathers 6 to 2. The two clubs clash again Sunday afternoon in a double header, winding up their four-game series.

John Yelovic, hurling for the White Sox, blanked the Bathers for eight innings, but two hits, an error, a base on balls and a sacrifice fly gave the locals their two runs in the last frame. Yelovic kept eight hits well scattered, allowed only one base on balls and fanned five.

Ray Weisenborn, a right-hander, started on the mound for the locals and went eight innings. He allowed only six hits, but the Sox got their safe blows when they counted most. Albosta pitched the ninth inning for the Bathers, allowing one Monroe tally.

A home run by Frank Hargrove put the Sox out in front in the first frame. Bob Hill singled to start the game and, with Conway at bat, went to second on a passed ball. Hargrove homered over the center field fence, scoring Hill ahead of him.

Monroe added an unearned run in the fourth. Manager Doug Taitt was safe on Wessing's error. Frank Hackney singled into center field, sending Taitt to third. "Red" Pruitt then

WHITE SOX TROUNCE HOT SPRINGS BATHERS

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

JONESEY 'ARRIVES'

According to the latest unofficial Cotton States league averages, Monroe's White Sox are leading the circuit in fielding. And there's a reason.

This reason is a big one. It's Murrell Jones, 190-pound, six-foot three rookie first sacker who has saved his infield mates many an error already this season.

Jones is truly the "rubber man" of the squad. Sometimes it looks as if he stretches halfway to second base to come up with a throw from one of his pals of the inner defense. Likewise he digs 'em out of the dirt with the fine precision of a Hal Chase and, of course, he takes good care of the high ones, what with that towering frame of his.

The local youngster undoubtedly is one of the finest prospects to break into this league in several years. He's improving every day, and Doug Taitt says he's the finest young prospect he's ever seen. Doug's been around for quite a spell, and he ought to know whereof he speaks.

Jones was as green as grass when he reported to spring training after Taitt had signed him on the strength of his showing in the Big Six league last summer. Taitt took him under his wing and, with the assistance of Larry Gilbert, whose Nashville Vols trained here this spring, soon imparted a bit of polish to the youngster's play around the first sack. Jones' fielding improved immeasurably and one look at him told everyone that he had latent power at the plate.

The curvers in the Cotton States are somewhat more efficient than those in the Big Six. Thus for a few weeks after the season started Jones was a bit baffled up at the plate. Gradually, however, he caught on and his hitting improved. Now he's batting a most respectable .285, and his average is steadily going up.

The kid's cool and collected out there on the diamond and although he will make some mistakes—what first year rookie won't?—it isn't because he's befuddled. He looks like a great prospect and unless there's a fly in the ointment somewhere, the Sox should realize a handsome profit on him.

Yep, Jonesey has definitely arrived. Unless all signs fail, it's two years in the smaller minors and then up the ladder in double-quick time.

POURING IT ON

Friday night the eight Cotton States league teams made 92 runs. Why the heavy hitting this season?

The answer is easy. It's the lively ball.

Last year the circuit used the Spaulding ball. This season, because several of the clubs were affiliated with Southern association teams, the Goldsmith ball was adopted. The Spaulding ball is the same "dead 'un" that the National league uses. The Goldsmith is even livelier than the American league's lively Reach ball.

Thus the hitters are having a picnic and the pitchers and infielders are having a nightmare.

Johnny Conway explained it earlier in the season when he was making more errors than he's expected to make.

"That ball really comes at you," the popular Sox shortstop said. "It's there before you know it and unless you're used to it, you neither have time to get set nor do you know how to play it. I was used to the old ball we used last year and this new package of dynamite got my goat for awhile. If you're not careful it will go whizzing by you before you know it."

Johnny, of course, caught on to it after a couple of weeks and now he's batting 'em down in old time style.

Despite the lively ball, those 92 runs, however, should be some kind of record. There's nothing available to show how many runs the eight teams made in four games in the past, but we'll string along with the 92 runs until somebody shows up with an increase.

WATKINS CARDED AGAINST 'SHADOW' FOR MAIN EVENT

Former Navy Champion Will Meet Masked Terror Here Thursday Night

The fans still hate him, or think they hate him, yet they would rather see him wrestle than any other grappler currently appearing in this section of the country. This wrestler is none other than the colorful showman, the ring terror who performs with his face masked, under the name of "Shadow." He'll return to the Monroe arena Thursday night for a main event battle with Sailor Watkins, of Amarillo, Tex., the former navy champion who has been building up quite a bit of a reputation of his own for villainy in the mat wars.

Last Thursday night, after seeing Watkins win his former bouts by tossing away the rules book, the fans saw him work over Bob Castle, of Memphis, Tenn., in straight falls, with his usual tactics. Whether or not Watkins can win with his cave-man policies against the "Shadow" is a question which will make a decidedly interesting evening in determining the answer.

The former navy champion is one of those ring athletes who appears as tough outside the ring as inside the ropes. He's a natural toughie, without any showmanship necessary to demonstrate the fact, while the scarlet-clad "Shadow" can hardly be as tough as he endeavors to demonstrate to his opponents. That is, he needs color and showmanship to perform up to the reputation he has built up, while Watkins is immediately accepted on his face value as a dangerous man to cross.

Promoter Gus Kallio did not book the "Shadow" for last Thursday night's program, and many of the fans requested to bring him back here without delay for the bout with Watkins.

For the semi-final bout, the promoter has booked Bob (Buck) Davidson, of Terre Haute, Ind., one of the most popular wrestlers who has appeared here since Kallio brought the sport back to Monroe several months ago. The fans really enjoy seeing Watkins torture his opponents with arm and shoulder holds, which are his specialty. Davidson's opponent has not been selected, but Kallio plans to book for the match a grappler who prefers scientific wrestling.

The program will start at 8.30 o'clock.

TURNER WILL COACH AT EUDORA SCHOOL

EUDORA, Ark., June 10.—(Special)—C. L. Turner, recent graduate of Arkansas Teachers college, has been elected to succeed Coach Robert Rhea at Eudora High school. Coach Rhea did not seek reelection.

Nine letter men were lost by the local school through graduation, leaving four line men and three backfield men as a nucleus for 1939. Ward Easterling, back, and Billy Wilson, center, were elected co-captains.

The Badgers will meet two Louisiana teams next season—Oak Grove and Lake Providence. Oak Grove has furnished opposition for the opening game of the season for a number of years, but Lake Providence is a newcomer to the schedule. The complete schedule follows:

Sept. 22—Oak Grove, here.

NEWCOMER FROM ALABAMA OUSTS DON ZIMMERMAN

1936 Champion Wins Hard-Fought Duel With Edwin McClure On 19th Hole

BATON ROUGE, La., June 10.—(AP)—Beverly Nabors, a newcomber in Louisiana golfing circles, and Bob Glover, the 1936 champion, battled through close semi-final matches today to gain the state championship finals.

They will clash for the title over 36 holes tomorrow.

Nabors, former Birmingham, Ala., player who now lives in Baton Rouge, ousted Don Zimmerman, New Orleans, former all-American football star at Tulane university, 2 and 1.

Glover, who hails from Lafayette, won a hard-fought duel with Edwin McClure, Shreveport, who holds a record for winning the state title five times, on the 19th hole.

In the quarter-finals this morning Paul Leslie, defending champion from New Orleans, was eliminated by Glover on the 18th green. Leslie missed a nine-foot putt which would have squared the match.

Glover and McClure fired blistering pars at each other during their semi-final. Glover was two up and the turn but McClure won the 10th and 11th to even things. They were square through the 15th.

On the 16th, Glover dubbed a 20-inch putt which would have won the hole and then, as the gallery surged over the green, missed again, allowing McClure to take the lead. The Lafayette sharpshooter won the 17th as McClure three-putted and they squared the 18th.

McClure's fine game went to pieces on the extra hole. He drove out of bounds and then into a trap. His recovery from the trap was poor and he dubbed his fourth stroke. As Glover's ball was still well up the fairway on a 275-yard drive, McClure picked up, conceding the match.

Nabors was two up on Zimmerman through nine holes but Zimmerman was only one down through the 15th. On the next hole, a par five, Nabors shot a screaming spoon second shot to within eight feet from the pin, missed his try for an eagle but took a birdie and won the hole, standing two up and two to go. The 17th was squared with bogie fives.

In the quarter-finals McClure conquered Emile Zachariah, the Baton Rouge city champion, two up; Nabors ousted Hickman Greene, New Orleans, 2 and 1, and Zimmerman defeated Bobby Cole, Baton Rouge, one up.

Leon Rambin, Shreveport, won the championship consolation flight by defeating Al Reuning, Lafayette, 5 and 3.

L. S. U. Will Send Three Athletes, Tulane One To National Contests

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—(AP)—Tulane university is sending its star performer, Millard White, to the national intercollegiate track meet at Los Angeles June 16 and 17 while Louisiana State university will send three.

White, shot and discus champion of the Southeastern conference, will be accompanied by Coach Fritz Oakes.

The L. S. U. entries are Billy Brown, conference broad jump champion; Frank Church, 880 yard titleholder and Eldon Wonacott, pole vaulter who tied for second place in the conference meet with 13 feet.

Brown, "baby member" of the 1936 Olympic team in the hop, step and jump while a student at Baker, La., High school, made his debut in a triangular meet with Rice and Texas in April by running the 100 in 9.6 seconds and broad jumping 25 feet 4 3-4 inches.

In the conference meet he won the broad jump easily with a leap of 23 feet 8 1-4 inches with an injured leg.

Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U., who won the 1933 national intercollegiate team title with five men, is accompanying his team.

Teams Clash Again Today In Double Winding Up Four-Game Series

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 10.—(Special)—The Monroe White Sox, Cotton States league leaders, evened their series with the Hot Springs aggregation here tonight by trimming the Bathers, 6 to 2. The two clubs clash again Sunday afternoon in a double header, winding up their four-game series.

John Yelovic, hurling for the White Sox, blanked the Bathers for eight innings, but two hits, an error, a base on balls and a sacrifice fly gave the locals their two runs in the last frame. Yelovic kept eight hits well scattered, allowed only one base on balls and fanned five.

Ray Weisenborn, a right-hander, started on the mound for the locals and went eight innings. He allowed only six hits, but the Sox got their safe blows when they counted most. Albosta pitched the ninth inning for the Bathers, allowing one Monroe tally.

A home run by Frank Hargrove put the Sox out in front in the first frame. Bob Hill singled to start the game and, with Conway at bat, went to second on a passed ball. Hargrove homered over the center field fence, scoring Hill ahead of him.

Monroe added an unearned run in the fourth. Manager Doug Taitt was safe on Wessing's error. Frank Hackney singled into center field, sending Taitt to third. "Red" Pruitt then

NELSON, SHUTE, WOOD IN NATIONAL FINALS

Triple Golf Playoff First Since 1913; Sam Snead's Game Explodes

By Bill Boni

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(AP)—While Sam Snead's game was exploding in his face on his favorite holes and Ralph Guldahl was toppled from the throne he had occupied for two years, Byron Nelson, Denny Shute and Craig Wood today fired their way into a three-way tie at the end of the regulation 72 holes of the 43rd National Open golf championship. Each had a 284 score for the four rounds.

Sunday afternoon, starting at 1 p.m. eastern standard time, these three will tee off over the 6,786-yard Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia Country club, in the first triple playoff since Francis Ouimet, a cocky young sprout out of Boston, beat England's famed Harry Vardon and Ted Ray back in 1913.

It will be the first playoff the open has produced since 1931 at Inverness when Billy Burke beat George von Elm in 144 holes. But tonight there were predictions that this one would be settled by the end of the 18 holes, with Nelson the winner.

The slim ex-Texan who plays out of Reading, Pa., was a ball of fire in his final two rounds, when the pressure was toughest. Of the three finalists, he made up the most ground, with scores of 71 in the morning and a one-under par 68 for his last round after being tied for 16th place at the half way mark. Shute had rounds of 70 and 72 today and Wood 72-72.

Nelson, one of the several men quoted as 10-1 second choices to Guldahl before the tournament started on Thursday, was the first to post this figure. He came in just behind Marvin (Bud) Ward, the brilliant amateur from Spokane, Wash., who shot a gallant 72 for 285.

With Nelson in and Snead blown up with a disastrous 8 on the par five 18th, Wood was the next man to come down that long, 558-yard finishing hole. The big blond from Mamaroneck, N. Y., who lost to Shute in a playoff for the 1933 British Open title, whipped out two screaming shots to be on the green in two.

Only 12 feet from the cup, he needed that putt for an eagle 3 and 283. But the ball wouldn't drop; Nelson and Wood were tied; and it appeared that Shute, coming up four twosomes behind, would be able to edge out both of them. He needed only to shoot three pars for his 283.

Had he taken his par on the 15th, he would have been able to waste a shot under this pressure. But a straying tee shot that went into the rough and trapped approach had cost him a 5 there, and that one stroke loomed like a dozen after Shute, two time P. G. A. champion, had finished the 17th.

Here his drive caught a trap and caught it in such a bad lie that he barely was able to play out into the fairway and had no chance at all of getting his second home. On in three, he was too far away to can the putt, and again there was a black 5 on his card.

That meant a birdie for victory or a par for a tie. With most of the tremendous gallery of 10,000 strung down both sides of the fairway, Shute poked out two handsome shots that left him 75 yards short of the green. Still there was a chance that Denny might pitch one up stiff and sink the putt.

Shute arched a high pitch and the ball stopped 30 feet from the cup. Denny took a hitch at his cap, studied the line closely, stroked his putt and, by the margin of less than a foot, fell short of being crowned the 43rd United States Open champion.

Next in line at 287 came Johnny Bulla, 25-year-old Chicago pro who shot a 68 to lead Snead, Wood, Shute and Clayton Heafner by a stroke after 54 holes with 211. Playing a three-for-a-dollar drug store ball, Bulla completely stole the galleries' affections from Guldahl with whom he was paired. But the burly youngster couldn't stand the pace, and in the afternoon kited to a 76. Guldahl, who had come from behind to win his championships at Denver and Detroit but had five shots to make up when today's play started, finished with a pair of 72's and in a tie at 288 with Dick Metz, runner up to him a year ago.

Ky Laffoon, Jug McSpaden and P. G. A. Champion Paul Runyan, 289; home club pro Ed Dudley, Henry Picard and Harry Cooper, at 290, and Horton Smith, second to Snead at the half way mark, with 291 trailed in that order. Heafner, who equalled the tournament 18-hole record shared by Walter Hagen, Johnny Goodman, Tom Creavy, Gene Sarazen and Jimmy Thomson, with a three under par 66 in the morning, blew himself to 80 big blows in the afternoon and took 292.

The $1,000 first prize will go to the winner of tomorrow's playoff, while the second man will get $800 and the third $700. If the latter two should tie, they'll split the money. If there's a tie for first, there'll be another playoff on Monday.

ERNIE KOY BELTS TWO DOUBLES TO TALLY FIVE RUNS

Seven Bases On Balls Given Up By Vander Meer And Gene Thompson

BROOKLYN, June 10.—(AP)—The Dodgers, who never give their fans a dull day, defeated the league leading Cincinnati Reds 7 to 6 today in spite of being outhit 12 to 6 and bombed by four Cincinnati homers.

Seven bases on balls given by Johnny Vander Meer and Gene Thompson, first two of four pitchers used by the Reds, made up for the disparity in hits.

Ernie Koy, having one of the hottest hitting streaks in the big leagues at the moment, belted doubles in the first and third innings for five runs to put Brooklyn in front and after the Dodgers blew this lead, they came from behind in a weird eighth inning to win.

Koy's first hit followed two walks and his second came after two walks and a single had filled the bases.

Ernie Lombardi homered in the second and Lonnie Frey in the sixth but Luke Hamlin survived until the Reds really rampaged in the eighth with four runs on homers by Bill Werber and Frank McCormick, the latter coming after Frey had singled and Ival Goodman tripled.

Forrest Presnell, who relieved Hamlin, got the victroy when the Dodgers pushed across two runs in the last half of the inning on a walk and two singles. Lee Grissom, who pitched to only one batter—Pinchhitter Pete Coscarart, who got the first single—was charged with the defeat.

PHILS WIN DOUBLE

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(AP)—The Phillies beat St. Louis twice today, 6-5 and 5-3, with the home teams' newly arrived first baseman providing the punch for the first win.

Jack Bolling, obtained from the Atlanta club of the Southern association, went to work a few hours after he arrived by airplane. He led the batting order and vindicated Manager Doc Prothro's judgment with the victory hit, a two-bagger that scored Kirby Higbe.

The Phillies got their winning margin in the second game on Mickey Owen's third error. The catcher threw the ball into the outfield when Hershel Martin and Emmett Mueller put on a double-steal as Morrie Arnovich fanned.

GIANTS TROUNCE PIRATES

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—After giving the Pittsburgh Pirates two runs on three hits in the first inning, "Prince Hal" Schumacher settled down today to scatter four safeties through the remaining innings and enable the New York Giants to win their series opener 6 to 2.

Zeke Bonura doubled a pair of runs home in the last of the first and one of two errors committed by Bill Brubaker paved the way for two unearned runs in the third to give the Giants a lead they never surrendered.

CUBS BEAT BEES

BOSTON, June 10.—(AP)—Emerging on top in a bit of last-minute maneuvering between the rival managers, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Boston Bees 2 to 1 today in the first game of their series at National league field. It was Earl Whitehill's third victory of the season.

With the Cubs two runs to the good in the last half of the ninth, the Bees pushed Eddie Miller over the plate with a sacrifice fly. Then Pinch Hitter Al Simmons, appearing for Pitcher Milburn Shoffner singled. Manager Casey Stengel, of Boston, sent Johnny Cooney to bat for Debs Garms and Gabby Hartnett countered by sending Charlie Root to pitch in place of Whitehill.

CELLAR TEAMS' SLUGGERS LEAD MAJOR LEAGUES

Morrie Arnovich Of Phillies Bats .400, George McQuinn Of Browns .362

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Their clubs may be in the cellars of their respective leagues, but the locale has had anything but a depressing effect on the hitting of the Phillies' Morrie Arnovich and the Browns' George McQuinn.

Arnovich, retaining his National league in hitting during the week, stepped up his percentage from .377 to .400 while McQuinn regained the pace in the American league by inflating his average from .344 to .362.

Besides McQuinn's rise from sixth to first place in the ranking of the junior circuit batters during the week, two teammates, Myril Hoag and Bill Sullivan, gave the Browns three of the first four berths.

The personnel of the first ten hitters in the American league based on games to and including Friday had fewer changes than for any previous week in the season. Ken Keltner of the Cleveland Indians moved in and Barney McCosky of Detroit and Roy Weatherly of Cleveland, who were tied for tenth last week, drifted out.

It was different in the National league. While Arnovich was getting 13 hits in six games to improve his standing, most of his associates skidded and four dropped from the upper brackets altogether. The places of Fern Bell, Pittsburgh; Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati; Tony Cuccinello, Boston; and Gil Brack, Philadelphia, were taken by Merrill May, Philadelphia; Ernie Koy, Brooklyn; Harry Danning, New York; and Debs Garms, Boston.

HOUSE OF DAVID WILL PLAY HERE

Bearded Negro Baseball Club To Play Tallulah Owls Wednesday Night

One of baseball's funniest attractions, the Negro House of David club of Philadelphia, Pa., will appear at Casino park here Wednesday night at 8 o'clock against the strong Tallulah Owls.

The Philadelphia club, on a nation-wide tour, is the only bearded negro baseball team in the world and will produce "1,000 laughs a minute," according to promoters, in addition to turning in some stellar baseball.

The Negro House of David recently played the stellar Ethiopian Clowns a 4-and-4 tie in New York. The bearded negroes won 130 games last year and expect to earn an equally impressive record this year.

The Tallulah Owls, while not considered in the same class with the visitors, have a veteran team and are among the best negro teams in this part of the country.

Admission to the game will be 40 cents grand stand and 25 cents for bleachers. Special reserved seats will be available for white customers.

By Bill Boni

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(AP)—While Sam Snead's game was exploding in his face on his favorite holes and Ralph Guldahl was toppled from the throne he had occupied for two years, Byron Nelson, Denny Shute and Craig Wood today fired their way into a three-way tie at the end of the regulation 72 holes of the 43rd National Open golf championship. Each had a 284 score for the four rounds.

Sunday afternoon, starting at 1 p.m. eastern standard time, these three will tee off over the 6,786-yard Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia Country club, in the first triple playoff since Francis Ouimet, a cocky young sprout out of Boston, beat England's famed Harry Vardon and Ted Ray back in 1913.

It will be the first playoff the open has produced since 1931 at Inverness when Billy Burke beat George von Elm in 144 holes. But tonight there were predictions that this one would be settled by the end of the 18 holes, with Nelson the winner.

The slim ex-Texan who plays out of Reading, Pa., was a ball of fire in his final two rounds, when the pressure was toughest. Of the three finalists, he made up the most ground, with scores of 71 in the morning and a one-under par 68 for his last round after being tied for 16th place at the half way mark. Shute had rounds of 70 and 72 today and Wood 72-72.

Nelson, one of the several men quoted as 10-1 second choices to Guldahl before the tournament started on Thursday, was the first to post this figure. He came in just behind Marvin (Bud) Ward, the brilliant amateur from Spokane, Wash., who shot a gallant 72 for 285.

With Nelson in and Snead blown up with a disastrous 8 on the par five 18th, Wood was the next man to come down that long, 558-yard finishing hole. The big blond from Mamaroneck, N. Y., who lost to Shute in a playoff for the 1933 British Open title, whipped out two screaming shots to be on the green in two.

Only 12 feet from the cup, he needed that putt for an eagle 3 and 283. But the ball wouldn't drop; Nelson and Wood were tied; and it appeared that Shute, coming up four twosomes behind, would be able to edge out both of them. He needed only to shoot three pars for his 283.

Had he taken his par on the 15th, he would have been able to waste a shot under this pressure. But a straying tee shot that went into the rough and trapped approach had cost him a 5 there, and that one stroke loomed like a dozen after Shute, two time P. G. A. champion, had finished the 17th.

Here his drive caught a trap and caught it in such a bad lie that he barely was able to play out into the fairway and had no chance at all of getting his second home. On in three, he was too far away to can the putt, and again there was a black 5 on his card.

That meant a birdie for victory or a par for a tie. With most of the tremendous gallery of 10,000 strung down both sides of the fairway, Shute poked out two handsome shots that left him 75 yards short of the green. Still there was a chance that Denny might pitch one up stiff and sink the putt.

Shute arched a high pitch and the ball stopped 30 feet from the cup. Denny took a hitch at his cap, studied the line closely, stroked his putt and, by the margin of less than a foot, fell short of being crowned the 43rd United States Open champion.

Next in line at 287 came Johnny Bulla, 25-year-old Chicago pro who shot a 68 to lead Snead, Wood, Shute and Clayton Heafner by a stroke after 54 holes with 211. Playing a three-for-a-dollar drug store ball, Bulla completely stole the galleries' affections from Guldahl with whom he was paired. But the burly youngster couldn't stand the pace, and in the afternoon kited to a 76. Guldahl, who had come from behind to win his championships at Denver and Detroit but had five shots to make up when today's play started, finished with a pair of 72's and in a tie at 288 with Dick Metz, runner up to him a year ago.

Ky Laffoon, Jug McSpaden and P. G. A. Champion Paul Runyan, 289; home club pro Ed Dudley, Henry Picard and Harry Cooper, at 290, and Horton Smith, second to Snead at the half way mark, with 291 trailed in that order. Heafner, who equalled the tournament 18-hole record shared by Walter Hagen, Johnny Goodman, Tom Creavy, Gene Sarazen and Jimmy Thomson, with a three under par 66 in the morning, blew himself to 80 big blows in the afternoon and took 292.

The $1,000 first prize will go to the winner of tomorrow's playoff, while the second man will get $800 and the third $700. If the latter two should tie, they'll split the money. If there's a tie for first, there'll be another playoff on Monday.

ERNIE KOY BELTS TWO DOUBLES TO TALLY FIVE RUNS

Seven Bases On Balls Given Up By Vander Meer And Gene Thompson

BROOKLYN, June 10.—(AP)—The Dodgers, who never give their fans a dull day, defeated the league leading Cincinnati Reds 7 to 6 today in spite of being outhit 12 to 6 and bombed by four Cincinnati homers.

Seven bases on balls given by Johnny Vander Meer and Gene Thompson, first two of four pitchers used by the Reds, made up for the disparity in hits.

Ernie Koy, having one of the hottest hitting streaks in the big leagues at the moment, belted doubles in the first and third innings for five runs to put Brooklyn in front and after the Dodgers blew this lead, they came from behind in a weird eighth inning to win.

Koy's first hit followed two walks and his second came after two walks and a single had filled the bases.

Ernie Lombardi homered in the second and Lonnie Frey in the sixth but Luke Hamlin survived until the Reds really rampaged in the eighth with four runs on homers by Bill Werber and Frank McCormick, the latter coming after Frey had singled and Ival Goodman tripled.

Forrest Presnell, who relieved Hamlin, got the victroy when the Dodgers pushed across two runs in the last half of the inning on a walk and two singles. Lee Grissom, who pitched to only one batter—Pinchhitter Pete Coscarart, who got the first single—was charged with the defeat.

PHILS WIN DOUBLE

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(AP)—The Phillies beat St. Louis twice today, 6-5 and 5-3, with the home teams' newly arrived first baseman providing the punch for the first win.

Jack Bolling, obtained from the Atlanta club of the Southern association, went to work a few hours after he arrived by airplane. He led the batting order and vindicated Manager Doc Prothro's judgment with the victory hit, a two-bagger that scored Kirby Higbe.

The Phillies got their winning margin in the second game on Mickey Owen's third error. The catcher threw the ball into the outfield when Hershel Martin and Emmett Mueller put on a double-steal as Morrie Arnovich fanned.

GIANTS TROUNCE PIRATES

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—After giving the Pittsburgh Pirates two runs on three hits in the first inning, "Prince Hal" Schumacher settled down today to scatter four safeties through the remaining innings and enable the New York Giants to win their series opener 6 to 2.

Zeke Bonura doubled a pair of runs home in the last of the first and one of two errors committted by Bill Brubaker paved the way for two unearned runs in the third to give the Giants a lead they never surrendered.

CUBS BEAT BEES

BOSTON, June 10.—(AP)—Emerging on top in a bit of last-minute maneuvering between the rival managers, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Boston Bees 2 to 1 today in the first game of their series at National league field. It was Earl Whitehill's third victory of the season.

With the Cubs two runs to the good in the last half of the ninth, the Bees pushed Eddie Miller over the plate with a sacrifice fly. Then Pinch Hitter Al Simmons, appearing for Pitcher Milburn Shoffner, singled. Manager Casey Stenel, of Boston, sent Johnny Cooney to bat for Debs Garms—and Gabby Hartnett countered by sending Charlie Root to pitch in place of Whitehill.

Gehrig looked thin and drawn as he announced his decision to have a check-up of his physical condition, but insisted that he expected to return to his position at first for the New York Yankees during the summer.

CELLAR TEAMS' SLUGGERS LEAD MAJOR LEAGUES

Morrie Arnovich Of Phillies Bats .400, George McQuinn Of Browns .362

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Their clubs may be in the cellars of their respective leagues, but the locale has had anything but a depressing effect on the hitting of the Phillies' Morrie Arnovich and the Browns' George McQuinn.

Arnovich, retaining his National league in hitting during the week, stepped up his percentage from .377 to .400 while McQuinn regained the pace in the American league by inflating his average from .344 to .362.

Besides McQuinn's rise from sixth to first place in the ranking of the junior circuit batters during the week, two teammates, Myril Hoag and Bill Sullivan, gave the Browns three of the first four berths.

The personnel of the first ten hitters in the American league, based on games to and including Friday, had fewer changes than for any previous week in the season. Ken Keltner of the Cleveland Indians moved in and Barney McCosky of Detroit and Roy Weatherly of Cleveland, who were tied for tenth last week, drifted out.

It was different in the National league. While Arnovich was getting 13 hits in six games to improve his standing, most of his associates skidded and four dropped from the upper brackets altogether. The places of Fern Bell, Pittsburgh; Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati; Tony Cuccinello, Boston; and Gil Brack, Philadelphia, were taken by Merrill May, Philadelphia; Ernie Koy, Brooklyn; Harry Danning, New York; and Debs Garms, Boston.

HOUSE OF DAVID WILL PLAY HERE

Bearded Negro Baseball Club To Play Tallulah Owls Wednesday Night

One of baseball's funniest attractions, the Negro House of David club of Philadelphia, Pa., will appear at Casino park here Wednesday night at 8 o'clock against the strong Tallulah Owls.

The Philadelphia club, on a nationwide tour, is the only bearded negro baseball team in the world and will produce "1,000 laughs a minute," according to promoters, in addition to turning in some stellar baseball.

The Negro House of David recently played the stellar Ethiopian Clowns a 4-and-4 tie in New York. The bearded negroes won 130 games last year and expect to earn an equally impressive record this year.

The Tallulah Owls, while not considered in the same class with the visitors, have a veteran team and are among the best negro teams in this part of the country.

Admission to the game will be 40 cents grandstand and 25 cents for bleachers. Special reserved seats will be available for white customers.

SOUTHERN GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TUESDAY

HARD TO SELECT SINGLE FAVORITE FROM BIG FIELD

Carl Dann, Jr., Will Face Plenty Of Competition In Defending Title

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 10.—(AP)—It becomes tougher and tougher to put the finger on a single ranking favorite in one of Dixie's big golf shows—the Men's Southern championship.

The southern field has become so congested with fine young golfers that one of a dozen or so could triumph.

Early arrivals for the 37th annual skirmish starting Tuesday put forth a number of choices today as the vanguard took the customary practice jaunts over Belle Meade's battleground.

In earlier years of this fairway competition the predictions came fairly easy by the presence in the lineup of such well-entrenched stylists as Nelson Whitney of New Orleans, a five-time winner, Bobby Jones, who won the crown thrice, and other standouts.

About the safest things to record in advance of the 1939 melee is that Carl Dann, Jr., 29-year-old Floridan, will attempt to fire the shots necessary to defend successfully the crown he won a year ago at Ponte Vedra Beach. He will find no end of competition.

The Orlando champion will face entries from some 11 states, among them Jennings Gordon of Rome, Ga., whom Dann defeated 8 and 7 in the 1938 finals. Two or three former champions will be on hand, principally Fred Haas, Jr., and Sam Perry of Birmingham.

In the last 36 years only three golfers have repeated. Whitney, who has retired from tournament competition, did it twice. He won in 1907-1908 and in 1913-1914. Andrew Manson of Georgia [illegible] 1901-1902 and W. P. Stewart of New [illegible] turned the trick in 1911-1912.

Among others who may be placed in the "potential winner" bracket are Frank Strafaci, the long-driving Arkansas [illegible], Big Bill Stark of [illegible] the Florida [illegible] Dann [illegible] of North Carolina [illegible] of Tampa, Fla. [illegible] of Montgomery, Ala. [illegible] medalist [illegible] Georgia [illegible]

[illegible] Haas [illegible] a [illegible] of two [illegible]. The Alabaman won here at Belle Meade in 1935 and [illegible] Haas won [illegible] defeating Perry in 1934 [illegible] to win again [illegible] to qualify [illegible] Tuesday to determine the 32 places in the championship division and Pro George Livingston announced the course would be at its toughest and some 7,000 yards long for the preliminary scrapping. Champion Dann is exempt from qualifying.

The team championship will be [illegible] the 36-hole medal play preceding the elimination rounds that get under way Thursday. Haas set the qualifying record at Memphis in 1936 when he put together rounds of 73-66—139. Observers figured 144 would be good over Belle Meade's par 71 course and that it might take a pair of 75s to get one of the 21 places open [illegible] bracket.

TRIBE BLASTS 3 HURLERS FOR 11 HITS TO WIN 6-0

Victory Places Indians In Virtual Third-Place Tie With Idle Chisox

CLEVELAND, June 10.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians went into a virtual third-place tie with the idle Chicago White Sox today as Fireball Johnny Allen shut out the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 0, with two-hit pitching.

The Tribe blasted three Philadelphia hurlers for 11 hits, driving Nelson Potter from the hill with a four-run attack in the seventh. Bob Joyce finished the frame and Roy Parmelee succeeded him to start the eighth.

The victory was Allen's third in six starts. Earl Brucker and Babe Siebert were the only A's to hit safely, getting singles in the second and fourth innings.

The Indians' seventh inning drive clinched the contest. Frankie Pytlak started the fireworks by beating out a bunt. Ben Chapman walked and Jeff Heath doubled, scoring Pytlak. Hal Trosky rifled another two-bagger, scoring Chapman and Heath. Trosky counted on Oscar Grimes' single.

Trosky, who walked, scored the initial marker in the second on Ken Keltner's double and Jimmy Webb's sacrifice fly. With two out in the third inning, Ben Chapman was walked and scored on Heath's double.

Siebert connected for a high single to right field off one of Allen's fast balls but went down attempting to steal second.

The only other hit off Allen came when Brucker lined to left with one out [illegible] stranded in the runways [illegible] Sam Chapman and Lodigiani [illegible].

TIGERS TAKE DOUBLE

DETROIT, June 10.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers took a firm grip on fifth place in the American league by sweeping a double header with the Washington Senators today.

Detroit won the opener, 6 to 5, when Hank Greenberg delivered a double in the ninth with two men out that scored Ervin (Pete) Fox from second. In the nightcap the Bengals raked Alexandra Carrasquel and Jimmy DeShong for 19 hits as they slammed out a 17 to 5 triumph.

Big Hank Greenberg of the Tigers had a homer in each game to bring his season total to 15.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Extra The N. B. A. is serious about taking steps to clear up the light-heavyweight situation. . . . The grapevine says if John Henry Lewis doesn't appear in Washington next week for an examination by a group of eye specialists, the N. B. A. will unfrock him and let Melio Bettina (champion in New York), Billy Conn, Pittsburgh challenger, and maybe Len Harvey, British champ, battle it out. . . . The winner of the Gus Lesnevich-Dave Clark fight in Nutley, N. J., also may be included in the free-for-all. . . . So far Gus Greenlee, Lewis' manager, has refused to agree to the examination. . . . He says John Henry is no blinder than when he was regularly defending the title. . . . The British boxing board of control recently refused to let Lewis fight over there.

TRAVEL NOTE

Tommy O'Brien, Anniston (Alabama) High's all-state gridder, returned Friday from Knoxville, where he visited Tennessee athletic authorities. . . . He left Saturday for Tuscaloosa to discuss a scholarship offer from the U. of Alabama.

HEARD AND SEEN

The Dodgers have offered as high as $65,000 for Don Padgett of the Cards and are still trying. . . . Tony Canzoneri tells a columnist: "The Eric Boon fight in London positively will be my last." (Tony's kid brother, Cy, receives his degree at Alabama this month, which may be the reason the old boy has been trying to hang on) . . . Bobby Jones hardly taking his eyes off Ralph Guldahl at the open . . . Promoter Tom Gallery bet $100 against $10,000 Jack Roper would floor Joe Louis in the first round. Nobody but Louis knows how near Gallery came to collecting.

GUEST STAR

Si Burick, Dayton (Ohio) News: "There are no cobwebs on the Cincinnati turnstiles. . . . 250,000 paid admissions at home so far—and they're talking about a million dollar season."

Rue De Sockerue: You can hear Lou Nova coast-to-coast Tuesday night . . . Johnny Ray is here from Pittsburgh to iron out a few wrinkles in the Billy Conn-Melio Bettina brawl next month. . . . The 20th Century outfit moves headquarters from the Hippodrome back to the Brill building, 49th street and Broadway, September 1 . . . Solly Krieger, who'll get considerably more than the champion's end to fight Al Hostak this month, takes off for Seattle tomorrow. . . . Max Baer and Ancil Hoffman have gone back west, sadder, wiser but richer. . . . Henry Armstrong may take a winter fight in Italy with Aldo Spoldi.

YEP, THEY'VE GOT SOME

A Cleveland rumor, quickly picked up on Broadway, has it that the Giants are about to start peddling bananas.

Quick Ones: Gunnar Barlund, the heavyweight, who also represents a newspaper in Sweden, had to cover his own fight with Tony Musto in Chicago the other night. . . . The Southeastern conference may hold its next track meet under the arcs. . . . The floodlights in the Cleveland ball park could supply power for more than 3,000 homes. . . . The Richmond (Va.) Arrows of the Dixie pro football league, are advertising for talent—all positions.

SOUTHERN GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TUESDAY

HARD TO SELECT SINGLE FAVORITE FROM BIG FIELD

Carl Dann, Jr., Will Face Plenty Of Competition In Defending Title

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 10.—(AP)—It becomes tougher and tougher to put the finger on a single ranking favorite in one of Dixie's big golf shows—the Men's Southern championship.

The southern field has become so congested with fine young golfers that one of a dozen or so could triumph.

Early arrivals for the 37th annual skirmish starting Tuesday put forth a number of choices today as the vanguard took the customary practice jaunts over Belle Meade's battleground.

In earlier years of this fairway competition the predictions came fairly easy by the presence in the lineup of such well-entrenched stylists as Nelson Whitney of New Orleans, a five-time winner, Bobby Jones, who won the crown thrice, and other standouts.

About the safest things to record in advance of the 1939 melee is that Carl Dann, Jr., 29-year-old Floridian, will attempt to fire the shots necessary to defend successfully the crown he won a year ago at Ponte Vedra Beach. He will find no end of competition.

The Orlando champion will face entries from some 11 states, among them Jennings Gordon of Rome, Ga., whom Dann defeated 8 and 7 in the 1938 finals. Two or three former champions will be on hand, principally Fred Haas, Jr., and Sam Perry of Birmingham.

In the last 36 years only three golfers have repeated. Whitney who has retired from tournament competition, did it twice. He won in 1907-1908 and in 1913-1914. Andrew Mason of Georgia won in 1904-1905 and W. P. Stewart of New Orleans turned the trick in 1911-1912.

Among others who may be placed in the "potential winner" bracket are Frank Stiedle, the long-driving Arkansas champion; Big Bill Stark of Jacksonville, who won the Florida crown by defeating Dann recently; Bobby Dunkelberger of North Carolina, Henry Castillo of Tampa, Fla., Scudday Horner of Montgomery, Ala., who as a kid of 16 was medalist in 1931, and Johnny Oliver of Georgia, a semi-finalist last year.

Perry and Haas, if both enter, will give the tournament a brace of two-time winners. The Alabaman won here at Belle Meade in 1929 and triumphed again in 1932. Haas won his first crown by defeating Perry in 1934 and came back in 1937 to win again.

There will be two 18-hole qualifying rounds, the first on Tuesday, to determine the 32 places in the championship division and Pro George Livingston announced the course would be at its toughest and some 7,000 yards long for the preliminary scrapping. Champion Dann is exempt from qualifying.

The team championship will be decided in the 36-hole medal play preceding the elimination rounds that get under way Thursday. Haas set the qualifying record at Memphis in 1936 when he put together rounds of 73-66—139. Observers figured 143 would be good over Belle Meade's par 71 course, and that it might take a pair of 78s to get one of the 31 places open in the titular bracket.

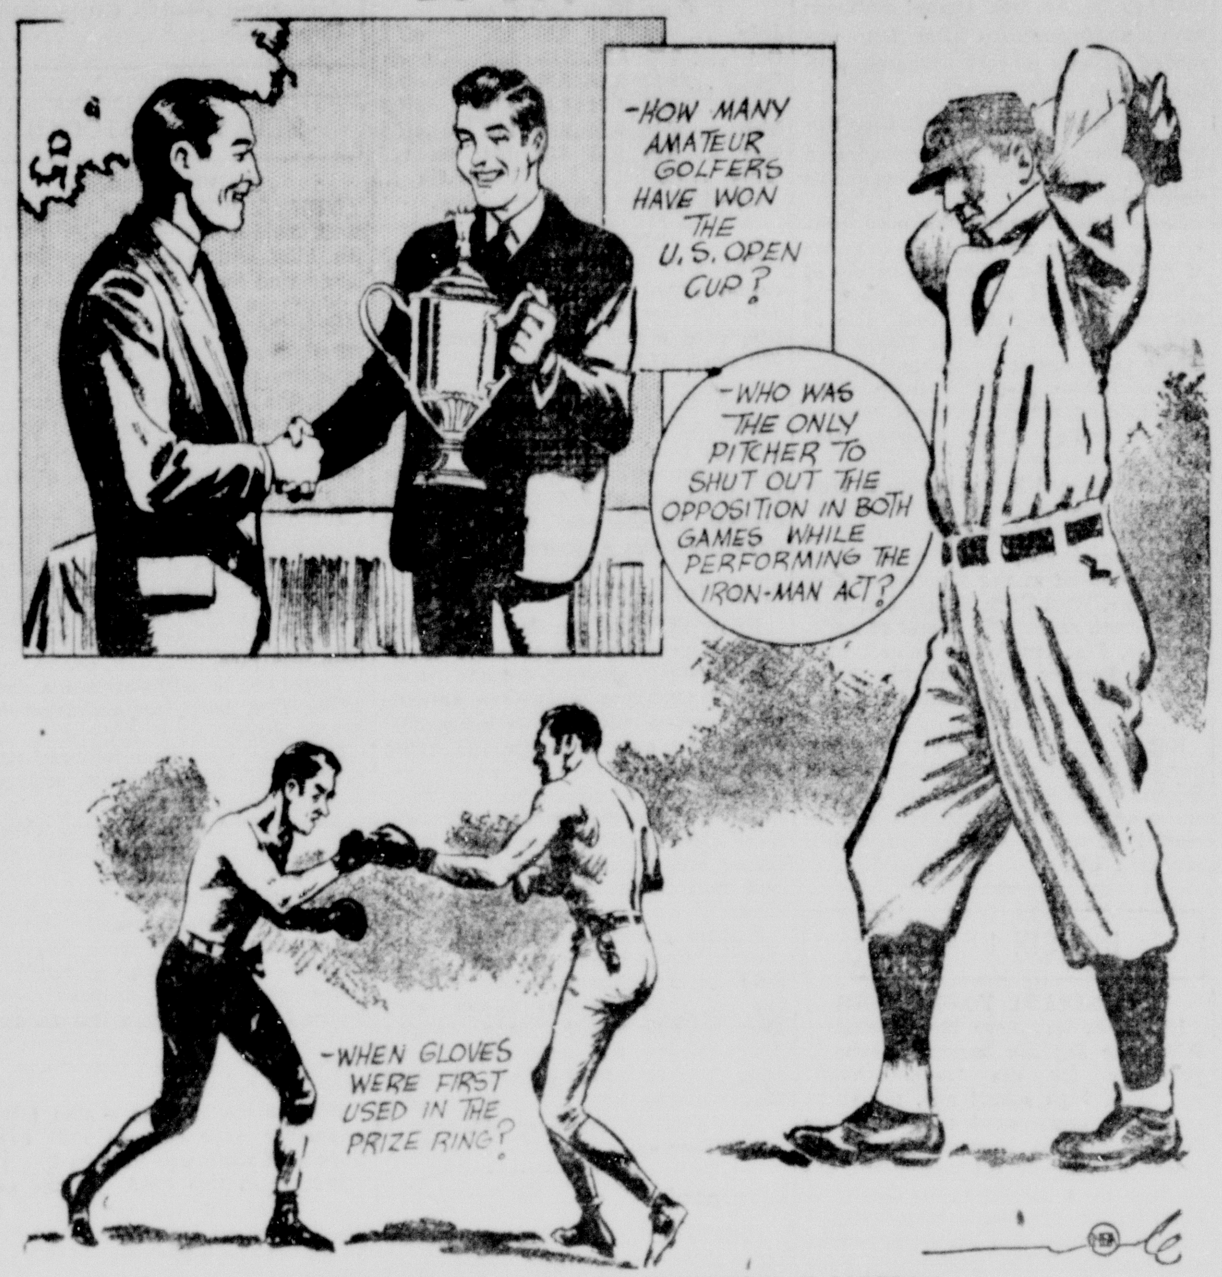
DO YOU KNOW—?



—HOW MANY AMATEUR GOLFERS HAVE WON THE U.S. OPEN CUP?
—WHO WAS THE ONLY PITCHER TO SHUT OUT THE OPPOSITION IN BOTH GAMES WHILE PERFORMING THE IRON-MAN ACT?
—WHEN GLOVES WERE FIRST USED IN THE PRIZE RING?

ANSWERS TO ART KRENZ 'DO YOU KNOW—?' CARTOON

1. Only five amateur golfers have won the United States Open title: Jerry Travers, Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Bobby Jones and Johnny Goodman.
2. Ed Reulbach of the Chicago Cubs shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers twice, 5-0, 3-0, on September 26, 1908.

LEWIS TO RECEIVE EYE EXAMINATION

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—John Henry Lewis, light-heavyweight boxing champion, will submit to an eye examination in Pittsburgh on June 15 to determine his fitness for further competition, the National Boxing association was informed today.

Charles F. Reynolds, president of the association, said that if Lewis passed the test he would be required to defend his title. If not, he added, the title would be declared vacant and the N. B. A. ratings committee would propose at its next meeting a title fight between Melio Bettina and any of these opponents:

Billy Conn, Pittsburgh; Dave Clark, Detroit; Gus Lesnevich, Cliffside, N. J.; Ron Richards, Australia; the winner of the Len Harvey-Jack McAvoy bout.

WILL DROP BALLS FROM AIRPLANE TO SEMI-PROS

WICHITA, Kas., June 10.—(AP)—Shades of Gabby Street! Baseballs will be dropped from an airplane flying 600 feet at the National Semi-Pro baseball tourney here August 11. Any player entered may try to catch 'em for a new altitude record.

Some 20 years ago Street—then Walter Johnson's battery mate with the Senators—caught a ball dropped from the Washington monument. That's 555 feet. He didn't hold the ball until about the thirteenth attempt.

Gabby's record seems fairly safe. The semi-pros get only three chances. But there's a $100 reward if one succeeds.

Victory Places Indians In Virtual Third-Place Tie With Idle Chisox

CLEVELAND, June 10.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians went into a virtual third-place tie with the idle Chicago White Sox today as Fireball Johnny Allen shut out the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 0, with two-hit pitching.

The Tribe blasted three Philadelphia hurlers for 11 hits, driving Nelson Potter from the hill with a four-run attack in the seventh. Bob Joyce finished the frame and Roy Parmelee succeeded him to start the eighth.

The victory was Allen's third in six starts. Earl Brucker and Babe Siebert were the only A's to hit safely, getting singles in the second and fourth innings.

The Indians' seventh inning drive cinched the contest. Frankie Pytlak started the fireworks by beating out a bunt. Ben Chapman walked and Jeff Heath doubled, scoring Pytlak. Hal Trosky rifled another two-bagger, scoring Chapman and Heath. Trosky counted on Oscar Grimes' single.

Trosky, who walked, scored the initial marker in the second on Ken Keltner's double and Jimmy Webb's sacrifice fly. With two out in the third inning, Ben Chapman was walked and scored on Heath's double.

Siebert connected for a high single to right field off one of Allen's fast balls, but went down attempting to steal second.

The only other hit off Allen came when Brucker lined to left with one out, but was stranded on the runways when both Sam Chapman and Lodigiani flied.

PLAN PROMOTION OF GRID CLASSIC

All-Star Contest Will Have Extensive Newspaper And Radio Tieup

The 1939 all-star football game which will bring together the college all-American stars of 1938 and the New York Giants, champions of the National Professional Football league, at Soldiers' Field the night of August 30, will have the greatest newspaper and radio tieup in the history of sports promotion. More than 325 newspapers and radio stations from every state in the union except Delaware, including the News-Star—World, will cooperate with the Chicago Tribune in conducting the players and coaches poll.

The players poll is held for the purpose of selecting a starting lineup of college players to face the professional champions. The eleven players chosen as all-Americans by the fans must start the game. The coaches may, of course, make substitutions later but they are obliged to use the starting lineup selected by the fans of the nation.

In order to trace the origin of the all-star football game it is necessary to go back to 1933 when the all-star baseball game between the National and American leagues was first held. That year the sports editors of the Chicago newspapers were asked to contribute ideas for events that would help attract people to the Century of Progress which opened that year.

It was the good fortune of Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, to hit upon the idea of bringing the stars of the two major leagues against each other at Comiskey park. It is a matter of history now that the plan was carried out and the game is now one of the high points of each baseball season.

The important factor in the success of that promotion was that the fans of the nation were invited to name the personnel of both teams.

OUACHITA VALLEY

The Ouachita Valley baseball league ends its first half race next Sunday with three teams still in the running for the first half championship and with Ruston holding the inside track.

However, the Ruston Vols, 1938 champions, have been weakened in the past few days and may have trouble winning the three games they have yet to play with Camden today, Hodge on Wednesday and Crossett next Sunday.

The Camden Kraftsmen, in third place, still stand a good chance to win, while the Hodge Wa-Ha's are serious contenders. Games today find Ruston at Camden, and Crossett at Hodge.

The second half schedule begins June 25, and the winners of the two halves will meet at the end of the season in the championship series.

Newhouser lifted a fly into right field, but Taitt dropped the ball, Carter scoring, McBride going to third and Newhouser on to second. Wessing walked, loading the bases. DERRINGER AVOIDS WARRANT EXECUTION

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Maybe it's just as well for the New York Giants that big Paul Derringer can't come to town to pitch a baseball game without paying up or being put in jail.

Derringer's team, the Cincinnati Reds, are leading the National league. The dejected Giants are sixth, and Derringer has beaten them twice this season, shutting them out once with five hits. The Reds lost to the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers 7-6 today, but jail-shy Derringer wouldn't have pitched anyway because he already had earned his week's pay by winning one in Philadelphia Thursday.

Needed or not, Derringer remained in Philadelphia, avoiding a "body execution" obtained against him in state supreme court by Robert E. Condon, industrial engineer of Larchmont, N. Y., whom Derringer owes $8,170 on account of a fracas in a Philadelphia hotel in 1936.

Condon obtained a judgment for $8,170, claiming that the pitcher assaulted him. The latest order against Derringer requires that he be arrested and held until he pays the judgment or post bond for twice the amount. The bond would prevent Derringer from leaving the county, which would restrict his activities somewhat since the Reds are commencing a long series at home after leaving Brooklyn tomorrow.

ing that a broken neck is not always the end of a baseball career. Andy's record at Danville, Va., in the Bi-State league last summer is exhibit A in his sheaf of proofs.

In 1937, when Gilbert was launching his professional career with Mansfield of the Ohio State league, he was enjoying the satisfaction of a great start. He was hitting at a .355 clip, was leading the loop in runs batted in and stolen bases and was playing general bang-up ball when a near-tragedy befell him. No one ever expected him to play another game of ball. His life was despaired of for several days.

Sliding into second base in a head-first dive on the last day of July, Gilbert's head was jammed into his shoulders. He was rushed to a hospital where an examination disclosed two broken vertebrae. Andy spent six weeks in that hospital and it was January before the cast was removed from his neck.

Three months after the removal of the cast, he wrote the Boston Red Sox office that he was ready to start out again. That was a distinct surprise. They had about erased him from the picture.

But the boy was determined to go out again and he was sent to Danville to see if he could make the grade. He flashed on his first appearance and kept it up all summer. His hitting was savage and his fielding showed the serious injury had detracted nothing from his ability.

Gilbert wound up with a batting average of [illegible] and was among the pacemakers with [illegible] runs batted in. He connected for [illegible] homers.

"There is a kid with all the nerve in the world," says Billy Evans, supervisor of the Red Sox farms. "We had given up on him after his injury, but he showed us he had the stuff and he is going to be a good ball player."

ATLANTA TENNIS ENTRIES ADVANCE

Rain Washes Out Most Of First-Round Matches Of Dixie Championships

ATLANTA, June 10.—(AP)—Rain washed out most of today's first-round matches in the 54th annual southern tennis championships after four unseeded Atlanta players advanced with straight-set victories.

Three other netmen, including two seeded stars, reached the second round without effort when their opponents defaulted.

Kells Boland scored the most convincing win by walloping R. E. Smith of Athens 6-0, 6-0. Charles Lindsay of Atlanta dropped only two games in eliminating Grady Blackwell, also of Atlanta, 6-1, 6-1. Marion Reese was given the hardest opposition in defeating Bobby Wyatt in another all-Atlanta duel, 6-3, 6-4. Warren Bearden stopped Milton Allen, Decatur, Ga., 6-3, 6-2.

Fourth-seeded Ernie Sutter of New Orleans, who reached the 1938 southern finals which were never finished after several postponements, advanced with a default at the expense of Jack Ohlhaber, West Palm Beach, Fla. Harris Everett, seeded No. 9 and of Jacksonville, Fla., received a default from Pollard Parsons, Jr., Nashville, Tenn. Molly Williamson defaulted to Red Hill, both of Atlanta.

None of the tournament favorites, headed by the nation's sixth ranking Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, was scheduled to play today. The first-seeded Grant is seeking his eighth southern title.

BIG SIX LEAGUE

VETS STEADY YOUNGSTERS

RUSTON, La., June [illegible]—(Special)—While the Big Six baseball league is primarily for the "neighborhood" youths of high school age, the clubs are being encouraged to include on their rosters at least two or three veterans to steady the youngsters, according to a statement by Larry J. Fox, league president, here today.

Buck Norman and Foster Reynolds, old Ouachita Valley performers, have been signed by the Marion [illegible] but President Fox predicts a change in performance [illegible] with the steadying hands of such veterans as Norman and Reynolds.

President Fox also [illegible] the league's hurlers, particularly the left-handers. The southpaws are [illegible] of Bernice, [illegible] of Arcadia, LeRoy Counts and Keith Jones of Chatham, and "Schoolboy" Taylor of Farmerville.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—The stock market had to vie with the British king and queen today and the latter won hands down.

With the majority of traders forsaking the exchange floor and boardrooms in order to take a look at their majesties on their first visit to New York, the ticker tape frequently was at a standstill during the two-hour proceedings. Closing prices, consequently, were well mixed, generally in a fractional range.

Business news continued more optimistic than otherwise, as did foreign affairs. But the sharp run-in in yesterday's session attracted some profit-taking, brokers said. Aside from one or two isolated spots, however, weakness was rare.

Transfers, notwithstanding a rather active first hour, approximated only 250,000 shares.

Bonds, on the whole, followed stocks over the down-thing route, and commodities were mixed.

American Air Lines came over to the big board from the curb today and advanced around a point at the best. Other aviations were listless although earnings forecasts for the major manufacturers were cheering.

Patino Mines, with principal tin properties in Bolivia, dropped about 2 points to a new year's low following action of the Bolivian government in decreeing exchange restrictions for mineral exports.

PLAN PROMOTION OF GRID CLASSIC

All-Star Contest Will Have Extensive Newspaper And Radio Tieup

The 1939 all-star football game which will bring together the college all-American stars of 1938 and the New York Giants, champions of the National Professional Football league, at Soldiers' Field the night of August 30, will have the greatest newspaper and radio tieup in the history of sports promotion. More than 325 newspapers and radio stations from every state in the union except Delaware, including the News-Star—World, will cooperate with the Chicago Tribune in conducting the players and coaches poll.

The players poll is held for the purpose of selecting a starting lineup of college players to face the professional champions. The eleven players chosen as all-Americans by the fans must start the game. The coaches may, of course, make substitutions later but they are obliged to use the starting lineup selected by the fans of the nation.

In order to trace the origin of the all-star football game it is necessary to go back to 1933 when the all-star baseball game between the National and American leagues was first held. That year the sports editors of the Chicago newspapers were asked to contribute ideas for events that would help attract people to the Century of Progress which opened that year.

It was the good fortune of Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, to hit upon the idea of bringing the stars of the two major leagues against each other at Comiskey park. It is a matter of history now that the plan was carried out and the game is now one of the high points of each baseball season.

The important factor in the success of that promotion was that the fans of the nation were invited to name the personnel of both teams.

OUACHITA VALLEY

The Ouachita Valley baseball league ends its first half race next Sunday with three teams still in the running for the first half championship and with Ruston holding the inside track.

However, the Ruston Vols, 1938 champions, have been weakened in the past few days and may have trouble winning the three games they have yet to play with Camden today, Hodge on Wednesday and Crossett next Sunday.

The Camden Kraftsmen, in third place, still stand a good chance to win, while the Hodge Wa-Ha's are serious contenders. Games today find Ruston at Camden, and Crossett at Hodge.

The second half schedule begins June 25, and the winners of the two halves will meet at the end of the season in the championship series.

lifted a sacrifice fly into center field, Taitt scoring after the catch.

A double by Hackney in the eighth frame added two more White Sox runs. With one out, Hill singled. Conway was safe when Wessing muffed his grounder, and Hargrove drew a walk, loading the bases. Hackney doubled into center field, scoring Hill and Conway, but Hargrove was thrown out at the plate as he also tried to score.

The Sox tapered off with one more tally in the ninth when Pruitt walked, stole second and scored on Murrell Jones' single into left field.

The Bathers scored their pair of runs in the ninth. With one out, Carter singled into center. McBride doubled into center, but Carter stopped at third. Newhouser lifted a fly into right field, but Taitt dropped the ball, Carter scoring, McBride going to third and Newhouser on to second. Wessing walked, loading the bases. Fisher then flied out into left field but McBride scored after the catch. Zachar, batting for Albosta who pitched the ninth inning for the locals, flied out to Hill in center field.

DERRINGER AVOIDS WARRANT EXECUTION

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Maybe it's just as well for the New York Giants that big Paul Derringer can't come to town to pitch a baseball game without paying up or being put in jail.

Derringer's team, the Cincinnati Reds, are leading the National league. The dejected Giants are sixth, and Derringer has beaten them twice this season, shutting them out once with five hits. The Reds lost to the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers 7-6 today, but jail-shy Derringer wouldn't have pitched anyway because he already had earned his week's pay by winning one in Philadelphia Thursday.

Needed or not, Derringer remained in Philadelphia, avoiding a "body execution" obtained against him in state supreme court by Robert E. Condon, industrial engineer of Larchmont, N. Y., whom Derringer owes $8,170 on account of a fracas in a Philadelphia hotel in 1936.

Condon obtained a judgment for $8,170, claiming that the pitcher assaulted him. The latest order against Derringer requires that he be arrested and held until he pays the judgment or post bond for twice the amount. The bond would prevent Derringer from leaving the county, which would restrict his activities somewhat since the Reds are commencing a long series at home after leaving Brooklyn tomorrow.

ing that a broken neck is not always the end of a baseball career. Andy's record at Danville, Va., in the Bi-State league last summer is exhibit A in his sheaf of proofs.

In 1937, when Gilbert was launching his professional career with Mansfield of the Ohio State league, he was enjoying the satisfaction of a great start. He was hitting at a .355 clip, was leading the loop in runs batted in and stolen bases and was playing general bang-up ball when a near-tragedy befell him. No one ever expected him to play another game of ball. His life was despaired of for several days.

Sliding into second base in a head-first dive on the last day of July, Gilbert's head was jammed into his shoulders. He was rushed to a hospital where an examination disclosed two broken vertebrae. Andy spent six weeks in that hospital and it was January before the cast was removed from his neck.

Three months after the removal of the cast, he wrote the Boston Red Sox office that he was ready to start out again. That was a distinct surprise. They had about erased him from the picture.

But the boy was determined to go out again and he was sent to Danville to see if he could make the grade. He flashed on his first appearance and kept it up all summer. His hitting was savage and his fielding showed the serious injury had detracted nothing from his ability.

Gilbert wound up with a batting average of .335 and was among the pacemakers with 120 runs batted in. He connected for 18 homers.

"There is a kid with all the nerve in the world," says Billy Evans, supervisor of the Red Sox farms. "We had given up on him after his injury, but he showed us he had the stuff and he is going to be a good ball player."

Divers salvaging the sunken submarine Squalus decompress in warmth and comfort, in contrast to the old method of decompressing while ascending with painful slowness from the icy depths. Hauled up quickly when 50 feet from the surface, they are rushed to the decompression chamber or "iron doctor," where they breathe a new oxygen mixture. At left, above, Master Diver J. H. At right, Diver James Crittendon of Washington, reads a magazine while getting a dose of oxygen in the chamber.

ATLANTA TENNIS ENTRIES ADVANCE

Rain Washes Out Most Of First-Round Matches Of Dixie Championships

ATLANTA, June 10.—(AP)—Rain washed out most of today's first-round matches in the 54th annual southern tennis championships after four unseeded Atlanta players advanced with straight-set victories.

Three other netmen, including two seeded stars, reached the second round without effort when their opponents defaulted.

Kells Boland scored the most convincing win by walloping R. E. Smith of Athens 6-0, 6-0. Charles Lindsay of Atlanta dropped only two games in eliminating Grady Blackwell, also of Atlanta, 6-1, 6-1. Marion Reese was given the hardest opposition in defeating Bobby Wyatt in another all-Atlanta duel, 6-3, 6-4. Warren Bearden stopped Milton Allen, Decatur, Ga., 6-3, 6-2.

Fourth-seeded Ernie Sutter of New Orleans, who reached the 1938 southern finals which were never finished after several postponements, advanced with a default at the expense of Jack Ohlhaber, West Palm Beach, Fla. Harris Everett, seeded No. 9 and of Jacksonville, Fla., received a default from Pollard Parsons, Jr., Nashville, Tenn. Molly Williamson defaulted to Red Hill, both of Atlanta.

None of the tournament favorites, headed by the nation's sixth ranking Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, was scheduled to play today. The first-seeded Grant is seeking his eighth southern title.

BIG SIX LEAGUE

VETS STEADY YOUNGSTERS

RUSTON, La., June 10.—(Special)—While the Big Six baseball league is primarily for the "neighborhood" youths of high school age, the clubs are being encouraged to include on their rosters at least two or three veterans to steady the youngsters, according to a statement by Larry J. Fox, league president, here today.

Buck Norman and Foster Reynolds, old Ouachita Valley performers, have been signed by the Marion Cellarites, but President Fox predicts a change in performance by the Marion club with the steadying hands of such veterans as Norman and Reynolds.

President Fox also lauded the league's hurlers, particularly five left-handers. The league is well supplied with southpaws who show promise of developing into big caliber hurlers just as Atley Donald, a Downsville boy, and former Louisiana Tech student, who is now on the mound staff of the New York Yankees.

The south-paws are Albritton of Bernice, Scallion of Ansley, LeRoy Counts and Kirby Jones of Chatham, and "Schoolboy" Taylor of Farmerville.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—The stock market had to vie with the British king and queen today and the latter won hands down.

With the majority of traders forsaking the exchange floor and boardrooms in order to take a look at their majesties on their first visit to New York, the ticker tape frequently was at a standstill during the two-hour proceedings. Closing prices, consequently, were well mixed, generally in a fractional range.

Business news continued more optimistic than otherwise, as did foreign affairs. But the sharp run-in in yesterday's session attracted some profit-taking, brokers said. Aside from one or two isolated spots, however, weakness was rare.

Transfers, notwithstanding a rather active first hour, approximated only 250,000 shares.

Bonds, on the whole, followed stocks over the do-nothing route, and commodities were mixed.

American Air Lines came over to the "big board" from the curb today and advanced around a point at the best. Other aviations were listless, although earnings forecasts for the major manufacturers were cheering.

Patino Mines, with principal tin properties in Bolivia, dropped about 2 points to a new year's low following action of the Bolivian government in decreeing exchange restrictions for mineral exports.

While steels held to a slim groove, a further expansion in mill operations next week was thought likely by observers in this field. At the same time heavy melting steel scrap was again advanced 25 cents a ton at Pittsburgh, making a net boost in this commodity of 75 cents a ton this week.

General Motors was neglected as union labor difficulties confronted this corporation at its Detroit plants.

Interest was expressed in unconfirmed reports from Paris Hitler was preparing specific propositions to Great Britain, France and the United States for a settlement of problems which have been causing world war fears.

In an uneven curb market small gains were posted for Lockheed and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. Losers of as much included United Wall Paper and McWilliams Dredging.

Big Bill Found Himself In Pill Box With Rattler

"In a pill box with a rattler." This assertion sounds "pilly" but it nevertheless true. Among the many exploits told by visiting Veterans of Foreign Wars are many stories of miraculous escapes, especially in patrolling no man's land at night. This is a story that might not be so thrilling to many laymen but to Big Bill Twigg it presented a never to be forgotten thrill. Bill is holding down the job of department inspector, serving his third term as commander of Orleans post No. 3656 and is also national deputy chief of staff for the Sixth district.

It was in no man's land when there were exchanges of positions by hand to hand combat between Americans and Germans, and in some sectors the Germans had what was called in war days "pill boxes," where a German soldier could be placed at a strategic spot with a machine gun in order that he could better serve his country by spreading death and destruction among the Americans and when they did not have the kind of concrete they wanted to build the "pill boxes," they would use any kind of box, mostly made of steel, large enough to hold two or three men with portholes through which to do the fighting.

One night when Big Bill was patrolling in no man's land, he became separated from his buddies and unknowingly started off in the wrong direction, and as the Germans were laying a barrage, Bill got caught on the enemy's side. Through the light of the flashes of guns, Bill saw an object immediately ahead that looked like a good place to get behind or under during the time. He thought that thereby he might manage to live a little longer. He started to run to the object and by the aid of an occasional flare, he saw it was one of those pill boxes, much the worse for wear in having been blasted out of its location by shell fire and was lying at an angle which made it look top heavy. Into this "box" Bill [illegible] thanking his lucky stars that he was able to dodge an explosive [illegible] just as he planned to enjoy the confines of this protection he saw [illegible] and there was a huge rattlesnake coiled up in the corner, evading [illegible] and destruction himself. The [illegible] [illegible] entry into the box and at once started out to [illegible].

Big Bill Found Himself In Pill Box With Rattler

"In a pill box with a rattler." This assertion sounds "pilly" but it nevertheless true. Among the many exploits told by visiting Veterans of Foreign Wars are many stories of miraculous escapes, especially in patrolling no man's land at night. This is a story that might not be so thrilling to many laymen but to Big Bill Twigg it presented a never to be forgotten thrill. Bill is holding down the job of department inspector, serving his third term as commander of Orleans post No. 3656 and is also national deputy chief of staff for the Sixth district.

It was in no man's land when there were exchanges of positions by hand to hand combat between Americans and Germans, and in some sectors the Germans had what was called in war days "pill boxes," where a German soldier could be placed at a strategic spot with a machine gun in order that he could better serve his country by spreading death and destruction among the Americans and when they did not have the kind of concrete they wanted to build the "pill boxes," they would use any kind of box, mostly made of steel, large enough to hold two or three men with portholes through which to do the fighting.

One night when Big Bill was patrolling in no man's land, he became separated from his buddies and unknowingly started off in the wrong direction and as the Germans were laying a barrage, Bill got caught on the enemy's side. Through the light of the flashes of guns, Bill saw an object immediately ahead that looked like a good place to get behind or under during the time. He thought that thereby he might manage to live a little longer. He started to run to the object and by the aid of an occasional flare, he saw it was one of those "pill boxes" much the worse for wear in having been blasted out of its location by shell fire and was lying at an angle which made it look top heavy. Into this "box" Bill jumped thanking his lucky stars that he was able to dodge an explosive shell. Just as he planned to enjoy the confines of this protection he saw within and there was a huge rattlesnake coiled up in the corner, evading death and destruction himself. The big rattler objected to a sudden invasion by the doughboy entry into the box and at once started out to try conclusions.

With one lunge of the snake at Bill, the latter decided that he preferred the barrage and shell fire than to stay in the "pill box" with the rattler, so out he jumped and luckily this time he got off in the right direction and with the urge to put as much space between himself and the rattler, he was not long in getting back into his own lines.

The boys are saying that Bill is not only a good fellow but he is a good leader, and he is liable to be selected to be one of the leaders when the smoke of battle clears at the annual election that will take place at Hotel Virginia this morning.

BAPTISTS WILL CAMP AT OLLA

Northeast Louisiana Group Will Open Annual Meeting On June 20

A large number of members from the congregation of the Monroe First Baptist church and other Baptist churches of northeast Louisiana are planning to attend the annual Baptist encampment at Olla, which opens June 20. Expenses have been made so low that it is believed that no cheaper and more inspirational outing can be had than is offered at this encampment, those in charge stated.

Some of the outstanding features of the program are as follows: "Bible Exposition," Rev. Clarence Crowe; "Evangelistic Preacher," Rev. T. C. Pennell; "Church Problems," Rev. C. R. Shirar; song leader, W. F. Town, Jr.; pianist, Mrs. John L. Dodge; missionary addresses, Rev. M. A. Treadwell; quiet hour, Rev. J. W. Buckner.

Four courses will be offered in Sunday school work: "What Baptists Believe," by Dana Terry; "Some Learning Processes," Rev. George Nelson; "When Do Teachers Teach?" Rev. Burton A. Miley; "Building a Standard Sunday School," Rev. Earl Guinn.

The Baptist Training union offers four courses: "The Meaning of Church Membership," Miss Grace Walker; "The Junior and His Church," Mrs. Forest Seaman; "Winning Others to Christ," Rev. D. D. Cantrell; "Building a Christian Home," Rev. F. W. Hart.

The Women's Missionary union will offer courses under Miss Hannah Reynolds, Mrs. M. A. Treadwell and Mrs. L. T. Hastings.

The board of directors and friends of the encampment will leave Monroe Tuesday at 9 a.m. to put the grounds in order for the opening of the meetings. All who are at liberty and who are willing to do some work are invited to arrange to make the trip.

FIRST LADY TALKS 'HUMAN DEBTS'

Despite Recent Operation Kennedy Is At Encampment

The center of interest at every departmental encampment of the Veterans of Foreign wars and Legion, is Wiliam T. Kennedy, not because he attracts interest by his own seeking, for he is extremely modest, but because he is forced into the limelight by reason of the fact that he has undergone more physical suffering than is the lot of most veterans. Both legs have been removed, but from his wheel chair he derives a vast amount of pleasure from renewing old acquaintances and telling of former days.

He has missed but two American Legion conventions and only one Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment since he joined the organizations. This year it seemed that he would have to miss the Monroe convention, for he underwent a serious operation in a New Orleans hospital two weeks ago. This was the 42nd major operation that he has undergone, and besides this there have been many minor operations which he has had since he lost both legs when serving as sergeant in the Fifth division overseas.

But fate was kind to Bill, as he likes to be called. His surgeon, Dr. Joseph C. Menendez, junior vice-commander-in-chief of the V. F. W., was coming to Monroe for the encampment and, assured his professional care, it was found possible to permit the patient to come to Monroe.

That he is no worse for the trip was the assurance voiced Saturday night as Bill sat back in a wheel chair in the lobby of Hotel Virginia. He declared that he had enjoyed the trip and the convention immensely and that he was free from pain.

With him is his faithful wife who is ever at his right hand to see that every wish is gratified.

He is noted as probably the gamest man in the ranks of the V. F. W. in Louisiana as well as the veteran who has undergone the greatest number of operations. But he says he does not care to talk about these or to be heralded for his valor in battle lines or since he came back home crippled.

He derives pleasure from his friendly associations and he also likes to keep a scrap book in which he pastes all V. F. W. and Legion stories that appear in the press, in which he is personally interested.

GOES TO FAIR

FERRIDAY, La., June 10.—(Special)—Ray Stuart, bus operator of the Inter-Urban Transportation company, operating between Alexandria and Natchez, Miss., by way of Ferriday, left Thursday for California, where he will attend the California exposition at San Francisco. Stuart expects to be gone for three weeks. He is making the trip by motor and is accompanied by Mrs. Stuart.

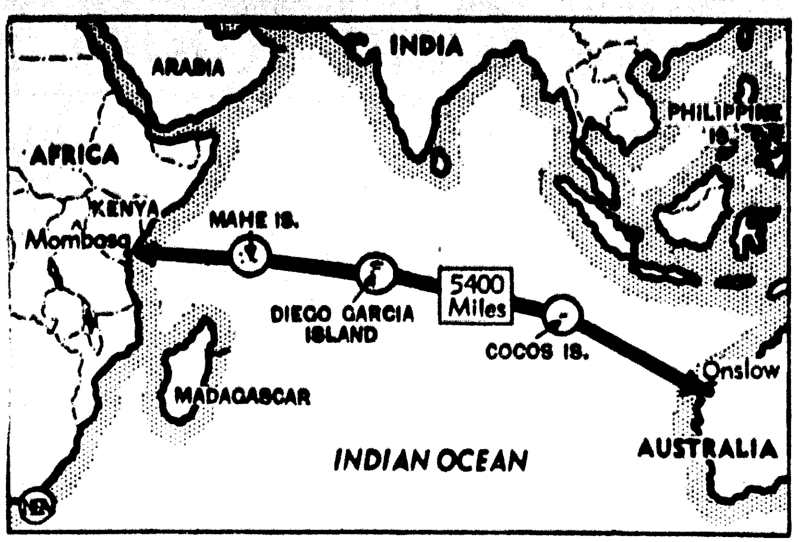
AUSTRALIA-TO-AFRICA FLIGHT



Above map shows route over which Richard Archbold, aviator-scientist of American Museum of Natural History, will attempt flight from Australia to Africa across Indian ocean, still unconquered by air. Twin-engined flying boat Guba is scheduled to depart from Onslow in June, main purpose of trip being to chart war-time transportation link from Great Britain to Australia. Bases would be established at Cocos island, Diego Garcia island, and Mahe island. If flight is successful, British planes could fly to Lisbon, to African west coast, then to Mombasa, and on to Australia, avoiding danger zones in Mediterranean and near Singapore.

JAMES ZEIGLER RITES ARE HELD

Funeral Conducted For Eros Lad Who Was Iron Lung Patient

Many relatives and friends of James Zeigler, 13, "as game a kid as ever lived," as he was dubbed in Charity hospital, Shreveport, where he remained for 68 days in an iron lung, and who died there early Friday, assembled at his parents' home in Eros Saturday at 10 a.m., when his funeral was held.

Interment was in the Eros cemetery. Young Zeigler is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zeigler, and two brothers, J. B. Zeigler, Jr., of Eros, and Eldridge Zeigler of Nevada.

Death resulted from encephalomyelitis, which is a disease similar to infantile paralysis, and which attacks the brain and spinal fluid. For a time the boy's breathing muscles were paralyzed and it was necessary to resort to use of an iron lung. He had been removed from the iron lung for exactly 68 days and it was believed that he would recover when he experienced a change for the worse and died.

Many people of northeast Louisiana had become interested in his case and some weeks ago contributions of cash were received through the News-Star and Morning World to aid the family which was in straitened financial circumstances.

BAPTISTS WILL CAMP AT OLLA

Northeast Louisiana Group Will Open Annual Meeting On June 20

A large number of members from the congregation of the Monroe First Baptist church and other Baptist churches of northeast Louisiana are planning to attend the annual Baptist encampment at Olla, which opens June 20. Expenses have been made so low that it is believed that no cheaper and more inspirational outing can be had than is offered at this encampment, those in charge stated.

Some of the outstanding features of the program are as follows: "Bible Exposition," Rev. Clarence Crowe; "Evangelistic Preacher," Rev. T. C. Pennell; "Church Problems," Rev. C. R. Shirar; song leader, W. F. Town, Jr.; pianist, Mrs. John L. Dodge; missionary addresses, Rev. M. A. Treadwell; quiet hour, Rev. J. W. Buckner.

Four courses will be offered in Sunday school work: "What Baptists Believe," by Dana Terry; "Some Learning Processes," Rev. George Nelson; "When Do Teachers Teach?" Rev. Burton A. Miley; "Building a Standard Sunday School," Rev. Earl Guinn.

The Baptist Training union offers four courses: "The Meaning of Church Membership," Miss Grace Walker; "The Junior and His Church," Mrs. Forest Seaman; "Winning Others to Christ," Rev. D. D. Cantrell; "Building a Christian Home," Rev. F. W. Hart.

The Women's Missionary union will offer courses under Miss Hannah Reynolds, Mrs. M. A. Treadwell and Mrs. L. T. Hastings.

The board of directors and friends of the encampment will leave Monroe Tuesday at 9 a.m. to put the grounds in order for the opening of the meetings. All who are at liberty and who are willing to do some work are invited to arrange to make the trip.

FIRST LADY TALKS 'HUMAN DEBTS'

Despite Recent Operation Kennedy Is At Encampment

The center of interest at every departmental encampment of the Veterans of Foreign wars and Legion, is Wiliam T. Kennedy, not because he attracts interest by his own seeking, for he is extremely modest, but because he is forced into the limelight by reason of the fact that he has undergone more physical suffering than is the lot of most veterans. Both legs have been removed, but from his wheel chair he derives a vast amount of pleasure from renewing old acquaintances and telling of former days.

He has missed but two American Legion conventions and only one Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment since he joined the organizations. This year it seemed that he would have to miss the Monroe convention, for he underwent a serious operation in a New Orleans hospital two weeks ago. This was the 42nd major operation that he has undergone, and besides this there have been many minor operations which he has had since he lost both legs when serving as sergeant in the Fifth division overseas.

But fate was kind to Bill, as he likes to be called. His surgeon, Dr. Joseph C. Menendez, junior vice-commander-in-chief of the V. F. W., was coming to Monroe for the encampment and, assured his professional care, it was found possible to permit the patient to come to Monroe.

That he is no worse for the trip was the assurance voiced Saturday night as Bill sat back in a wheel chair in the lobby of Hotel Virginia. He declared that he had enjoyed the trip and the convention immensely and that he was free from pain.

With him is his faithful wife who is ever at his right hand to see that every wish is gratified.

He is noted as probably the gamest man in the ranks of the V. F. W. in Louisiana as well as the veteran who has undergone the greatest number of operations. But he says he does not care to talk about these or to be heralded for his valor in battle lines or since he came back home crippled.

He derives pleasure from his friendly associations and he also likes to keep a scrap book in which he pastes all V. F. W. and Legion stories that appear in the press, in which he is personally interested.

Members Of Local Society Center Much Attention On June Nuptial Affairs

Jane Burgess Among Popular Brides-To-Be

Mrs. Meyer And Daughter Violet Busy Making Plans For Western Hemisphere Tour

By Eve Bradford

THE leading lady in this month's drama is most definitely the June bride. She's the prima donna whether she is wed in stately edifice with a flock of orchids in her hand or in a flower scented garden with billowy clouds overhead—whether she is trailing clouds of chiffon and old lace or takes her vows in the parish clerk's office in a simple cotton gown. Whether the wedding is a fashionable one or a simple rustic one and whether the contracting parties are of high or low estate, the words of the ceremony are just the same and just as deeply significant.

There is much more to a wedding than a bride and bridegroom—at least for the bride. There are the pre-nuptial courtesies—gay exciting affairs with everything revolving around the guest of honor who feels that the world is just an oyster to be opened by her own lovely hands. These affairs are always care-free and festive and ring in tune with wedding bells.

Today Jane Burgess is knee deep in wedding plans. She is going from one pre-nuptial compliment to another in adorable little cotton and gingham frocks considered the last word in good taste this year.

At Corrine Lowery's conversational hour Thursday morning Jane was wearing a chartreuse and brown plaid linen with bright colored linen slippers and a jaunty hat of straw color. Corinne's gift to Jane was a handsome piece of Spode china in the pattern Jane has selected for use during the rest of her life. Spode is something that one never discards but keeps adding to and treasures more and more as the years go by.

Dorothy Williamson's buffet supper for Jane was one of those intimate little affairs just for girl friends—such an affair that inspires confidences and an atmosphere of informality so appreciated by guests when the heat of summer descends.

Brides claim the spotlight of social attention and everything apparently revolves around them, but life must go on for the other half of the world. Edith and Violet Meyer, for instance, find the most important thing in life today is the final touch to the wardrobe they have assembled for a cruise that will take them from the Atlantic to the Pacific—from Alaska's ice-bound shores to sunny Honolulu. Never before has such an intriguing itinerary been mapped out for Monroe travelers. It sounds too complicated to be true if one hadn't, like the writer, been privileged to scan the glamorous folder. On board the Duchess of Richmond, embarking from Montreal, the visit will include the New York world's fair in the beginning, the San Francisco Golden Gate exposition in mid-cruise, passage of the Panama Canal, Victoria and Vancouver in British Columbia, Jamaica, island paradise of the Caribbean, Havana, Paris of the West Indies, brilliant sunshine and cool trade winds, cruising through the American tropics, the stimulating air of an Alaskan summer as they voyage far north to Yaqutat bay, the broad Pacific, Hawaii, perfect the year around.

Edith and Violet will leave the ship at Acapulco and travel overland through Mexico, again boarding their streamer at Vera Cruz. They will visit Cuernavaca, Mexico City, Zochimilco, Guadalupe, Teotihuacan, Toluca, Pueblo and Cholula. They will travel by day express from Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

Since time immemorial flowers have served to express our sentiment. Governor Leche, a visitor in the city last week, sent a box of exotic flowers to Frances Keenan to express his appreciation of the genuine hospitality extended while a guest at the Virginia hotel. A message, expressed in flowers, could be appreciated by Frances Keenan more than any other person, as she lives in their midst—cultivates them for her own use. Just because she loves flowers she has transformed a barren roof on the top of the Virginia hotel into a little bit of paradise Close to the sun, the moon and the stars, the flowers grow luxuriantly and repay Frances for the care necessary to keep them in thriving condition.

James C. Liner has never missed being with his daughter, Melba Gaston, on her birthday. Ever since she was born her natal day is regarded as a gala occasion for him and wherever she happens to be, he makes a point of being with her. Last week he rushed to New Orleans to wish her "happy birthday," not only with mere words but as customary, with a handsome gift. These little milestones along life's way are not reckoned by years when loved ones come from afar just to say "happy birthday."

Miss Wilson Of Much Value To 'Y'

Miss Ivo Wilson, secretary of the local Young Woman's Christian association, is responsible, in a measure, for the high standard of living now reached at the "Y." Mrs. Wilson thinks the desirable way is to have religion a vital part of the program. This of course, means watching the daily program carefully and being constantly conscious of the religious purpose. Miss Wilson recently said, "We must plan for leadership education and provide definite opportunities for leaders, and we must have religious expressoin throughout all departments of our work."

It is difficult, according to Miss Wilson, to think of the Y. W. C. A. program without thinking of its having a religious basis. Differences of creed, however, no longer separate them so much as they did in the past.

Miss Wilson, a charming personality and quite indispensable to the present day mode of living at the "Y," is succeeding in helping those who make their home at the Y. W. C. A. achieve a full and creative life.

The local Y. W. C. A. is fortunate in having four Girl Reserves who are called the Junior members of the Y. W. C. A. to attend a sectional conference for Girl Reserves at Gulf Park college, Gulfport, Miss. This conference will have Girl Reserves from all Y. W. C. A. clubs from Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee. The conference theme will be woven around: "A Girl and Her Religion," "A Girl and Her Family," "A Girl and Her Place in Society," "A Girl and her Place in the World." After discussions of the Christian emphasis of the Girl Reserve program, many interest groups will follow such as folk dancing, singing, dramatics, handicraft and outdoor sports including archery, tennis, hiking, and sailing and swimming. The delegates to the conference will bring back material and ideas for the Girl Reserve program next year. Much help will be given in planning a midwinter Girl Reserve conference in Monroe sometime in February. The delegates will be Margie Robbins, Marie Nelson, June Hunt from Ouachita Parish High school and Evelyn Aden from Neville High school. These girls will be taken to the camp by Mrs. King Hunt, one of the Y. W. C. A. board members. The girls will leave Monday and return home June 22.

Miss Koula Pappas, Mr. Thomas Johnson and Mrs. George Atlas formed a family party leaving the city Tuesday morning for Washington, D. Several days will be spent in Baltimore and New York City where they will attend the World's fair.

Tea Given For Miss Mary Wigley

Beautiful flowers played an important part in the scheme of things. They overflowed from urns and floor standards in the reception suite, where Mrs. Mitchell stood with her guest of honor, Miss Wigley, and Mrs. M. L. Gill and Miss Wilma Nobles.

Mrs. R. H. Carpenter and Mrs. S. C. Wise presided most graciously over the tea table, where silver trays containing an assortment of sweetmeats and confections, were conveniently placed. Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Sam Browning, Mrs. Edward Shaver, Mrs. F. N. Steele, Miss Maud Leigh Taylor and Miss Alverne Nobles.

Yellow daisies and white gardenias formed an effective floral decor with tall green tapers in crystal candelabra creating additional color.

Another compliment extended Miss Wigley was the informal conversational hour with Mrs. Jack Masur hostess.

Mrs. Masur was assisted by Mrs. Sigmund Masur in extending courtesies in the living room banked with pink and blue hydrangea and gladioli.

A varied assortment of sandwiches and little frosted cakes and iced drinks were served to the following guests: Mrs. M. L. Gill, Mrs. Jonas Selig, Mrs. Jack Selig, Mrs. B. Beasley, Mrs. F. V. Allison, Mrs. Edward Shaver, Mrs. Sid Walker, Mrs. Gene Demmary, Mrs. W. S. Wilson, Miss Martha Bassett, Miss Maude S. Gill, Mrs. Paul Collens, Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Miss Alverne Nobles, Mrs. R. H. Carpenter.

Mrs. Masur's gift to Miss Wigley was a set of silver teaspoons.

Two Guests From New Orleans Feted

United Spanish War Veterans Honor Colonel And Mrs. Charles Boehler At Dinner Party

The Virginia roof garden, now a sylvan dell, and an idyllic spot for informal summer-time entertaining, was the scene of a gay dinner party last week when members of Thompson Wood Lee camp, United Spanish War Veterans, entertained complimentary to Colonel and Mrs. Charles Boehler of New Orleans.

Before dinner was announced the guests sat in the star-lit garden, where flowers bloom profusely in well-ordered beds and roses clamber over high white trellises. White-clad attendants passed among the guests with trays of tall frosted glasses of mint juleps.

Dinner was served in the glass-enclosed dining room at long tables florally adorned with red, white and yellow blossoms—the organization's colors. Crystal candelabra supporting white tapers, alternated with low crystal bowls of blossoms, were placed at intervals along the table.

A four-course dinner, with barbecued chicken the piece de resistance, was served. Impromptu speeches punctuated each course, with Colonel Boehler talking brilliantly and interestingly on matters of deep concern to those present.

Demi-tasse was served at little tables in the garden to the following guests: Colonel and Mrs. Boehler, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Slater, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Young, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mangham, Mrs. Mamie Arnette, Dr. P. M. Gayle, Mr. J. F. Black, Mrs. K. S. Moore, Mrs. Sarah Gossett, Mrs. Stella Courtney, Mrs. R. W. Germany, Mrs. Alma McGee, Mrs. Eula Morgan.

Mrs. Meyer And Daughter Violet Busy Making Plans For Western Hemisphere Tour

By Eve Bradford

THE leading lady in this month's drama is most definitely the June bride. She's the prima donna whether she is wed in stately edifice with a flock of orchids in her hand or in a flower scented garden with billowy clouds overhead—whether she is trailing clouds of chiffon and old lace or takes her vows in the parish clerk's office in a simple cotton gown. Whether the wedding is a fashionable one or a simple rustic one and whether the contracting parties are of high or low estate, the words of the ceremony are just the same and just as deeply significant.

There is much more to a wedding than a bride and bridegroom—at least for the bride. There are the pre-nuptial courtesies—gay exciting affairs with everything revolving around the guest of honor who feels that the world is just an oyster to be opened by her own lovely hands. These affairs are always care-free and festive and ring in tune with wedding bells.

Today Jane Burgess is knee deep in wedding plans. She is going from one pre-nuptial compliment to another in adorable little cotton and gingham frocks considered the last word in good taste this year.

At Corrine Lowery's conversational hour Thursday morning Jane was wearing a chartreuse and brown plaid linen with bright colored linen slippers and a jaunty hat of straw color. Corinne's gift to Jane was a handsome piece of Spode china in the pattern Jane has selected for use during the rest of her life. Spode is something that one never discards but keeps adding to and treasures more and more as the years go by.

Dorothy Williamson's buffet supper for Jane was one of those intimate little affairs just for girl friends—such an affair that inspires confidences and an atmosphere of informality so appreciated by guests when the heat of summer descends.

Brides claim the spotlight of social attention and everything apparently revolves around them, but life must go on for the other half of the world. Edith and Violet Meyer, for instance, find the most important thing in life today is the final touch to the wardrobe they have assembled for a cruise that will take them from the Atlantic to the Pacific—from Alaska's ice-bound shores to sunny Honolulu. Never before has such an intriguing itinerary been mapped out for Monroe travelers. It sounds too complicated to be true if one hadn't, like the writer, been privileged to scan the glamorous folder. On board the Duchess of Richmond, embarking from Montreal, the visit will include the New York world's fair in the beginning, the San Francisco Golden Gate exposition in mid-cruise, passage of the Panama Canal, Victoria and Vancouver in British Columbia, Jamaica, island paradise of the Caribbean. Havana, Paris of the West Indies, brilliant sunshine and cool trade winds, cruising through the American tropics, the stimulating air of an Alaskan summer as they voyage far north to Yaqutat bay, the broad Pacific, Hawaii, perfect the year around.

Edith and Violet will leave the ship at Acapulco and travel overland through Mexico, again boarding their streamer at Vera Cruz. They will visit Cuernavaca, Mexico City, Zochimilco, Guadalupe, Teotihuacan, Toluca, Pueblo and Cholula. They will travel by day express from Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

Charming Simplicity Characterizes Wedding Of Miss Hunt, Edgar Hemphill

Episcopal Church Scene Of Ceremony

Rites Solemnized By Rev. Hayward In Presence Of A Few Friends And Members Of Family

Claiming prominence among the lovely nuptial events of the month of June was the marriage of Miss Mabel Gertrude Hunt, daughter of Mrs. Ruby B. Hunt and the late T. J. Hunt, and Mr. Edgar N. Hemphill, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hemphill, at Grace Episcopal church, Sunday, June 4, at 9 o'clock in the morning.

While the guests were assembling Miss Ella Rose Crawford and Miss Mary Mulhearn rendered a pre-nuptial organ concert.

The ushers in white linen suits and valley lily boutonnieres, were Messrs. Bailey Grant and Louis Harris of Shreveport. Mr. George Hemphill served his brother as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. T. J. Hunt, wore a white embroidered organza model of charming simplicity. It was buttoned down the back with pearl buttons and the round neckline was finished with a knot of sweetheart roses, blue forget-me-nots and valley lilies. She wore a white off-the-face turban and carried a white [illegible] prayer book, from which fell a shower of valley lilies and narrow white satin ribbons. For something old, she wore an antique [illegible] that belonged to her great grandmother and has been in the Hunt family for 100 years.

The bride's mother was wearing a black net model with corsage of white gardenias and Mrs. Hemphill, the bridegroom's mother, was wearing a navy blue ensemble with corsage of white roses.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hemphill motored to the [illegible] mountains where they will enjoy a two weeks honeymoon. Upon their return they will be at home at 111 Speed Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Hemphill are both popular members of the younger set and have a wide circle of friends who extend their sincere good wishes.

A fruit juice bar where frosted drinks were served by two charming hostesses, Mrs. Credille Calhoun and Miss Ella Rose Crawford, to guests when they entertained complimentary to Mrs. Edgar Hemphill, formerly Miss Mable Hunt, proved an innovation.

The bar in the living room not only served as an attractive place to mix the iced drinks but also as a buffet where trays of delicious hors d'oeuvres were placed for the convenience of the guests.

Luncheon was served in the dining room, where the table, overlaid with Spanish cut work cloth, was beautifully appointed with pale pink china and silver. Sweet peas in a pale shade of blue formed the central decor. Each cover was marked with a miniature colonial bouquet, the center of which was a small lace sachet. The cover reserved for the bride was marked with an exquisite corsage of valley lilies and gladioli.

A delicious four-course luncheon was served. The dessert course was in the form of a wedding cake surmounted with a bell. Bell-shaped pink ices and mints embossed with wedding bells were served. The hostesses presented Mrs. Hemphill with gifts of silver and china in her chosen patterns. Guests present to enjoy this delightful occasion in addition to Mrs. Hemphill were Mesdames George Hemphill, William Proctor, William Smith, Misses Gerry Trichel, Mary Mulhern, Polly Cole, Alyce Daniel, Ella Pearl Sutton and Elizabeth Benton.

Mrs. William Proctor's conversational hour was a charming interlude in the affairs honoring Mrs. Edgar Hemphill. Iced drinks were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Ella Rose Crawford and Mrs. Credille Calhoun, who passed trays of assorted sweetmeats. The cutting of a delicious wedding cake embossed in pink roses with the inscription, "Mabel and Edgar," was a distinct feature of the evening.

Another charming courtesy for Mrs. Hemphill was the beautifully arranged bridge given by Miss Mary Mulhern.

The bridge tables, overlaid with crisp white linens, were grouped in the living room. Following the card game a salad and a course of ices depicting a bridal theme was served. Miss Mulhern's gift to Mrs. Hemphill was a set of salad plates in her chosen pattern of china. Misses Ella Pearl Sutton and Elizabeth Benton received lovely gifts for bridge scores. Guests in addition to Mrs. Hemphill were Mesdames Credille P. Calhoun, George Hemphill, T. J. Hunt, Misses Ella Rose Crawford, Alyce Daniel, Elizabeth Benton and Ella Pearl Sutton.

Miss Alyce Daniel entertained at bridge for Mrs. Hemphill at her home on North Second street.

Many charming courtesies were extended. At the conclusion of the games delicious refreshments reflecting a bridal theme were served. Miss Daniel took this opportunity to present Mrs. Hemphill with a gift of silver. Mrs. Hal Anders, Mrs. T. J. Hunt and Miss Sara Guy received prizes for bridge scores.

The invited guests were Mesdames George Hemphill, [illegible], Credille P. Calhoun, William Proctor, William Smith, Hal Anders, T. J. Hunt, Misses Louise Morrison, Margaret Devereaux, Mary Mulhern, Ella Pearl Sutton, Polly Cole, Elizabeth Benton, Ella Rose Crawford, Sara Guy and Gerry Trichel.

Local Dance Revues Are Charming Events

Pupils Of Misses Roan, Renaud And Turk Show Great Progress Made During Year

A season of many happy dance revue memories came to a close last week with three charming events noted for their beauty of costuming, spectacular scenic effects and a remarkable exhibition of ballet, tap, acrobatic and interpretative dancing.

Geldah and Clarice Roan's revue on Tuesday attracted an enthusiastic audience that filled with generous proportions of the parish school auditorium.

Mr. J. N. Chapman, in evening attire, gave an interesting little talk before the footlights, prefacing his remarks with a tribute to the Misses Roan who are accomplishing some splendid work in the field of creative art. Dancing, the oldest of the arts, is being taught the youth of this city not only at the Roan studio but at the Armandine Renaud school of dancing and Teresa Turk's studio.

Tuesday night's revue was presented against a scintillating background of blue and silver, the most ambitious number being "The Perfume Counter." The costuming, for this number in particular, was most enchanting.

As a finale to this elaborate and finished number, the Misses Roan, wearing white tulle ballet costumes with silver bodices, gave a marvelous exhibition of the ballet. Youthful and lovely, they charmed their audience with their own conception of the ballet.

Part of the evening's program featured the adagio, the rhumba and folk dancing. A group of "Jitterbugs" captivated the audience as did the "Arkansas Travelers."

It is almost impossible to discriminate when so many talented children are presented in a dance revue. Suffice to say that every pupil in the Roan studio is receiving excellent training as manifested in the charming and efficient manner in which they appeared before the footlights at this year's revue.

Miss Armandine Renaud's revue this year was one of the most ambitious, perhaps, of any that have gone before. It was a triumph in costuming and scenic effects with one scene in particular, developed in silver, the most beautiful ever shown on a local stage. It was termed on the program "White and Silver Ballet," with the entire ballet class in white tulle and silver costumes. From the youngest to the oldest pupil, perfect rhythm was sustained and a wonderful exhibition of toe work presented. Miss Irene Quinn Renaud gave a finished exhibition of the ballet at this time.

Miss Sybil Renaud, whose skillful dancing won favorable recognition at the state university this past year, was responsible for a high class number, "The Moderne." Her specialty is a combination ballet and interpretative dancing, bordering on the artistic. It was a charming exhibition and was received with enthusiasm by the audience.

Armandine Renaud, the essence of grace, gave a wonderful exhibition of her skill in "Moment Lyrique," a dance she created for this year's revue. It was a charming fantasy featuring ballet work and a graceful swaying movement, only a professional would be capable of presenting. Her costume was fashioned of mauve and purple draperies.

The scenes were shifted constantly, outstanding being the "Deep Purple" number and the "Gold Goddess" number.

Teresa Turk's revue Friday night was one of the most beautiful of her professional career. Opening with the "Show Boat," the audience was treated to a most charming exhibition of acrobatic, ballet, tap and all types of modern dancing.

Miss Turk, wearing a glamorous costume of deep purple, gave a spontaneous, finished exhibition of ballet and interpretative dancing.

Charming Simplicity Characterizes Wedding Of Miss Hunt, Edgar Hemphill

Episcopal Church Scene Of Ceremony

Rites Solemnized By Rev. Hayward In Presence Of A Few Friends And Members Of Family

Claiming prominence among the lovely nuptial events of the month of June was the marriage of Miss Mabel Gertrude Hunt, daughter of Mrs. Ruby B. Hunt and the late T. J. Hunt, and Mr. Edgar N. Hemphill, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hemphill, at Grace Episcopal church, Sunday, June 4, at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The wedding, characterized by charming simplicity, was performed by the rector, Rev. E. F. Hayward, in the presence of a few friends and members of the family.

Pastel shaded flowers banked the altar and overflowed from tall floor standards arranged in a semi-circle to form a lovely, florescent enclosure for the wedding party.

While the guests were assembling Miss Ella Rose Crawford and Miss Mary Mulhearn rendered a pre-nuptial organ concert.

The ushers in white linen suits and valley lily boutonnieres, were Messrs. Bailey Grant and Louis Harris of Shreveport. Mr. George Hemphill served his brother as best man.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Frances Hunt. She wore a crisp, white dotted Swiss model, with wide brimmed leghorn hat with pink velvet streamers. She carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. T. J. Hunt, wore a white embroidered organza model of charming simplicity. It was buttoned down the back with pearl buttons and the round neckline was finished with a knot of sweetheart roses, blue forget-me-nots and valley lilies. She wore a white off-the-face turban and carried a white ivory prayer book from which fell a shower of valley lilies and narrow white satin ribbons. For something old she wore an antique brooch that belonged to her great grandmother and has been in the Hunt family for 100 years.

The bride's mother was wearing a black net model with corsage of white gardenias and Mrs. Hemphill, the bridegroom's mother, was wearing a navy blue ensemble with corsage of white roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hemphill motored to the Ozark mountains where they will enjoy a two week's honeymoon. Upon their return they will be at home at 111 Speed Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Hemphill are both popular members of the younger set and have a wide circle of friends who extend their sincere well wishes.

A fruit juice bar where frosted drinks were served by two charming hostesses, Mrs. Credille Calhoun and Miss Ella Rose Crawford, to guests when they entertained complimentary to Mrs. Edgar Hemphill, formerly Miss Mable Hunt, proved an innovation.

The bar in the living room not only served as an attractive place to mix the iced drinks but also as a buffet where trays of delicious hors d'oeuvres were placed for the convenience of the guests.

Luncheon was served in the dining room, where the table, overlaid with Spanish cut work cloth, was beautifully appointed with pale pink china and silver. Sweet peas in a pale shade of blue formed the central decor. Each cover was marked with a miniature colonial bouquet, the center of which was a small lace sachet. The cover reserved for the bride was marked with an exquisite corsage of valley lilies and gladioli.

A delicious four-course luncheon was served. The dessert course was in the form of a wedding cake surmounted with a bell. Bell-shaped pink ices and mints embossed with wedding bells were served. The hostesses presented Mrs. Hemphill with gifts of silver and china in her chosen patterns. Guests present to enjoy this delightful occasion in addition to Mrs. Hemphill were Mesdames George Hemphill, William Proctor, William Smith, Misses Gerry Trichel, Mary Mulhern, Polly Cole, Alyce Daniel, Ella Pearl Sutton and Elizabeth Benton.

Mrs. William Proctor's conversational hour was a charming interlude in the affairs honoring Mrs. Edgar Hemphill. Iced drinks were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Ella Rose Crawford and Mrs. Credille Calhoun, who passed trays of assorted sweet meats. The cutting of a delicious wedding cake embossed in pink roses with the inscription, "Mabel and Edgar," was a distinct feature of the evening.

Another charming courtesy for Mrs. Hemphill was the beautifully arranged bridge given by Miss Mary Mulhern.

The bridge tables, overlaid with crisp white linens, were grouped in the living room. Following the card game a confectionary course of ices depicting a bridal theme was served. Miss Mulhern's gift to Mrs. Hemphill was a set of salad plates in her chosen pattern of china. Misses Ella Pearl Sutton and Elizabeth Benton received lovely gifts for bridge scores. Guests in addition to Mrs. Hemphill were Mesdames Credille P. Calhoun, George Hemphill, T. J. Hunt, Misses Ella Rose Crawford, Alyce Daniel, Elizabeth Benton and Ella Pearl Sutton.

Beautiful garden flowers banked the living room, where the linen-covered bridge tables were grouped.

Many charming courtesies were extended. At the conclusion of the games delicious refreshments reflecting a bridal theme were served. Miss Daniel took this opportunity to present Mrs. Hemphill with a gift of silver. Mrs. Hoy Anders, Mrs. T. J. Hunt and Miss Sara Guy received prizes for bridge scores.

The invited guests were Mesdames George Hemphill, Carroll Boyce, Credille P. Calhoun, William Proctor, William Smith, Hoy Anders, T. J. Hunt, Misses Louise Morrison, Margaret Devereaux, Mary Mulhern, Ella Pearl Sutton, Polly Cole, Elizabeth Benton, Ella Rose Crawford, Sara Guy and Gerry Trichel.

● SERIAL STORY

'MRS. DOC'

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XIX

The reflector was only inches from Alan's head when Eric caught it in both hands, pulled it toward him so that the heavy metal container would fall clear.

Agonizing pain shot through his hands, up his arms. Then numbness. His raincoat protected his body, but he felt the intense heat on his face, scorching the flesh, digging at his eyes.

Eric stood, his teeth digging into his lip, every muscle rigid, his hands flaming torture.

Alan, startled by the crash, looked up. "Eric!"

"It—would—a—hit—you—Alan!" Eric groaned.

"Well, how do those hands feel now?" Alan asked.

"About like the dam looks." Eric managed to grin.

They stood at the edge of the trestle, high above the broken wreckage in the bright sunlight of a chilly March morning. Far down the river, Alan could see the barge, bearing the injured men, Farrell, Grady, Weber and Father Johnson toward Price's Point and waiting ambulances. Two white-sheeted forms lay on that barge. Twelve others lay there, too, but they, with good luck and care, would recover. Still others sprawled or stood with arms or legs in awkward, hastily made splints. Below him a crew of men dug steadily at a huge mass of gravel. Bud Price's body was still in there.

"There isn't much left, is there?" Eric asked.

Alan looked around. Over the top of the diversion dam into the waters of the lake it had created, a lake now strangely still. Water trickled through a gash at one end of the earth and gravel fill, spilling down to splash on the timbers of the broken trestle. The wheels of a half-buried truck were there, too, looking like a child's toy buried in a sand pile.

It was the damage done the once-splendid framework of the main dam that he hated to see, for he knew that the pain it caused Eric hurt far worse than the burns on his hands. Sunlight glistened on the grease on Eric's face as he turned to survey his broken dream.

"If we could have had more time—more steel—more concrete—it might have held," he said.

"It isn't completely ruined, is it?" Alan asked. "Can't you clear away the wreckage, start again?"

"Possibly. Depends on what they want to do in Washington. This river can be licked, and if they'll let me—I'll lick it yet!"

Baker was waving to them from the shack. Slowly, silently, they turned away, started down the steep steps to the waiting launch.

"Mrs. Warren called early this morning, Doctor," a nurse was saying. "She wanted you to call as soon as you could."

They were on the sunporch of the hospital. Eric stretched full-length upon a lounge, while Alan slumped, comfortable and relaxed, in a deep chair.

The wail of an infant came faintly through the corridor.

"That's young Alan Warren Brown," Miss Anderson explained. "We let his mother keep him a little longer than usual this morning—she was worried about her husband. Now he's spoiled, already, and hates going back to the nursery."

Alan laughed heartily. "He's rather young for that—but let Harry and Maryanne have him in the room with them if they want to. It won't hurt him. Harry's pretty glad to be here safe. . . . Well, Eric, feel like facing the press barrage?"

Eric sat up. "Just as well get it over with."

"Dr. Warren, you and Mr. Kane stop there. Now shake his bandaged hand." Lights flashed in their faces. Cameras clicked.

"Is it true, Dr. Warren, that you did all the surgery?" Alan shook his head.

"You burned your hands when you beat out the fire on Dr. Warren's blazing gown, didn't you, Mr. Kane?"

"Have they found Bud Price yet?"

An aged man, stooped, his head bowed, was walking toward the group. Two younger men walked at his side, supporting him.

"Just a minute, fellows," Alan said, and hurried to meet him.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Price," he said as he reached the man's side. The old man took Alan's hand in his two bronzed and calloused hands.

"I know, Alan, I know," he said resignedly. "It had to be." Tears glistened in his eyes. "But if they'd got him out, I know you'd have saved him. Just like you did my daughter's husband. Got to go see him now. Come out and see me, Alan. Got some chickens about ready to fry." The old man walked slowly on.

Alan rescued Eric from the reporters, hurried him into the taxi.

"Come on Eric. We'll get some food—and some sleep. We need it."

Emily was waiting in the doorway for them. She rushed to Alan, her arms encircled his neck pulling his face down so that she could kiss him again and again.

"I'm so glad—so glad you're home safely—so glad." She was laughing and crying. Eric hesitated. Emily ran to him, kissed him on the cheek.

"I know what you did, too, Eric. Dr. Farrell stopped on his way home from the hospital, and told me about the lamp. That was fine of you, Eric. Oh, your poor hands!"

Alan saw the kiss, saw her take Eric's bandaged hands in hers, but he gave no indication of seeing. Instead, he put Emily between Eric and himself and hurried both of them into the house.

"I'm starved, Herminia," he shouted to the walls. "Put on all the food you can find. We'll eat it."

"Now I have to know everything," she ordered. "Begin right where you left me at the dock, and don't miss a single thing."

"So you see, it wasn't much, after all," Alan concluded his recital of the night's events, a story punctuated by mouthfuls of food and swallows of coffee.

"But it was—it was great and heroic," Emily insited. "And how brave of you, Eric, to take that terrible burn to save Alan."

To save Alan for me, Emily thought, and for Sumner. Scars on his hands would never interfere with Eric's work, but if Alan had been burned he might have been forced to abandon obstetrics, maybe all his work. And if his eyes had been hurt—she could not bear to think of his eyes, forever dull. She owed Eric a debt—never to be paid—for bringing Alan home safely. She owed him and his dam even a greater debt for making her realize her love for Alan.

"To save Alan." The words stung Alan. To save him to come home and give up Emily to Eric?

"Dr. Peterson called this morning, Alan," Emily was saying, "from the airport. Said the papers were full of stories about the dam, and noon editions were praising you. He's sending you a contract. Said he'd call you from New York."

"Well, if I'm still asleep when he calls, don't wake me," Alan said with a laugh. "Come on Kane."

"Alan, about last night, about what I said about leaving," Emily began.

"Save it until later, Emily. I have something to say about that too—now!"

Club Women Sorry Year Is Completed

Mrs. Tisdale Concludes Season's Activities With Lecture Before Group At Ruston

The year has died in club circles just as definitely as it died in Tennyson's poems—and without nearly as much grief felt by club women as the poet expressed.

Not that club women are glad to have their very excellent meetings discontinued, but the woman doesn't live who doesn't love a vacation from the regular routine. So they have wound things up very happily with teas and lectures and luncheons, content in knowing that in the fall they will start all over again for a bigger, and better year, as is the tradition of Monroe's women's clubs.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Fifth district women's clubs, completed her year of lecturing and organizing and visiting clubs in the Fifth district, when she spoke before members of the Cosmos club in the attractive home of Mrs. A. Hunt of Ruston.

Mrs. Tisdale at this time urged club women to keep abreast of the times. To keep themselves informed on the vital issues of the day and above all to study carefully the resolutions the General Federation is presenting for discussion. She stressed the necessity of observance of citizenship days, conservation and all civic projects.

In mentioning next year as Golden Jubilee year in the General Federation, she stressed the importance of Jubilee parties honoring pioneer club women where by contributions to Endowment and Foundation funds may be made. In closing she stressed the importance of attendance upon meetings in the district, state and nation when at all possible.

"One of the main objectives of the Golden Jubilee" she said, "is to honor the women who made it possible for us to have such a wonderful organization.

"I am sure that every club, district, and state will want to honor their own pioneers in 1940, and to have the three outstanding pioneers from their state honored by the General Federation in 1941."

Luckridge, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ruston, in a double ring ceremony Thursday evening, June 8, in the presence of a few close friends and relatives.

The bride wore a traveling dress of blue and burgandy chiffon with a blue and burgandy colored hat with white accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of Japanese iris.

The bride is a graduate of Louisiana college and a teacher in the Crowville High school. The groom is a graduate of Tyler Business college and is now connected with a life insurance company in Monroe.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will be at home in Tallulah.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moss and daughter, Olive, of Lake Charles, are guests of Mrs. Moss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, at their plantation home, Grecian Bend.

'MRS. DOC'

CHAPTER XIX

The reflector was only inches from Alan's head when Eric caught it in both hands, pulled it toward him so that the heavy metal container would fall clear.

Agonizing pain shot through his hands, up his arms. Then numbness. His raincoat protected his body, but he felt the intense heat on his face, scorching the flesh, digging at his eyes.

The container missed Alan and Farrell, cleared the table by a hair's breadth, fell to the floor with a crash. A man behind Eric jumped, cut off the gas, pulled the lamp from Eric's desperate grasp.

Eric stood, his teeth digging into his lip, every muscle rigid, his hands flaming torture.

Alan, startled by the crash, looked up. "Eric!"

Farrell was at Eric's side, holding his wrists. Grady was rummaging in a bag for unguents.

"It—would—a—hit—you—Alan!" Eric groaned.

"Well, how do those hands feel now?" Alan asked.

"About like the dam looks." Eric managed to grin.

They stood at the edge of the trestle, high above the broken wreckage in the bright sunlight of a chilly March morning. Far down the river, Alan could see the barge, bearing the injured men, Farrell, Grady, Weber and Father Johnson toward Price's Point and waiting ambulances. Two white-sheeted forms lay on that barge. Twelve others lay there, too, but they, with good luck and care, would recover. Still others sprawled or stood with arms or legs in awkward, hastily made splints. Below him a crew of men dug steadily at a huge mass of gravel. Bud Price's body was still in there.

"There isn't much left, is there?" Eric asked.

Alan looked around. Over the top of the diversion dam into the waters of the lake it had created, a lake now strangely still. Water trickled through a gash at one end of the earth and gravel fill, spilling down to splash on the timbers of the broken trestle. The wheels of a half-buried truck were there, too, looking like a child's toy buried in a sand pile.

It was the damage done the once-splendid framework of the main dam that he hated to see, for he knew that the pain it caused Eric hurt far worse than the burns on his hands. Sunlight glistened on the grease on Eric's face as he turned to survey his broken dream.

"If we could have had more time—more steel—more concrete—it might have held," he said.

"It isn't completely ruined, is it?" Alan asked. "Can't you clear away the wreckage, start again?"

"Possibly. Depends on what they want to do in Washington. This river can be licked, and if they'll let me—I'll lick it yet!"

Baker was waving to them from the shack. Slowly, silently, they turned away, started down the steep steps to the waiting launch.

"Mrs. Warren called early this morning, Doctor," a nurse was saying. "She wanted you to call as soon as you could."

They were on the sunporch of the hospital. Eric stretched full-length upon a lounge, while Alan slumped, comfortable and relaxed, in a deep chair.

"Thank you, Miss Anderson. I'll be going home, soon as that gang of reporters gets off the front door step."

The wail of an infant came faintly through the corridor.

"That's young Alan Warren Brown," Miss Anderson explained. "We let his mother keep him a little longer than usual this morning—she was worried about her husband. Now he's spoiled, already, and hates going back to the nursery."

Alan laughed heartily. "He's rather young for that—but let Harry and Maryanne have him in the room with them if they want to. It won't hurt him. Harry's pretty glad to be here safe. . . . Well, Eric, feel like facing the press barrage?"

"Dr. Warren, you and Mr. Kane stop there. Now shake his bandaged hand." Lights flashed in their faces. Cameras clicked.

"Is it true, Dr. Warren, that you did all the surgery?" Alan shook his head.

"You burned your hands when you beat out the fire on Dr. Warren's blazing gown, didn't you, Mr. Kane?"

"Have they found Bud Price yet?"

An aged man, stooped, his head bowed, was walking toward the group. Two younger men walked at his side, supporting him.

"Just a minute, fellows," Alan said, and hurried to meet him.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Price," he said as he reached the man's side. The old man took Alan's hand in his two bronzed and calloused hands.

"I know, Alan, I know," he said, resignedly. "It had to be." Tears glistened in his eyes. "But if they'd got him out, I know you'd have saved him. Just like you did my daughter's husband. Got to go see him now. Come out and see me, Alan. Got some chickens about ready to fry." The old man walked slowly on.

Alan rescued Eric from the reporters, hurried him into the taxi.

"Come on Eric. We'll get some food—and some sleep. We need it."

Emily was waiting in the doorway for them. She rushed to Alan, her arms encircled his neck pulling his face down so that she could kiss him again and again.

"I'm so glad—so glad you're home safely—so glad." She was laughing and crying. Eric hesitated. Emily ran to him, kissed him on the cheek.

"I know what you did, too, Eric. Dr. Farrell stopped on his way home from the hospital, and told me about the lamp. That was fine of you, Eric. Oh, your poor hands!"

Alan saw the kiss, saw her take Eric's bandaged hands in hers, but he gave no indication of seeing. Instead, he put Emily between Eric and himself and hurried both of them into the house.

"I'm starved, Herminia," he shouted to the walls. "Put on all the food you can find. We'll eat it."

Emily was hanging on to his arm, lovingly, proudly.

"Now I have to know everything," she ordered. "Begin right where you left me at the dock, and don't miss a single thing."

"So you see, it wasn't much, after all," Alan concluded his recital of the night's events, a story punctuated by mouthfuls of food and swallows of coffee.

"But it was—it was great and heroic," Emily insited. "And how brave of you, Eric, to take that terrible burn to save Alan."

To save Alan for me, Emily thought, and for Sumner. Scars on his hands would never interfere with Eric's work, but if Alan had been burned he might have been forced to abandon obstetrics, maybe all his work. And if his eyes had been hurt--she could not bear to think of his eyes, forever dull. She owed Eric a debt—never to be paid—for bringing Alan home safely. She owed him and his dam even a greater debt for making her realize her love for Alan.

"To save Alan." The words stung Alan. To save him to come home and give up Emily to Eric?

"Dr. Peterson called this morning, Alan," Emily was saying, "from the airport. Said the papers were full of stories about the dam, and noon editions were praising you. He's sending you a contract. Said he'd call you from New York."

"Well, if I'm still asleep when he calls, don't wake me," Alan said with a laugh. "Come on Kane."

"Alan, about last night, about what I said about leaving," Emily began.

"Save it until later, Emily. I have something to say about that too—now!"

Club Women Sorry Year Is Completed

Mrs. Tisdale Concludes Season's Activities With Lecture Before Group At Ruston

The year has died in club circles just as definitely as it died in Tennyson's poems—and without nearly as much grief felt by club women as the poet expressed.

Not that club women are glad to have their very excellent meetings discontinued, but the woman doesn't live who doesn't love a vacation from the regular routine. So they have wound things up very happily with teas and lectures and luncheons, content in knowing that in the fall they will start all over again for a bigger, and better year, as is the tradition of Monroe's women's clubs.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Fifth district women's clubs, completed her year of lecturing and organizing and visiting clubs in the Fifth district, when she spoke before members of the Cosmos club in the attractive home of Mrs. A. Hunt of Ruston.

Mrs. Tisdale at this time urged club women to keep abreast of the times. To keep themselves informed on the vital issues of the day and above all to study carefully the resolutions the General Federation is presenting for discussion. She stressed the necessity of observance of citizenship days, conservation and all civic projects.

In mentioning next year as Golden Jubilee year in the General Federation, she stressed the importance of Jubilee parties, honoring pioneer club women where by contributions to Endowment and Foundation funds may be made. In closing she stressed the importance of attendance upon meetings in the district, state and nation, when at all possible.

"One of the main objectives of the Golden Jubilee" she said, "is to honor the women who made it possible for us to have such a wonderful organization.

"I am sure that every club, district, and state will want to honor their own pioneers in 1940, and to have the three outstanding pioneers from their state honored by the General Federation in 1941."

The bride is a graduate of Louisiana college and a teacher in the Crowville High school. The groom is a graduate of Tyler Business college and is now connected with a life insurance company in Monroe.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will be at home in Tallulah.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moss and daughter, Olive, of Lake Charles, are guests of Mrs. Moss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, at their plantation home, Grecian Bend.

At York's

I WONDER if you knew of that very complete and smart hosiery department in York Linen Shops? . . . Incidentally, I saw a fresh, new shipment unpacked yesterday and after examining their quality and comparing prices I must tell you all about it. There was an exquisite hose (2-thread that sells all around town for $1.00 or more) . . . York is featuring for only 79c (a substantial saving, eh!). . . . For vacation wear, there is a business girl's chiffon in 3-thread for 69c you'll love. . . . However, the $1.00 quality in 2-thread is so very, very flattering and I have paid $1.39 for this hose elsewhere. A good thing to remember, is to buy your hose in boxes of three pairs and save money. York is located at 230 DeSiard street.

At Jitney Jungle

FUNNY, isn't it, that men have written odes to Grecian urns, nightingales and what-have-you, but not a single line to a chocolate fudge cake? I wonder why. Chocolate fudge cake, you know, is generally considered man's favorite dessert and you'd think some one of the sterner sex would have waxed poetical before this. Well, I can't write lyrics, but I'll say this much, the man who made the chocolate fudge cake I have for you today has the soul of a poet. Why don't you get one for tomorrow's dessert or save it for Monday night supper. It is baked fresh every day at Jitney Jungle Bakery on North Fourth street, but will remain moist and delicious over night—if kept under lock and key. There is a new spread in their store called "Choc-o-nut," a sort of peanut butter, only it's chocolate. The children will love it.

Why not drop in at Sears this week and pick out several new outdoor pieces for your "outside living room"? They are beautiful, durable and moderate in cost.

I KNOW you have needed a couple of those cool, smart cottons that I saw in Orchid Shop this week. . . . Cleverly displayed to make selection a joy. . . . By the way, did you happen to notice Orchid Shop's "Cotton Week" window? . . . Regular clotheslines were arranged and milady's wash hung out, "not to dry" but to show off in their true styles, fashions and colors. Always a treat in this shop's windows. Charming informality prevailed in the home of Mrs. E. W. Cruse Monday morning, June 5, from 10:30 to 12 o'clock, when she gathered a few friends together for a conversational hour in honor of Miss Doris Brown of Calhoun, bride-to-be.

At White System

NOW . . . that the boy and girl has finished high school . . . comes that needed training for a business career. . . . There are competent schools right here in Monroe and funds are available at The White System for payment of that needed course. . . . What a relief to parents for such convenience. . . . Keeping their families together yet giving them all the requirements needed to further their accomplishments in their chosen professions. The White System is making such loans every day and you just must drop by and see about one for your boy or girl who will want to continue in business school for the rest of the year. Monthly payments arranged so that you hardly miss it.

At York's

I WONDER if you knew of that very complete and smart hosiery department in York Linen Shops? . . . Incidentally, I saw a fresh, new shipment unpacked yesterday and after examining their quality and comparing prices I must tell you all about it. There was an exquisite hose (2-thread that sells all around town for $1.00 or more) . . . York is featuring for only 79c (a substantial saving, eh!). . . . For vacation wear, there is a business girl's chiffon in 3-thread for 69c you'll love. . . . However, the $1.00 quality in 2-thread is so very, very flattering and I have paid $1.39 for this hose elsewhere. A good thing to remember, is to buy your hose in boxes of three pairs and save money. York is located at 230 DeSiard street.

At Jitney Jungle

FUNNY, isn't it, that men have written odes to Grecian urns, nightingales and what-have-you, but not a single line to a chocolate fudge cake? I wonder why. Chocolate fudge cake, you know, is generally considered man's favorite dessert and you'd think some one of the sterner sex would have waxed poetical before this. Well, I can't write lyrics, but I'll say this much, the man who made the chocolate fudge cake I have for you today has the soul of a poet. Why don't you get one for tomorrow's dessert or save it for Monday night supper. It is baked fresh every day at Jitney Jungle Bakery on North Fourth street, but will remain moist and delicious over night—if kept under lock and key. There is a new spread in their store called "Choc-o-nut," a sort of peanut butter, only it's chocolate. The children will love it.

At Sears

IS THERE any woman or man who does not appreciate the comforts and conveniences of an outdoor "living room"? . . . Sears, Roebuck and Co. is showing a special display of Outdoor Furniture for your outside "living room" this week. Doubly enjoyable is the summer lawn or open porch appropriately furnished with colorful, restful outdoor pieces. There is no need then to forego any of the comforts and conveniences of modern inside living rooms. With Sears outdoor furniture they are all easily transplanted to summer's more livable, more desirable out-of-doors. Why not drop in at Sears this week and pick out several new outdoor pieces for your "outside living room"? They are beautiful, durable and moderate in cost.

At R & A Jewelry

NOW . . . you have a perfectly good opportunity to get that guilty feeling off your mind. . . . You know . . . about giving mother so many nice gifts on Mother's Day, and poor father just neglected to the nth degree. . . . Sunday, June 18th, is "Father's Day" . . . and R & A Jewelry Company has the jewelry gift items that fathers like. Belt buckles, rings, watch chains, tie clasps, cuff links, in fact, so many nice things to select from. Do this job Monday . . . redeem yourself with Dad . . . because you love him and he deserves your support.

At Orchid Shop

I KNOW you have needed a couple of those cool, smart cottons that I saw in Orchid Shop this week. . . . Cleverly displayed to make selection a joy. . . . By the way, did you happen to notice Orchid Shop's "Cotton Week" window? . . . Regular clotheslines were arranged and milady's wash hung out, "not to dry" but to show off in their true styles, fashions and colors. Always a treat in this shop's windows. Don't ever fail to "take a peep." . . . You'll find French voiles, shantungs, bembergs, crepes, sheers, etc., priced at $3.98 to $7.98 and another "hot weather group" $1.98 to $2.98. . . . Oh, yes, all fast color, too!

At Style Shop

ARE YOU one of the many who just "let themselves go" and acquired a rather plump figure during the winter months . . . then, the Style Shop has a surprise for you. . . . A new selection of dresses featured there really makes you "look like what you ain't." . . . Slenderizing stout fashions in sizes and half sizes. . . . The moment you slip one of the dresses on you add youth to your figure. . . . There is no obligation to see yourself in one of these fashions. . . . You owe it to your figure to make every effort to improve it . . . the Style Shop will help you . . . 141 DeSiard street.

At D. Masur

WHAT day is June 18th . . . ? You're right, it's "Father's Day" . . . a day that Dad will get some well-deserved attention and praise. It's the day to express what you've felt all year long. . . . Of course, you'll want to please Dad in any gift you might select for him and D. Masur & Sons has taken care of the situation. There are gifts too numerous to mention and prices in keeping with your budget, too! Make it your important stop this week. . . . D. Masur & Sons has a hundred and one items ready to show you.

At Griffin's

HAVE YOU seen the new backgrounds recently installed at the new Griffin's Studio? . . . My! What a flattering photograph you can have with such equipment and with Griffin's skilled workmanship. . . . This studio can match any quality photo that you can get elsewhere for much less money: and from the way I noticed crowds coming and going from this studio this week. . . . Lots of folks think as I do. . . . You'll enjoy browsing around this new, modern studio . . . looking at the exquisite work that this studio is constantly turning out. Take your father to Griffin's first thing tomorrow and have his photograph made for YOUR FATHER'S DAY GIFT to yourself. . . . Or, maybe have your own picture made for your children. . . . Remember, Griffin's Studio has moved into their new place directly opposite the Paramount.

At Dan Cohen

FATHER'S DAY calls for a special gift and here it is. . . . Dan Cohen is offering an unheard of gift item in 6 pairs of men's fine socks for $1.00, absolutely guaranteed for 6 months or they will give you more socks. . . . Isn't that a deal, now? The colors are just what dad wants. . . . Solid blacks or whites. Another sock item in silk and rayon at 25c pair, in all popular shades, and gift box included. Maybe he will want a pair of those nice looking house slippers I saw for only $1.00. Anyway, he will like the leather-lined and leather-soled house slippers in blue, black or brown at $1.99. . . . Look, there are those popular elk oxfords in white with flexible sole and heavily ventilated at $2.99. . . . See Dan Cohen's windows. . . . You are sure to find something for that Father's Day gift.

See you next week.

Central Savings Bank Now Air-Conditioned With Gas

Installation Of Unit And Other Improvements Made At Cost Of $10,000

Although clients of Central Savings Bank and Trust company are still receiving their usual warm reception from officials and employes of the institution, they are now enjoying the comforts of air conditioning while transacting business there.

The air-conditioning unit at the bank, recently installed and placed in operation June 1, by United Gas corporation, is unique. It is operated by natural gas—the first of its kind sold in Louisiana and the second sold in the south.

Installation of the unit and other improvements were made by the bank at an approximate cost of $10,000, according to J. S. Washburn, vice-president and trust officer. The other improvements consisted principally of redecoration of walls of the bank proper and walls and ceilings of conference rooms.

The absorption method of refrigeration with gas—the same as used in a gas-operated household refrigerator—is utilized in cooling the air in the bank, C. Alston Prophit, district manager here of United Gas corporation, revealed. The system was installed under the direct supervision of engineers of the company.

The air-conditioning unit provides the bank, including its conference rooms, with an abundance of softly cool, fresh air, air containing the scientifically ideal amount of humidity. Mr. Washburn said officials of the bank felt that, in installing the system, the institution had taken a decidely progressive step, a step that had brought its building completely up to date.

Mr. Prophit said the unit installed by the gas corporation not only cooled the air in the bank to the proper temperature, but filtered and washed it as well. He mentioned, incidentally, that local workmen were used, as far as possible, in making the installation.

The air-conditioning unit is located on the rear mezzanine of the bank and from there the cool, pure air is carried to the bank proper and the conference rooms through vents. As air from the exterior is drawn into the bank building, it is humidified or dehumidified, depending on weather conditions on the outside. This is done automatically. The humidity is increased or decreased to the scientific ideal as it passes through a spray of water.

The water spray, however, does more than control the humidity. It completes the cleaning process started by the air filter. Gas heat is utilized in the refrigerating process just as it is in a gas-operated household refrigerator.

"While no one has complained," said Mr. Washburn, "we feel we have remedied a condition objectionable both to the public and our employes by making our building more comfortable for summer."

Mr. Washburn explained that the bank had chosen the natural gas system of air conditioning, not only because of its effectiveness and the quietness of operation of the unit, but because of the economy of operation. He reminded, in this connection, however, that some electricity is used in the operation of the system—to operate the fan that draws air into and circulates it through the building. After the air is filtered and washed, it is propelled by this fan through a series of refrigerated pipes and chilled to the temperature desired.

The bank was characterized by Mr. Prophit as far seeing and forward looking in choosing the gas method of air conditioning. "It seems particularly appropriate to me," he said, "because natural gas, more than any one other factor, has been responsible for the growth of Monroe.

Mr. Prophit explained that while the bank was the first to purchase a gas air conditioning unit in the state, a number had been sold since. He said such air conditioning was far beyond the pioneering and experimental stage, that it had been in wide use for quite a while in the middle west. He had been assured by United Gas corporation engineers, he said, that gas air conditioning would be available for the smallest residence, as it now is for large commercial buildings, by next summer.

The bank officials feel, according to Mr. Washburn, that the system they chose will live up to every expectation. He said it had the full backing of United Gas corporation and carried the company's guarantee. Installation of the air conditioning was started about the middle of April and completed on schedule, June 1. It was installed and other improvements made without any interruption in banking activities.

Central Savings Bank Now Air-Conditioned With Gas

Installation Of Unit And Other Improvements Made At Cost Of $10,000

Although clients of Central Savings Bank and Trust company are still receiving their usual warm reception from officials and employes of the institution, they are now enjoying the comforts of air conditioning while transacting business there.

The air-conditioning unit at the bank, recently installed and placed in operation June 1, by United Gas corporation, is unique. It is operated by natural gas—the first of its kind sold in Louisiana and the second sold in the south.

Installation of the unit and other improvements were made by the bank at an approximate cost of $10,000, according to J. S. Washburn, vice-president and trust officer. The other improvements consisted principally of redecoration of walls of the bank proper and walls and ceilings of conference rooms.

The absorption method of refrigeration with gas—the same as used in a gas-operated household refrigerator—is utilized in cooling the air in the bank, C. Alston Prophit, district manager here of United Gas corporation, revealed. The system was installed under the direct supervision of engineers of the company.

The air-conditioning unit provides the bank, including its conference rooms, with an abundance of softly cool, fresh air, air containing the scientifically ideal amount of humidity. Mr. Washburn said officials of the bank felt that, in installing the system, the institution had taken a decidely progressive step, a step that had brought its building completely up to date.

Mr. Prophit said the unit installed by the gas corporation not only cooled the air in the bank to the proper temperature, but filtered and washed it as well. He mentioned, incidentally, that local workmen were used, as far as possible, in making the installation.

The air-conditioning unit is located on the rear mezzanine of the bank and from there the cool, pure air is carried to the bank proper and the conference rooms through vents. As air from the exterior is drawn into the bank building, it is humidified or dehumidified, depending on weather conditions on the outside. This is done automatically. The humidity is increased or decreased to the scientific ideal as it passes through a spray of water.

The water spray, however, does more than control the humidity. It completes the cleaning process started by the air filter. Gas heat is utilized in the refrigerating process just as it is in a gas-operated household refrigerator.

"While no one has complained," said Mr. Washburn, "we feel we have remedied a condition objectionable both to the public and our employes by making our building more comfortable for summer."

Mr. Washburn explained that the bank had chosen the natural gas system of air conditioning, not only because of its effectiveness and the quietness of operation of the unit, but because of the economy of operation. He reminded, in this connection, however, that some electricity is used in the operation of the system—to operate the fan that draws air into and circulates it through the building. After the air is filtered and washed, it is propelled by this fan through a series of refrigerated pipes and chilled to the temperature desired.

The bank was characterized by Mr. Prophit as far seeing and forward looking in choosing the gas method of air conditioning. "It seems particularly appropriate to me," he said, "because natural gas, more than any one other factor, has been responsible for the growth of Monroe.

"We of the United Gas corporation," he continued, "are proud of the Central Savings Bank officials for having been the first in Louisiana to purchase one of our systems. It reflects their progressiveness."

Mr. Prophit explained that while the bank was the first to purchase a gas air conditioning unit in the state, a number had been sold since. He said such air conditioning was far beyond the pioneering and experimental stage, that it had been in wide use for quite a while in the middle west. He had been assured by United Gas corporation engineers, he said, that gas air conditioning would be available for the smallest residence, as it now is for large commercial buildings, by next summer.

The bank officials feel, according to Mr. Washburn, that the system they chose will live up to every expectation. He said it had the full backing of United Gas corporation and carried the company's guarantee. Installation of the air conditioning was started about the middle of April and completed on schedule, June 1. It was installed and other improvements made without any interruption in banking activities.

"Wars and rumors of wars . . . nation against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: . . . famines, pestilences and earthquakes, in divers place. All these are the beginning of sorrows."—Matthew 24:6-8.

The Galilean Teacher said that the coming of these things would be a "sign" that the final consumation of the age in which they appeared, was near. Said He, "When ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors." Are these things apparent today? The headlines of our daily publications carries the answer. There is one and only one remedy, for the ills of this sin-cursed, war-torn world, that is Christ. He invites the distressed and the troubled. "Come to me . . . and rest." —Matthew 11-28. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
Corner Auburn Avenue And North Second Street

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 11, 1939.

Golden Text: Psalms 36:6. "Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep: O Lord, thou preservest man

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth brings the elements of liberty. On its banner is the soul-inspired motto, 'Slavery is abolished.' The power of God brings deliverance to the captive." (p. 224).

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

What would happen to civilization if all churches were destroyed? We dare not think of what would come to us in a few brief months. Every intelligent individual desires to live in a city and community where churches and schools are to be found easily. If these institutions are of such tremendous value to American civilization, certainly they merit our attendance and support. Our church invites you to attend every service and take part in every phase of the worship of God. There is a great Sunday school awaiting every member of your family. Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. Preaching services at 11:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8:0 to which the public is invited.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed today at 11 o'clock. Let all come and "Remember Christ" by acknowledging him as their Saviour who suffered and died for sinners. At the evening hour the pastor will deliver a message on an evangelistic subject. We are looking for good congregations at both services today as we have started in on the second half of the year's work. The attendance at Sunday school holds up well—the average being more than one hundred. There has been a marked increase of interest in the young people's work. A good number attended the Service union at Oak Ridge Thursday evening.

Guy Pinkard, one of our fine young men, a former student at Northeast Junior college, conducted our midweek prayer meeting last Wednesday evening. He has been attending the state university the past session. One of our largest 11 o'clock congregations was present last Sunday morning to hear Wallace Reaves deliver his first message in his home church. He expects to enter college next fall to prepare himself for the ministry.

A splendid choir has been organized and we promise all who come some good singing and fine music. J. O. Spain will lead the prayer meeting next week, and the Wesley Brotherhood will hold its regular monthly meeting next Thursday evening at which time all the members will bring their wives as guests. The Missionary society will meet in circles next Tuesday, the places to be announced at services today. Both Epworth leagues will meet at 6:45 this evening.

STONE AVENUE METHOODIST CHURCH

I. L. Yeager, Pastor

"Wars and rumors of wars . . . nation against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: . . . famines, pestilences and earthquakes, in divers place. All these are the beginning of sorrows."—Matthew 24:6-8.

The Galilean Teacher said that the coming of these things would be a "sign" that the final consumation of the age in which they appeared, was near. Said He, "When ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors." Are these things apparent today? The headlines of our daily publications carries the answer. There is one and only one remedy, for the ills of this sin-cursed, war-torn world, that is Christ. He invites the distressed and the troubled. "Come to me . . . and rest. —Matthew 11-28. An invitation is extended to all who will, to worship with us in the following services: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. The Lord's supper will be taken at 11 o'clock. BERNICE FIRM HONORS FRIENDS AT BARBECUE

BERNICE, La., June 10.—(Special)—One of the biggest affairs here in recent years was the barbecue given by the Sally Wholesale company honoring its customers and friends and celebrating the dedication of its new sales garage. An estimated two thousand persons attended the barbecue.

Two cows, 6 hogs, 15 goats, 10 geese, 65 chickens and one hundred pounds of fish were served at the barbecue, along with many kinds of cold drinks. The guests ate from a table encircling the entire back side of the garage. Music was furnished for the occasion by a choir made up of the best local voices, and the crowd also was entertained by a local string band.

Mayor J. M. Talbot was master of ceremonies, and Mr. C. T. Sally, oldest member of the Sally Wholesale company, gave a short history of the firm.

WPA LEADERS WIND UP CAMP

State WPA leaders left Camp Ki-Ro-Li Saturday pleased at the results of the third annual training school for WPA recreation leaders, held at the camp during the past two weeks. John A. Zimmerman, state WPA recreation director, who was in charge of the training schools, left Saturday morning for New Orleans.

The schools, the first of which was attended by recreation leaders from north Louisiana and the second by south Louisiana leaders, officially ended Friday night with a public pageant depicting the early history of the state. However, state leaders stayed over until Saturday morning to wind up the program.

Members of the New Orleans district staff who acted as instructors, in addition to Mr. Zimmerman and Mrs. Louise A. Adger, state field supervisor of WPA recreation activities, were Gustave Leaumont, Lashley Micas, Charles Runte and Miss Miriam Summersgill.

'Alexander Graham Bell' Opens At Paramount Today

Ann Rutherford, Mickey Rooney and Virginia Grey in "The Hardys Ride High," playing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Paramount theater. Other supporting stars are Lewis Stone, Fay Holden and Cecilia Parker.

Granny gives the OK to Priscilla Lane's boy friend, Jeffrey Lynn, in a delightful scene from "Yes, My Darling Daughter," playing at the Capitol theater Thursday. May Robson is Granny. The cast also includes Fay Bainter, Roland Young, Genevieve Tobin and Ian Hunter.

A new Carole Lombard will appear on the screen of the Capitol theater Wednesday when David Selznick's "Made for Each Other" plays its engagement there. Miss Lombard is loved and splendidly supported by James Stewart in their first screen hit together.

Big moments in the life of the inventor of the telephone! Don Ameche in the title role of Darryl F. Zanuck's production "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," playing today, Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount theater, is supported by Loretta Young and Henry Fonda. The central figure of Ameche as he looks in this cosmopolitan production was drawn by the distinguished artist, Norman Rockwell.

Jesse James Here Today At Capitol

Fine Cast Pictures Story Of America's Most Famous Outlaw

THE most romantic outlaw in the history of America, the desperado whose daring colored a whole era and [illegible] it with the title of the [illegible] Seventies—the man who invented bank holdups and introduced train robberies—has been brought to the screen at last in Darryl F. Zanuck's production "Jesse James," the 20th Century-Fox Technicolor epic starring Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott, which opens at the Capitol theater today.

One of the most difficult problems facing Producer Darryl F. Zanuck, who had already shown his good judgment by casting Tyrone Power in the title role, was to ascertain a fair, accurate picture of what Jesse James was really like, and then to present that picture with as much authenticity as possible, taking care neither to whitewash nor blacken the character of the man.

Two years of research into the life and times of this fascinating character [illegible] before the actual production of the film was begun.

Henry King, the daring director of such Zanuck hits as "Lloyds of London," "In Old Chicago" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band," was entrusted with the megaphone, and made a trip into the Ozark region to select actual locales. The little town of Pineville, Mo., was finally chosen, and it was here that a vast company, including besides Power, Fonda, Miss Kelly and Scott, Henry Hull, Slim Summerville, J. Edward Bromberg, Brian Donlevy, John Carradine, Donald Meek, John Russell and Jane Darwell travelled to shoot this gripping photoplay.

Nunnally Johnson, the author of some of the screen's greatest successes, was selected to weld this colorful mass of story material into a screen play that throbbed with life. Johnson also acted as associate producer on the production.

"Jesse James" opens with the introduction of the "Iron Horse" in its journey through the old west cutting ruthlessly across the farms of the simple, hardy pioneers.

It shows how Jesse James and his equally notorious brother, Frank (Henry Fonda), began their career of crime as a direct result of the murder of their mother by an unscrupulous hireling of the St. Louis Midland railroad, in the person of one Barshee, played by Brian Donlevy.

Jesse shoots Barshee and swears to avenge his mother's death. A murderer with an every-increasing price on his head, he goes from raid to raid.

Love comes to Jesse in the person of Zerelda, better known as Zee, played by Nancy Kelly, a gently nurtured girl who gave up a life of ease to share the wild, reckless life of the hunted outlaw as his wife, and to bear his son alone in the hills.

When Zee finally leaves him, Jesse becomes a cold and ruthless desperado, and the film follows his reckless deeds across five states, climaxing in his betrayal and death at the hands of Bob Ford, the "dirty little coward" of song and story, who sold him out to the law.

Ameche And Miss Young In Big Cast

Story Of Inventor Of Telephone Makes Stirring Film Saga

OUT of the stirring past of this great nation emerges a drama accomplishment that symbolizes the tradition of America—the story of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. His is the dramatic romance of one who dreamed and struggled, loved and achieved. Simple, human and inspiring, the magnificent motion picture, coming today to the Paramount theater, pays homage to his genius and to a woman's devotion. Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," a Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox, with Don Ameche (in the title role), Loretta Young and Henry Fonda sharing stellar honors, tells with power, with humor and with profound humanity the drama of a great man and the love that inspired him.

Bell's is a story that belongs to America—the obscure young scientist, his discouraging struggles, his invention of the telephone, his desperate battle against public ridicule and powerful opponents, his ultimate triumph, the flame of his genius kept alight by the love and faith of the woman he adored.

So intense was the struggle against poverty, disappointment and powerful opponents—a struggle which prevented his marriage to the girl he loved—that Bell halted on the threshold of his invention ready to sacrifice it so he could find happiness with Mabel Hubbard. To her, in his darkest hour, he wrote:

"Ever since I held you in my arms, I've known! My invention must be given up. This is little enough to do if it means that I may call you sweetheart and wife! The telephone will be born some day and I do not care one bit who gets the glory so long as the world gets the benefit. . . ."

But the courageous Mabel spurred on the dreamer who believed men could talk through a wire. It was their romance that gave the world the power to span oceans and continents with the human voice.

"When next you talk vast distances to those dear to you," says Associate Producer Kenneth Macgowan, "remember it was a great romance that wrought the miracle!"

Included in the cast are Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Spring Byington and the three sisters of Loretta Young: Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young and Georgianna Young. Irving Cummings directed the screen play by Lamar Trotti, based on an original story by Ray Harris.

'Alexander Graham Bell' Opens At Paramount Today

Ann Rutherford, Mickey Rooney and Virginia Grey in "The Hardys Ride High," playing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Paramount theater. Other supporting stars are Lewis Stone, Fay Holden and Cecilia Parker.

Granny gives the OK to Priscilla Lane's boy friend, Jeffrey Lynn, in a delightful scene from "Yes, My Darling Daughter," playing at the Capitol theater Thursday. May Robson is Granny. The cast also includes Fay Bainter, Roland Young, Genevieve Tobin and Ian Hunter.

A new Carole Lombard will appear on the screen of the Capitol theater Wednesday when David Selznick's "Made for Each Other" plays its engagement there. Miss Lombard is loved and splendidly supported by James Stewart in their first screen hit together.

Big moments in the life of the inventor of the telephone! Don Ameche in the title role of Darryl F. Zanuck's production "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," playing today, Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount theater, is supported by Loretta Young and Henry Fonda. The central figure of Ameche as he looks in this cosmopolitan production was drawn by the distinguished artist, Norman Rockwell.

Jesse James Here Today At Capitol

Fine Cast Pictures Story Of America's Most Famous Outlaw

THE most romantic outlaw in the history of America, the desperado whose daring colored a whole era and endowed it with the title of the "Serious Seventies"—the man who invented bank holdups and introduced train robberies—has been brought to the screen at last in Darryl F. Zanuck's production, "Jesse James," the 20th Century-Fox Technicolor epic, starring Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott, which opens at the Capitol theater today.

One of the most difficult problems facing Producer Darryl F. Zanuck, who had already shown his good judgment by casting Tyrone Power in the title role, was to ascertain a fairly accurate picture of what Jesse James was really like, and then to present that picture with as much authenticity as possible, taking care neither to whitewash nor blacken the character of the man.

Two years of research into the life and times of this fascinating character before the actual production of the film was begun.

Henry King, the distinguished director of such Zanuck hits as "Lloyds of London," "In Old Chicago" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band," was entrusted with the megaphone, and made a trip into the Ozark region to select actual locales. The little town of Pineville, Mo., was finally chosen, and it was here that a vast company, including, besides Power, Fonda, Miss Kelly and Scott, Henry Hull, Slim Summerville, J. Edward Bromberg, Brain Donlevy, John Carradine, Donald Meek, John Russell and Jane Darwell, travelled to shoot this gripping photoplay.

Nunnally Johnson, the author of some of the screen's greatest successes, was selected to weld this colorful mass of story material into a screen play that throbbed with life. Johnson also acted as associate producer on the production.

"Jesse James" opens with the introduction of the "Iron Horse" in its journey through the old west, cutting ruthlessly across the farms of the simple, hardy pioneers.

It shows how Jesse James and his equally notorious brother, Frank (Henry Fonda), began their career of crime as a direct result of the murder of their mother by an unscrupulous hireling of the St. Louis Midland railroad, in the person of one Bershee, played by Brain Donlevy.

Jesse shoots Barshee and swears to avenge his mother's death. A murderer with an every-increasing price on his head, he goes from raid to raid.

Love comes to Jesse in the person of Zerelda, better known as Zee, played by Nancy Kelly, a gently nurtured girl who gave up a life of ease to share the wild, reckless life of this hunted outlaw as his wife, and to bear his son alone in the hills.

When Zee finally leaves him, Jesse becomes a cold and ruthless desperado, and the film follows his reckless deeds across five states, climaxing in his betrayal and death at the hands of Bob Ford, the "dirty little coward" of song and story, who sold him out to the law.

Dear Mr. Ewing:

The ultimate purpose of every advertisement, whether promotional or institutional, is to bring to the store people who desire to buy the store's merchandise. Advertising cannot promote the interests of the retailer unless it first promotes the interests of his customers.

Our advertisement of Sunday June 4th, in the Morning-World, calling our customer's attention to "Vacation-time" and our complete stock of travel clothes, proved to be very effective.

We find that advertising in the Monroe-News-Star and the Morning-World, when intelligently employed to promote the sale of timely, desirenble merchandise, is a powerful force in increasing the sales volume.

In no other way can we inform so many prospective buyers in such a short period of time, about the uses, benefits, and superior features of the Palace merchandise and services.

Advertising in the News-Star and Morning-World performs an indispensable service for our customers.

Yours very truly,

THE OTHER AMAZONS HOWLED WITH GLEE, FOR THEY ENJOYED THE EMBARRASSMENT OF IMPERIOUS KULEEAH.
"I WILL MAKE YOU LOVE ME," SHE CRIED ANGRILY. "I AM STRONG. YOU SAW --- I CONQUERED A MAN!"
"HE WAS WEAK AND CRIPPLED," TARZAN TAUNTED. AGAIN THE WARRIOR WOMEN HOOTED AT KULEEAH.
HOGARTH-
"YOU HAVE CAPTURED HIM, BUT HE IS MASTER," THEY SHOUTED.
NEXT WEEK: THE DUEL
"I CAN CONQUER ANY MAN," CRIED THE WILD-HEARTED KULEEAH. "HE WILL LOVE ME—OR DIE!"
